Ruskin's Roast Beef

During a visit to Astoria in 1871 Ruskin was seized with an attack of internal inflammation which nearly carried him off. Mrs. Arthur Severn who nursed him, records that at the crisis of this illness "he succumbed to our horror for a slice of roast beef. It was late at night, there was none in the hotel and Albert Goodwin went off to get some elsewhere. He could. At last at an eating house in the town he discovered some and came back triumphant with it wrapped in paper. Mr. Ruskin enjoyed his supper thoroughly. Though we anxiously waited till morning for a result it had done no harm, and to every body's surprise he recovered."—London Spectator

An Observant Boy

"I wish you boys would be more observant," said a young schoolmaster. "When I was a boy I was always on the lookout, and what I did not see was not worth seeing. I was famous for that. I remember once I was told by a man I met that I was all eyes. What do you suppose he meant by that?" "Probably he was referring to your conversation," replied one boy, and the other boys looked out of the window as they tried to keep their faces sober. This shows that ordinary boys have eyes and ears both. Philippine Education
