AMERICAN people generally are inclined to take a view of the European war situation in opposition to Germany. The following from an article in this month's "Sunset" gives a German view. For a real good explanation of the various actions on the part of the German Emperor, conducive to a European disturbance a recent article in the "World's Work, September Number, page 68, will give the best instruction:

The year 1912 marks the beginning of a period of great uneasiness among European nations, which threatened at any moment to produce a world-wide conflagration. The intense nervousness of the powers was rapidly producing an impossible condition. At about this time an understanding was reached between France and Russia and preparations begun on a huge scale for the crushing of German ambitions. The first move was an increase in the Russian standing army. In 1912 the reserves of the preceding year instead of being discharged were ordered to remain with the colors, thereby automatically increasing the Russian standing army from 800,000 to 1,300,000. Naturally, Germany viewed this increase with considerable alarm. During the year 1913 two important developments stand out prominently. One, the visit of General Joffre, now the Commander-in-Chief of the French forces, and at that time the head of the General Staff, to St. Petersburg for the purpose of completing arrangements with the Russian General Staff for a combined attack upon Germany on the part of France and Russia. The other, the activities of M. Delcasse, who was then the French Ambassador at St. Petersburg, in arranging a large French loan for the purpose of developing strategic railways and military facilities, and for the purpose of increasing the Russian army still further by the addition of four army corps. As a direct result of the visits of Joffre and the arrangements of Delcasse, Russia had planned a general mobilization for October 1, 1914, intending to put itself upon a war footing and concentrate its troops on the German and Austrian frontiers.

It is difficult for the German mind to separate the Emperor from the German people. It is a monstrous absurdity to place the blame of this war upon his shoulders. The Emperor has been essentially a peace ruler. The triumphs of Germany during the last twenty-five years speak volumes for the success of his reign in the fields of industry and commerce. Only a few months ago Mr. Carnegie presented to him a tribute in the form of an expression of the admiration of the lovers of peace for his successful efforts in avoiding war during his twenty-six years at the head of the German Government. If the German Emperor had been a "War Lord" he would have had many opportunities to satisfy his warlike ambitions. If he had been glory-mad, England and Russia have given him many opportunities to start a general conflagration, notably during the Russo-Japanese War and the Morocco situation. Moreover, it is not reasonable to assume that the German Emperor would in the closing years of his reign risk the accumulated triumphs of peace on the gamble of a war in which the might of Europe would be arrayed against him. He has devoted all his days as a prince of peace in up-building the German Empire. No ruler ever brought a finer sense of devotion or nobler ideals to the accomplishment of his task than Wilhelm II of Germany.—Herman Ridder in November number of Sunset, The Pacific Monthly.

JUST why the opposition to No. 318, a measure proposing a daily wage of five dollars to members of the legislature, should suffer so ignominiously at the hands of Oregon voters in general and of this locality in particular is a proper question.

Do the people of Oregon think their public officials should donate their time and services to the state? Do they expect the man who represents them in their legislative halls to supplement his salary by acting as a private agent in the promotion of legislation for the moneyed interests of this or some other state? Do they consider the honor of the position ample pay for the financial outlay, loss of time and neglect of personal business? Do they consider that a three dollar man is big enough to make satisfactory laws for the people of this state? Or, do they think the five dollars a day was an insufficient raise, a mere sop, an increase dangerous to a future rational increase, and therefore refused, out of proper consideration for the merits of the office?

There are probably not more than three or four counties in the state where a legislative candidate can make the campaign for the amount of his salary, not mentioning the time lost and the neglect of his business. If elected he cannot go to Salem and live respectably on his salary. And while there, he cannot employ some one to attend to his affairs at home, be they ever so conscientious, for the amount of his salary. And if the legislator's business is a business of any consequence, he stands to lose several times the amount of the salary, through the neglect, inability or wilful intention of an employee.

The only way to get efficient service, honest service, willing service in the state legislature is to pay for it and the pay should be in proportion to the anticipated duties of the office, the ability of the men desired, and the dignity of the state.

Some of "Edd" Howe's Sayings

Some women marry for love, some for money, and some for a home. It is not known why men marry.

There is usually enough of everything on the table except cream.

Who ever saw a man and wife who are both red-headed?

Soup is too hot and ice water is too cold.

Every married woman looks as if she needed a little more love, but what she needs is a little more money.

You can't say anything complimentary to a woman that will surprise her.

Almost any woman knows how many dishes of ice-cream there are to a gallon.

Probably this expression is used by people more than any other: "Everything is blamed on me."

An Active Liver Means Health

If you want good health, a clear complexion and freedom from Dizziness, Constipation, Biliousness, Headaches and Indigestion, take Dr. King's New Life Pills. They drive out fermenting and undigested foods, clear the Blood and cure Constipation. Only 25c. at your druggist.

A surgeon practicing among the shiftless, poverty-stricken mountaineers of the Blue Ridge hollows was recently summoned to the bedside of a lank, chin-whiskered hill-billy, stricken with a sluggish fever. Some two months prior a barrel of whiskey had been added to the meagre possessions of the hill-billy's family—the ethics of the acquisition does not enter into this tale—and of this the good doctor had learned; not, however, through any member of the hill-billy's family. Desiring to tone up the patient with a stimulant, the doctor concluded his instructions thus: "Now, madam, the best thing for you to do is before each meal to give Jim a good, strong whiskey toddy." "Laws sakes, doctor," replied the woman of the house, "we-all ain't got no whiskey an' ain't got no money fer to buy it neither." "What, no whiskey?" exclaimed the doctor severely. "I know you had a barrel of it here two months ago." "Yassir, I know," came the prompt explanation: "but a bar'l o' whiskey don't las' long in a family what can't afford to keep a cow!"

