

A LOT of effort is being made just now to prove the threats, made before election that voting dry would ruin the business interests of the state, will come true. Already this brewery and that, are preparing to close down and throw "so many hundred men out of work." Don't worry about that. These "so many hundred" men have been producing an unnecessary article that sponge like, absorbed the labor products of thousands of others, who are now about to be relieved of this constant drainage upon their production.

Being relieved, instead of making their weekly, or daily deposit, at the agency of the breweries, they will make their deposits with the grocer, the butcher, the clothier or the bank. In the place of a few alcoholic vampires getting the best of the habitual boozier, that person will be allowed to accumulate a little wealth himself. As his bank account grows, business will take on new life and the fellows who have been driving booze wagons will find profitable jobs in groceries, markets, or on construction work, along lines that make for permanent improvement. Just now they are telling us taxes are going up on account of going dry. They may, temporarily. But the reduced cost of state maintenance will offset the increase and in a couple of years there will be a readjustment. The percent of levy on land may be raised. The percent of levy to meet criminal and vagrancy prosecutions will be reduced, the account will balance and social safety will have been enlarged.

"Mr. G. F. Rinehart, of Phoenix, Arizona, calls attention to a specific case showing how the liquor traffic increases taxes. Mr. James McKisson, now a resident of Peoria, Arizona, showed Mr. Rinehart a tax receipt for $20.90 on land in Kansas. This land had been traded for land at Peoria, Arizona, even exchange of value. The tax receipt for the assessment on the Peoria land was $105.73, or five times as much in wet Arizona as in dry Kansas.

Mr. Ora R. Weed also traded 140 of Kansas land for 120 acres near Peoria, Arizona, the two lots being of practically the same valuation. The tax on the Kansas land was $17.42, and on the Arizona land $136.57.

Arizona got wise to these things and voted dry on November 3."

We acknowledge the receipt of a valuable article on the prohibition amendment some time ago, which it was the intention to use, but which got misplaced and was not recovered until after election.

NOTES OF THE W. C. T. U.

Mrs. Minnie Trumbull will be in Lents on Tuesday, Nov. 24, and deliver a lecture on the work of the child welfare commission. Mrs. Trumbull has been identified with this movement so closely and so long and has so thorough an understanding of its workings that anything she may say will be instructive. This meeting will be open to the public and will be held at the Friends church.

A pleasant company of people assembled at the home of Mrs. Walsh on Tuesday of this week. Felicitations over the splendid vote given the prohibitory amendment were the order of the day. The heads of departments had been requested to state their plans for the next three months which resulted in a lively discussion of Mt. Scott Union's affairs, its hopes and its purposes. Among other things the revival among the membership of the noon prayer was recommended by Mrs. Fankhauser, superintendent of Evangelistic work. The white ribbon movement now encircles the world; with all white ribbons in silent communion at the noon hour, a continuous flow of divine strength would encircle the globe each day as the hour of noon passes from point to point. All persons who believe are invited to participate in this silent communion at noon.

The suffrage column has been reinforced by the addition of Montana and Nevada. Little by little the cause is progressing. Many good things resulted from the November election. With Arizona, Colorado, Oregon and Washington for Prohibition, a thanksgiving means much. The temperance cause in California was passed on to the future, but the successes this November will help California to join the vanguard another year. Mrs. Hungerford, president of the Colorado W. C. T. U. wired national headquarters: "Hallelujah, the crest of the continent is white. Colorado has gone dry." So, too, the Pacific Northwest is white, and California will be.

The essay of Mrs. Inez C. Richardson on the topic, "Industrial Womanhood versus Purity," which won for Mrs. Richardson the silver medal, has been issued as a leaflet by the labor department of the National W. C. T. U. The many admirers of Mrs. Richardson's splendid abilities will be pleased to know that her writing will have a larger audience and a wider influence.

NO DISCOUNT ON PIES.

Yet It Seemed as Though, Considering, There Should Have Been.

