A Novel Fishing Device.

He is an expert fisherman, and so enthusiastic that he recently traveled a hundred miles to one of the North ern Indiana lakes to angle through 'I had great luck this time," he said in telling of the trip. "I had a new scheme to get them. I got a board and painted the picture of a minnow on it. Then after sawing a fair sized hole in the ice, I placed the board in a very slanting position down in the water. Well, do you know those fool bass and pickerel and things would strike at that painted minnow, slide right up that board and flop out on the ice. Finally my guide, Bluegill Joe, got tired picking the fish off the ice and went to the hotel, where he got several baskets. We'd place a basket at the end of the board and the fish would drop into &. As fast as a basket was filled we placed it on the sleigh we had taken out with us now I see that it has failed.' and whenever we'd get a sleigh load we'd quit for the day."—Indianapolis News.

Dont's For Dancers.

It takes more than rules to produce good conduct. Where a proper spirit prevails rules are superfluous. This is particularly true in regard to dance ing. When people of refinement dance with their friends they do not need any long list of rules and regulations hanging before their eyes. Their na-tural sense of the fitness of things insures an observance of all the proprieties. Unfortunately an innate sense of modesty and of the fitness of things can not be trusted to regulate the public dance hall. Here rules are necessary to insure an observance of the proprieties.

The public dance hall inspectors of Elizabeth, N. J., have set forth succinctly correct rules for partners in five "dont's." They could not be put nore tersely:

Don't hop.

Don't dip.

Don't breathe in the lady's face. Don't hold the lady too close.

Don't wave the arms up and down. All forms of dipping and "rolling of the shoulders" are forbidden by the dance censors as vulgar. These re-strictions should not spoil the sport, for the average patron of the dance hall.—Francis Frear in Leslie's.

HOW TO SUCCEED

During the last few years, conditions in all lines of business, even professional life, have changed so completely that every man is waking up to the fact that in order to win success he must specialize and learn to do some one thing and do it well.

So it is with any article that is sold to the people. It must have genuine merit or no amount of advertising will maintain the demand for the article. For many years druggists have watched with much interest the remarkable record maintained by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great Kid-ney, Liver and Bladder Remedy. From the very beginning the proprietors had so much confidence in it that they invited every one to test it. It is a physician's prescription.

Banish the "Blues!"

If you have that depressed feeling it's more than likely that your blood is out of order-impoverished or poisoned.

There is only one thing that will alter your present condition—that's to restore your stomach to normal health and strength. For a weak or diseased stomach cannot make good blood. If your digestion is bad your food will not make the good blood which nourishes body, brain, heart and nerve.

WORSE THAN DEATH

Epilepsy Follows Certain Injuries to Head.

Blow That Causes Unconsciousness for Long Intervals Practically Defies the Best of Surgical Skill, Says Famous Doctor.

"I have often said that I had rather die than receive a blow sufficiently severe to render me unconscious for a considerable period of time," said Dr. John B. Murphy during an operation on the head of a young man who had been suffering from epileptic fits, which came on three years after he had been struck on the head by a baseball and knocked unconscious for about half an hour.

"A blow which merely fractures the skull without producing unconsciousness, such as that from a sharp instrument," continued Doctor Murphy, "is not nearly so serious a condition, from the point of view of future possibilities, as that following the blow of a blunt instrument which renders the patient unconscious."

Doctor Murphy went on to cite several cases, one of a man who had been thrown from a sleigh against a telegraph pole and remained unconscious for three weeks. He had no further symptoms for about three years, when he began having convulsions. Another was that of a young man who had fallen from a window to a stone pavement when a baby. His "fits" did not begin until twenty years later, and he had been a precocious boy at school and a successful business man.

Doctor Murphy believes that such blows cause an injury to that coating of the brain which is called the dura. The brain itself is uninjured. Then something arises-worry or extra hard work or something of that sortwhich brings on irritation where the dura was injured. The precise cause is uncertain.

Some of these cases can be cured by an operation in which the skull is opened and the dura at the place of injury removed, but only about one case in twenty gets well and stays well. That is why Doctor Murphy would rather be killed outright than suffer such an injury. For the victim is almost certainly destined to become an epileptic.

Plural Titles.

All peers above the rank of baron but the Duke of Buccleuch, who has just died, was a pluralist even in dukedoms. His forter's married the daughters and sisters of kings, and he himself was a lineal descendant of Charles II, to whom the family owed the highest title. Charles' son, the Duke of Monmouth, married Anne Countess of Buccleuch, and on their wedding day healing begins. Soon the ugly, tor-Anne—the duchess in "The Lay of the turing eruptions disappear completely Last Minstrel"-persuaded Charles to make them Lord and Lady Scott of Whitchester, Earl and Countess of Dalkeith, and Duke and Duchess of Buccleuch. To the third duke came in 1706 another dukedom, that of Queensberry, and the late, the sixth, duke held them both, together with a marquisate, four earldoms, three viscounties and four or five baronies.-London Chronicle.

Wanted Football Results.

The New York Evening Post relates a story told in England of Captain von Muller, late of the Emden. One night while the British cruiser Yarmouth was escorting a merchant ship out of Singapore, the wireless operator received calls from a ship some distance away. He answered them, and to his surprise found that he was in communication with the German cruiser Emden. The transmitted message was as follows: "Captain von Muller and the wardroom mess send their compliments and would be obliged if the Yarmouth would let them have the result of the inter-regimental rugby football match." The result was duly given, together with an intimation that it would not be very long before the captain of the Emden and the wardroom mess would have the opportunity of a personal attendance at all field and track events in England.