Kid gloves are going up, too. We have a perfectly good pair of white kid gloves which we wore at a K. P. banquet about thirty years ago, and will trade them for four pounds of cane sugar. As far as we are concerned, kid gloves can go sky high and stay up there, but for the love of Mike don't elevate wheat cakes.—Rann, Manchester, Ia., Press.

To stop an advertisement to save money is like stopping a watch to save time.—Johnson, Bowen, Ill., Chronicle.

To the Editor:
A recent article published by the American press seems to be raising a question in the minds of many good citizens. The article referred to states that comparatively a very few Canadian born citizens are enlisting for service in the British army. Why should it surprise any thoughtful mind? Canada is a part of America, not England. What uplift has she ever had from England socially, morally, or intellectually? What inspiration or song of honest love has ever sung its way over the brine to Canada's shore from Briton? Canada owes her spirit of liberty to sentiments borrowed, caught from her "Yankee cousins" which the boys in Canada love one hundred to one better than any being that brags and blows of English blood. Why? Because the English element which comes to America is continuously blowing about "Auld" England while they live in America's liberty and bounty, and yet they would trail the land on which they have come to live in the dust if they could. That the Union Jack floats over Canada is true but how many of the boys ever lend a hand to pull up that flag? They were born under it. The writer was born there and many dear friends and loving memories call regard and esteem but the spirit of his Canada school days "America for Americans" still sings in his heart. Old Glory has been his pride and protector these many years, and I should regret to think the Canadian boys were tarnishing their good name by smearing themselves with Briton's dirt or trouble.—Reader.

NOTES OF THE W. C. T. U.

The liquor people continue to do violence to their cause by the literature they send out. By the black faced type on one of their posters the uninformed might conclude that the entire Methodist Episcopal church was wet. Six bishops, one Catholic Cardinal and one plain preacher are squared off in little frames and dispersed over the face of this poster which carries in its black-faced announcement this startling information. "It (prohibition) proposes to remove jurisdiction from the church and to place it under secular law." It is all perfectly clear now. The saloon men are spending their money so fully this campaign because they are afraid something is going to be removed from the church. How proud the church must be of these defenders of its jurisdiction.

On Tuesday, Nov. 10, Mt. Scott Union will meet at the home of Mrs. Walsh. A meeting recently announced in this column to be held at the Walsh home was changed to the Friends church because of the great interest in the referendum measures to be discussed.

PRODUCERS' LIST

Parcel Post System to Include a Direct Service From Producer to Consumer.

In order to extend the facilities of the parcel post service as rapidly as possible, and to give the public every possible advantage in connection therewith, the Post Office Department is at present engaged in working out a system whereby the producer and consumer of farm and dairy products can be brought in direct communication.

The Portland, Oregon, Post Office has been designated by the Department to compile a list of names and addresses of producers who desire to sell country produce direct to the consumer. Such a list will be revised and reprinted at frequent intervals, will be kept posted in all post office stations, and will be delivered by carrier to any one who desires to secure it.

The list will contain the names and addresses of all persons who have indicated to the Postmaster at Portland, Oregon, that they are in a position to handle produce in this manner, and wish to do so, together with the character of the produce they can furnish (under appropriate headings such as "butter", "eggs", "fruits and nuts", and "general produce"), the prices and terms of payment, change of price, and such other descriptive matter or information as it may be necessary to furnish.

The list will be printed on or about the first of each month, and if a producer wishes his name to remain on the list he should advise the Postmaster not later than the twentieth of the month; otherwise his name will not be reprinted. This is necessary in order that the list shall not be encumbered with unavailable names.

Parcel post packages are delivered throughout the entire city of Portland daily except Sunday. All packages received prior to eight A. M. are delivered that day. Shippers should time their packages to the best advantage and when perishable goods are due to arrive in this city Saturdays after eight A. M., special delivery stamps should be affixed, thereby securing immediate delivery upon arrival.

Shippers should familiarize themselves as far as possible with parcel post rates and conditions, requirements as to packing and wrapping, time necessary for transportation and delivery, etc. This information will be furnished in response to a request on this office, or can be obtained from any postmaster. This office will be pleased to enter into correspondence with any one interested in this service, or who desires to be included in the list of producers or wishes to take advantage of it.

F. S. MYERS, Postmaster.

How to Put the Gopher out of Business

A farmer tells us that he has practically rid his farm of gophers by the use of gasoline. He carries a bottle and a bunch of cotton batting with him while working in the field and when he sees a gopher run into a hole he pours some gasoline upon a wad of cotton and places it at the mouth of the hole and covers the opening with dirt. The gas fumes are heavier than air and goes to the bottom of the hole. In an attempt to get air, the gopher comes to the top of the hole and the gas does the rest. Remove cotton in about half an hour and Mr. Gopher will be dead. The plan will apply to many other burrowing animals.

It Really Does Relieve Rheumatism

Everybody who is afflicted with Rheumatism in any form should by all means keep a bottle of Sloan's Liniment on hand. The minute you feel pain or soreness in a joint or muscle, bathe it with Sloan's Liniment. Do not rub it. Sloan's penetrates almost immediately to the seat of pain, relieving the hot, tender, swollen feeling and making the part easy and comfortable. Get a bottle of Sloan's Liniment for 25 cents of any druggist and have it in the house—against colds, sore and swollen joints, rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica and like ailments. Your money back if not satisfied, but it does give almost instant relief.

According to plans of the Inter-State Bridge Commission, $250,000 in 5 per cent bridge bonds will be placed on the market within a short time. This is to be made a popular sale and the bonds will be offered in amounts of $200, $500 and $1000. If this block of bonds meets with public favor, construction work on the bridge can be commenced at once.