Mrs. Hannah Fifer, a widow, who earned her living by renting rooms for light housekeeping, had the reputation of being a shrewd manager and much inclined to carry economy to the farthest possible point. She was hardworking, thrifty and seemed never to reach the end of her daily labor. On a certain day Mrs. Castle, one of the "light housekeepers," finding a surplus of time on her hands, kindly offered to help Mrs. Fifer out with her overflow of work.

"Well, if you feel like it, I wouldn't care if you'd take hold and bake me up a couple of pies," Mrs. Fifer conceded. "That'll help me a lot. There's a bowl of apple sauce that I'm afraid won't keep if it ain't used soon."

After Mrs. Castle had begun work Mrs. Fifer appeared with a supplementary suggestion.

"While you're about it," said she, "maybe you wouldn't mind baking four pies. 'Twon't take any more coal to bake four than two, and that'll be a savior. You can make the filling hold out by having lots of juice to it."

Mrs. Castle agreed to the amendment and worked away industriously until her task was accomplished, when, wearied with her labors, she retired to her own apartment.

In a short time Mrs. Fifer's small daughter, Peggy, appeared at her door. "Ma says," reported Peggy, "that she don't b'lieve she'll be able to use all them four pies before they dry out, and she wants to know if you won't buy two of 'em off her for 20 cents, and she'd like the 20 cents right away, please."

Mrs. Castle bought the pies, observing to herself with a dry smile, "She might have let me have two for 15 cents—considering."—Youth's Companion.

Advice to Stage Villain.
"Don't go down to the scene of your crime in the last act," says Jerome K. Jerome. "You always will do this. We suppose it is some extra cheap excursion down there that attracts you. But you take our advice and don't you go. That is always where you get nabbed. The police know your habits from experience. They do not trouble to look for you. They go down in the last act to the old hall or the ruined mill, where you did the deed and wait for you. In nine cases out of ten you would get off scot free but for this idiotic custom of yours."—London Standard.

Curable Case.
The widow Gllroy had just told a friend of her engagement.

"But, my dear Margaret," said the friend, "you don't really mean to tell me that you intend marrying a man you've only known for three weeks?"

"Oh, yes," replied the young widow. "I can easily overcome that objection in time. I hope to know him tolerably well after we have been married a couple of years."—Philadelphia Record.

Poor Place to Fall Out.
Through his megaphone one aviator shouted to another:
"Rise out of my level, or, by the great!"

"All right, all right," shouted the other aviator, elevating his plane in stater. "We don't want to fall out here, do we?"—Philadelphia Bulletin.

HOME DISEASES MAY BE PREVENTED

The department of Agriculture is offering some advice that is always in good season, relative to home conditions and complaints that ought to be read with interest.

"Every family which has a member ill with typhoid fever, scarlet fever, or other contagious disease, is entitled to the sympathy and intelligent help of the community. At the same time, the stricken family should realize fully that simple good citizenship calls upon its members to do everything in their power to prevent the spread of contagion to neighbors. In the country especially, where there are seldom health officers to impose rigid quarantines, the duty of keeping the sick separated from the well falls with peculiar weight on the afflicted family. Ordinary neighborliness demands that such a family keep its members away from others and prevent outsiders from coming in contact with the infection.

"On a farm producing and selling milk, a contagious disease such as typhoid or scarlet fever demands special precautions. A very few germs of these diseases allowed to get into the milk may multiply rapidly and be a source of disease in many families on the milk route served by the farmer.

"In the case of typhoid, the disease may come from germs in the well water, and this water if used unboiled for cleansing milk bottles or cans may very well start a typhoid epidemic in a neighboring town. Inspectors have frequently traced outbreaks of scarlet fever and typhoid along a milk route and back to a sick person on the producer's farm.

