Mummies of Peru

Before taking leave of Cuzco, Peru, we went to see the very interesting collection of Inca relics in the private museum of a Peruvian doctor who has devoted many years of his life to Inca research. Ranged round the walls were mummies which had been taken from rock tombs. All had been buried in a sitting posture, and, judging by the horrible expressions of agony on the parchment skin, I should imagine that some of them, prisoners of war, I was told, had been entombed alive. The horror of those mummied faces and the awful contortions of the skeletons haunted me for a long time, nor shall I ever forget the sight.

One or two of the skulls bore evidence of skillful surgery, star shaped pleces of bone having been cleverly fitted in to repair damage done by the star shaped stone weapons of the period. I did not measure those I saw in the museum, but one of the aforesaid stone weapons which we brought back to England from Cuzco measured four inches from point to point across the top-a truly formidable club .- Wide World Magazine,

They Feared the Dutch.

In 1673, in the old days of England's wars with the Dutch, the inhabitants of Sheringham, in terror of invasion by the Dutch forces, petitioned the lord lieutenant and deputy lieutenants of Norfolk. "Our Town," they said. "Joynes upon ye Maine sea, and we are afraid every night ye enemy should come ashore and fire Our Towne when we be in our Bedds; for ye Houses stand very close together, and all ye Houses thatched with straw, that in one houres time ye Towne may be burnt, for we have nothing to Resist them But one Gunn, with a broken carriage and four Musquetts, which we bought at our Owne cost and charges: which is a very small defence against an enemy; and likewise wee have no powder, nor shot for ye said Gunn, nor Musquetts, when we stand in need.' They therefore asked for a few more muskets, with powder and bullets. In granting this the authorities stipulated that Sheringham should not "imbocill ye said arms and ammunition."

Oliver Goldsmith and Powders. April 4, 1774, died Oliver Goldsmith, in his forty-seventh year, at the height of his fame, as also of his embarrass ments. Goldsmith's death was hastened, as some thought, by his taking against his apothecary's wish the famous specific. Dr. James' fever pow One should be just to the powders. ders. Goldsmith himself thought he had been given spurious and not the genuine powders, while Mr. Hawkes, his apothecary, declared the sick man had taken the right remedy in a wrong fashion and after Goldsmith's death published, in collaboration with the poet's other two physicians, "An Account of the Late Dr. Goldsmith's Illness So Far as Relates to the Exhibition of Dr. James' Powders." A STORY THAT VARIES.

The Bride Who Got Into a Chest and Was Found Dead There.

There is a story more or less diffused of a young bride on her wedding day playing the game of hide and seek and oncealing herself in one of those ancient carved chests of large size. After she had got in the lid closed, and she found herself unable to raise it again. for it fastened with a spring, and she was shut in. Search was made for her in every quarter but the right one, and great perplexity and dismay were caused by her disappearance. It was not till years after, when chance led to the opening of the chest, that the body of the young bride was discovered and the mystery of her disappearance solved.

The story is found in so many places that it may be questioned whether it is true of any one of them. Rogers tells it of a palace in Modena. The chest in which the poor bride was found is shown at Bramshill, in Hampshire, the residence of Sir John Cope. Another similar chest, with precisely the same story attached to it, was long shown at Marwell Old Hall, between Winchester and Bishop's Waltham,

The folk tale of Catskin or Peau d'Ane represents the girl flying with her bridal dresses from a marriage that is repugnant to her, and as this tale is found all over Europe it may have metamorphosed itself into that of the bride who got into a chest and died there.-Cornhill Magazine.

BLUNDERING REPORTERS.

Mistakes That Mangled the Speakers' Words and Feelings.

"Drunkenness is folly!" earnestly exclaimed Bishop Magee in the house of lords on a celebrated occasion. How horrified was the prelate to read in the papers next morning that he had given utterance to the very bacchanalian sentiment. "Drunkenness is jolly!"

Lord Salisbury was a master phrasemaker, but one of his best points was spoiled when a careless reporter turned his reference to "manacles and Manitoba" into the meaningless "manacles and men at the bar."

Sir William Harcourt was badly mis quoted once. "Great is Diana of the Ephesians!" he exclaimed upon the platform, but one paper had it: "Great Dinah! What a farce is this!"

Lack of knowledge of familiar quotations is a prolific source of misreporting. For instance, a speaker once made use of the well known lines from Mil-

But come, thou goddess, fair and free. In heaven yclept Euphrosyne

The brilliant reporter deputed to "take him down" was in despair. He could not make head or tail of this mysterious utterance. But, following the sound as far as possible, he seized his pen and produced the following gem:

But come, thou goddess, fair and free, In heaven she crept and froze her knee. The speaker was taken down in more senses than one.-London Answers.

