INVENTIONS WE NEED.

Plenty of Opportunities For Would Be and Could Be Edisons.

The world is full of would be Edisons, and the point we want to bring out is that quite a lot of them are could be Edisons.

A man invented the stocking frame for weaving silk stockings. He got the idea while he sat watching his wife work. But surely he wasn't the first man who sat and watched his wife work.

There is a huge fortune for the man who can commercialize weeds. The raw material is inexhaustible, for it renews itself automatically every year. It must pay a reader in the paper making trade to follow up this idea.

Then we want a patent that will last as long as the material upon which it is placed and an iron that won't rust. We want something that will counteract the wearing effect of the atmosphere. It's going to be invented some day, and it may as well be done now, and you who read this may as well be the person to do it.

In some remote corner of the earth today a could be Edison may be experimenting with the possibilities of cities on the sea. There are millions of square miles of water that are more or less wasted, and sooner or later, as the land area of the earth becomes crowded, people will inevitably take to cities on the sea.

Above all, keep your eyes on Nature, who is continually making inventions which she never protects with patents.—Stray Stories.

What For?

"Pop, what kind of crops can they plant in the sea water?"
 "No crops, you foolish child."
 "Then why are vessels always plowing the ocean?"—Exchange.

 "I know," interrupted his wife. "Here are forty or fifty love letters you wrote me when we were engaged. Take them along and mail me one every day."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

ELEVEN FLIES A MINUTE IS RECORD OF MASH BAIT

A bait that in twenty minutes caught 220 flies demonstrated its superiority over four other kinds of bait in an experiment conducted by the University of Oregon extension division for the benefit of the many communities in Oregon that are conducting fly fighting campaign this spring. The bait that won can be made in a few minutes on any farm or in any household at an expense of two or three cents. The formula for it is as follows:

Make a bran mash mixed very wet with waste potato water and skimmed milk, and sweetened with molasses or brown sugar. Put in plenty of active yeast so that the mash will ferment furiously.

This mash put into a properly constructed wire fly trap so that the flies cannot get at it from the outside will attract the pests from almost any other food in the neighborhood.

In the experiment the following five baits were put into competition:

1. Ordinary table syrup.
2. Decayed banana.
3. Canned salmon that had been exposed to the sun until tainted.
4. Tainted crab.
5. The mash described above.

Each of these five preparations was put into a trap and the traps were set outside at a fly rendezvous near a slaughter house. At the end of twenty minutes the catches were as follows:

- Bait No. 1—Four flies.
- Bait No. 2—Ten flies.
- Bait No. 3—Twelve flies.
- Bait No. 4—Thirty-nine flies.
- Bait No. 5—Two hundred and twenty flies.

"I think a properly constructed trap baited with the fermenting mash will catch every hungry fly within a block if the day is warm and sunny and the flies can get into the trap readily," said Dr. C. F. Hodge, professor of social biology at the University of Oregon. "Honey mixed with this bait adds to the cost and probably does not make it any better. There are baits that will draw flies even better than this mash but they are too offensive to describe and too dangerous to use. The discharges from open sores of animals are one type. The character of the foods that flies delight in show how great a menace to mankind the fly really is."

Flies love a variety. In a brewery a trap should be baited with milk; in a dairy with beer. The fermenting mash probably attracted so large a number in competition with the tainted crab because the experiment was tried near a slaughter house where flies had been glutted with animal food.

First Moving Pictures.

The first moving picture machine was patented in 1867. In 1893 the cinematograph was produced by Lumier. This was the first machine to project on a screen pictures from a film. Edison improved upon this machine in 1896, when he produced the vitascope. These machines provided the models for the improved types in use today.—Philadelphia Press.

Women.

"Women are dreams," murmured the sentimentalist, gazing on a group of them in silk attire.
 "You bet they are," the practicalist snapped back at the murmurous one, "and dreams go by contraries, all right."—Judge.