"It is the duty of every milk farmer to see that no one who is suffering from fever of any kind ever enters the dairy. Moreover, no one engaged in nursing the sick should ever be allowed to go near milk. Those who handle the milk on such farms, even though they never have been near the person who is sick, should take special precautions. Before entering the milk room they should put on a clean cap and a clean duster, which are never allowed to go into the house. In cases of typhoid or suspected typhoid all water used in cleansing milk vessels should first be boiled. Finally, even with all these precautions, wherever typhoid or scarlet fever is even suspected in a family, the milk should be thoroughly pasteurized before being sold.

"The milk producer who takes these precautions establishes his good citizenship. The one who handles milk carelessly with sickness in his family is, though he may not realize it, a possible enemy to his customers.

"Such precautions are doubly necessary where the owner of the farm is the sufferer, because the milk is apt to be handled carelessly for lack of his supervision. Inspectors recently following up a case of bad milk found the owner of the farm sick with a bad case of typhoid fever. He gave his illness as a reason for his not being prosecuted, because the low quality of the milk was due directly to its handling by inexperienced persons. Investigation proved that the farmer's illness was one of a succession of cases of typhoid that had occurred on this farm. The probability, therefore, was that the milk being sent out before the farmer was sick was dangerously contaminated, while, of course, the risk after illness had withdrawn his attention was vastly increased.

"In many cases where an outbreak of typhoid has been traced back to a dairy the owner was not deliberately careless. Typhoid fever is not always readily recognized as such, and not uncommonly passes simply as a fever or bowel complaint. For this reason every case of fever on a dairy farm should be regarded with suspicion and lead to very careful handling of the milk.

"Members of households in which there are contagious or suspicious illnesses also have an important part to play in keeping the milk supply clean. They should never return empty milk bottles without first boiling them, and any family which takes a public milk bottle into a room where there is a contagious disease is really a party to a serious offense against public health. A milk dealer who learns of a case of sickness in a family should keep the bottles from that house separated from the others and make certain that they are very carefully sterilized before they are again used for milk.

"Even where there is no sickness on a farm, the dairy farmer should use every effort to produce a high grade, clean milk from healthy cows. Sterilization of bottles and other milk vessels is essential."

The Christmas Thought

Ideas on Christmas giving are rapidly changing among the sensible. Those who think as they give are looking for a year-round service as the important thing.

In a week of shopping, with all its strain, you will not find a better gift than a year's subscription to Two Youth's Companion. It offers its service, its clean entertainment, its fine suggestiveness week after week; and the end of the year, which finds many a gift in the attic, dust-covered and forgotten, brings The Companion again, with all the charm of last Christmas-tide.

No American monthly at any price offers the same amount of reading, and none can offer better quality. Less than four cents a week provides this best of Christmas gifts—$2.00 a year. If you subscribe now, all the remaining issues of the year will be sent free, and The Companion Home Calendar. A copy of the Calendar is also sent to those who make a gift subscription. Send for sample copies, and the Forecast for 1915.

How to Put the Gopher out of Business

A farmer tells us that he has practically rid his farm of gophers by the use of gasoline. He carries a bottle and a bunch of cotton batting with him while working in the field and when he sees a gopher run into a hole he pours some gasoline upon a wad of cotton and places it at the mouth of the hole and covers the opening with dirt. The gas fumes are heavier than air and goes to the bottom of the hole. In an attempt to get air, the gopher comes to the top of the hole and the gas does the rest. Remove cotton in about half an hour and Mr. Gopher will be dead. The plan will apply to many other burrowing animals.

It Really Does Relieve Rheumatism

Everybody who is afflicted with Rheumatism in any form should by all means keep a bottle of Sloan's Liniment on hand. The minute you feel pain or soreness in a joint or muscle, bathe it with Sloan's Liniment. Do not rub it. Sloan's penetrates almost immediately right to the seat of pain, relieving the hot, tender, swollen feeling and making the part easy and comfortable. Get a bottle of Sloan's Liniment for 25 cents of any druggist and have it in the house—against colds, sore and swollen joints, rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica and like ailments. Your money back if not satisfied, but it does give almost instant relief.