Golf In the Old Days.

Centuries back golf was a pastime the royal family, though then usuagainst one who had incurred his ill ally played in Scotland. The Stuart will. Rowley had a quarrel with a family was very fond of the game, structive talk before the noon recess, I. His eldest son, Henry, frequently played and on one occasion nearly struck by accident his tutor with a club, whereupon he coolly remarked, "Had I done so I had but paid my debts." Charles I, was playing golf when he received the news of the Irish rebellion. James, duke of York, afterward James II., was another ardent player. Golf is frequently mentioned in ancient Scottish records and in the fifteenth century was prohibited because it interfered with the practice of archery. Strutt considered it the most ancient game at ball requiring a bat .- The guests besides the high school London Standard.

CHERRYVILLE

Quite a spell of weather last week. Frost, in some places, did some damage but not to any great extent.

Our cherry crop will be light here, also Italian prunes, but apples, pears, plums and berries promise a heavy crop. The K Hand stump puller, operated by Dr. Botkin and son, is doing good work and very much lessens the cost of clearing land. Work has begun at the dam where a thousand cords of brush and tons of dirt will be used to prevent seepage which might become very much worse in time.

One of the brilliant (?) legal luminaries before the U.S. Supreme Court employed by the defendent railroad company in arguing before that body last week said that when the government failed to prosecute them at once when they broke their contract by selling in larger tracts than 160 as their contract called for, then the government lost all chance of ever compelling it to forfeit their land. In other words if a person, whom you know, steals your cow and you fail to proceed against him at once, he can come back later on and steal your horse and you have no recourse. This distinguished mental crook and all around "damphool" ought to be elevated to the U.S. Senate along with "Boob" Penrose of Penn., and 'windjammer'' Jones of Wash. He would be a very handy and useful man for the corporations.

Work on the road has begun and the money will be expended in planking the bad places on hills and in holes. This is a good scheme as it does but little good to grade these dirt roads as they are good in dry weather but no amount of work will render them in good condition in long-continued rains. Rev. John Boyd, who has a summer Portland that our civilization is a sion. failure. That disorderly houses were within five blocks of his church and that 90 percent of fires were started to get insurance and futher that divorces just about equalled the marriages. By the same token some prominent church members, to the writer's knowledge, are renting houses for disorderly re sorts and some of them have perjured themselves in giving in their taxable property and the state has proceeded against their estate after their death.

Joining a popular church does not, in most cases, kill a man's love of gold. While in Portland last week the writer heard an I. W. W. speaker declare on the streets that we might as well be shot down by machine guns as die of starvation. There will be trouble from these chaps some day.

The Gospel Oak.

In the village of Polstead, Suffolk, England, stands a famous oak which the rector has proved to be 2,000 years old. The tree has a girth of thirtysix feet and has been known always as the gospel oak, since under it the first Christian missionaries preached to the heathen Saxons thirteen centuries ago. This event is commemorated each year by a special service held under the tree.

Puss and the Weather.

The cat is an excellent barometer. When you see a cat wetting its paw in its mouth and then rubbing it energetically over the upper part of its ear you may feel pretty certain that rain is coming. This action is pussy's method of relieving the uncomfortable feeling in its ears caused by the change in the atmospheric pressure which precedes a storm. If the unpleasant feeling in the ear were due to a foreign substance then the cat would scratch the ear with its hind foot. But when pussy scrubs its ear with its saliva moistened paw it is when rain is impending.

Getting Away From Land.

The question has been asked. Is It possible to sall 1.000 miles from land? This can be done at several points. By leaving San Francisco and sailing northwestward into the north Pacific a spot is reached where there is no land, not even an islet, for 1,000 miles h any direction. So, too, sailing from the southern point of Kamchatka southwestward ships reach a point equally distant from land of any kind. the nearest to the north being the Aleutian islands and to the south the outlying members of the Hawaiian group. In the southern Indian ocean it is possible to sail 1.000 miles cat from the southern points of Australia and New Zealand and still be as far from any other land, and the same may be done in a westerly direction from Cape Horn. Indeed, from this point a much longer distance might be reached, for the southern Pacific between the Horn and New Zealand covers a space of 80 degrees of longitude and 40 of latitude of absolutely unbroken sea, making its central point over 1,200 miles from anywhere.
