Some of the farmers along the Powell Valley and Base line are already beginning to complain about the slipperiness of the road and it is probable that before the year is out the county may have a chance to contribute for some of the horses the roads have crippled.

The Telegram is talking itself black in the face about the advantages of wood block paving. Going to have Council Crest drives covered with wood block now. Why the Telegram is so solicitous about wood block now, when in the spring wood block never got a pleasant look, is one of the mysteries of big newspaper methods.

The Toronto mail describes Hank Ford as the "loudest bagpipe in the squeaking train of pacifists." A million men will spring to arms to resent this slur upon Mr. Bryan.

Spain's desire to exert itself for peace should cheer the people of that country, as they realize that they have a monarch with no desire to be a war lord.

More than 20,000 young women are said to be studying law in this country—this adding to the fatal charms of litigation.

Now that the Panama Canal is closed, New York is safe from a Japanese bombardment anyhow.

NOTES OF THE W. C. T. U.

The next meeting of the Mt. Scott Union will be on Nov. 9th at the Friends church. "The Labor Problem of Oregon" will be discussed by the labor commissioner of Oregon, Mr. O. P. Hoff.

The Hoodoo ghost appears to be trailing President Wilson in his coy treatment of the woman question. When called upon in Washington to declare in favor of votes for women he lifted his eyebrows and with a cold "excuse me," took up the affairs of state that seemed to him more important.

soul. He himself said, just before the election in New Jersey, that he would rather draw paper up his nostril than endure the scorn of women. Then he went over to New Jersey, which is his voting place, and voted for woman suffrage. The result is not a happy one for Mr. Wilson; the majority of the men of New Jersey voted against woman suffrage.

The hoodoo ghost will just as surely trail the chief executive should New York and Massachusetts, where elections soon will be held, go against the women. This all comes too, right in the midst of his ardent wooing of the to be Mrs. Wilson, No. 2. Fortunately it was not W. C. T. U. women who peppered Mr. Wilson's nostril with their scorn.

Health In The Suburbs

BY LORA C. LITTLE

I saw him for the first time two years ago last spring. Last week I saw him again. What myriads of things have happened in the past thirty months. How many changes and vicissitudes have you and I, reader, passed through—happenings drawn to us by our own mental and physical activities. Not so with him. In 1913 he was carefully nursing himself for dizziness. The same job still occupies him.

"The doctors don't seem to know what it is," he explains. "One calls it hardening of the arteries, and another calls it heart trouble. I haven't been able to do a stroke of work for three years."

For three years he has sat around, waiting—waiting for a medical agreement in diagnosis, waiting for his meals. Except that his is an extreme case, there are a lot of chronics who are similarly wasting life. It is an old prescription they need: Live on a shilling a day, and earn it.

It is a strange delusion that one must have his disease named before he can begin to get rid of it. When you have disease symptoms of any kind, stop eating, wait a bit and give your system a chance to clear away its rubbish. At the same time, double your breathing and water drinking, and facilitate the cleanup.

Whatever else you do, see to it that you perform some useful work every day of your life. If you can do but one minute's work in the whole 24 hours, do that. Increase your work from day to day. Be a miser of minutes for at least part of every day. Cultivate the sure you a fine time at Woodmere school Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

CHERRYVILLE

The rainy season begins. No continuous wet weather as yet, but occasional showers with some sunshine.

Weather prognosticators predict a hard winter from certain indications which they consider reliable.

Mr. Weatherford of Hillsboro has rented the Freil ranch just east of the Post Office and will move into it at once. He has rented it for 5 years.

The Lyceum held its first session last week with a good attendance. The question was decided in favor of the negative, that heridity has more to do with farming character than environment. The question this week on the benefit of the timber men is that fire is more destructive than water.

The butchery of the Armenians continues by the unspeakable Turks. Nations like individuals cannot escape the consequences of their sins, and Europe is now paying the penalty of allowing these inoffensive christian people to be slaughtered and maltreated for a long period. The United States has lately sent in a protest but anyone of the great powers could have stopped it long ago and Germany can now as Turkey is her ally. Over 300,000 of these harmless people of all ages and both sexes have been butchered since this war began and for no cause whatever. The Turks and all nations who have countenanced these barbarities or remained passive must suffer the penalty.

John Skelton Williams, comptroller of the currency, says the great majority of the National Banks that had sent in reports to him reported an income of over 10 per cent in loans. Some had made as high as 200 per cent and one poor woman had paid 2400 per cent on a small loan. This official says this kind of business will cause more anarchy than all the L. W. W.'s in existence. There is no doubt they expect to continue this kind of lawless business as an immense slush fund for campaign purposes is now being raised to reinstate an old stand patters in power again. Great efforts are on foot to get the progressives in line and there they hope to win.

Uncle Sam is now about to recognize Old Carranza, and make him the president of Mexicans. His whiskers had better watch out, and not go to knocking things about. Just try and keep from fighting a couple of months or so, and give the crops and cattle a little chance to grow.

The main thing in life Carranza is not to fight and kill, and always be watching for a chance some others blood to spill. Just cast your eyes Carranza across the Rio Grande, and see how Uncle Sam rules this free and nightly land. Its true our greedy rich don't always play so fair, and grinding monopolies get more than is their share.

But when a man gets in the White house at Washington D. C., we keep him on the job until his name is up you see, habit of accumulating. Pile up strength and power by using what you have, and then resting like fury.

These parents who are unable to train their own children well, are the ones who complain most bitterly about the contaminating effect of other people's children.

A great deal of criticism has been uttered in relation to the character and methods of a health lecturer who has been in Portland for several weeks. It is generally admitted that his teachings for the most part are correct. It would be strange indeed if anyone should accept them in their entirety as the health law and gospel. So, this is not the trouble. The usual complaint is that he has taken in large sums of money for books and lessons, that he has exaggerated, that he has used coarse language, that he has cut monkey-shines, and that he does not live as he teaches.

These charges are a reflection on those who make them. The man has drawn crowds by his methods, and these crowds have listened with bated breath to teachings they need to put into life, teachings these same people could not be dragged out to hear if presented in a more dignified way. They have spent their money for books because of the cleverness of the man who has them to sell. Surely it will not be claimed that any bought under a spell of hypnotism. P. T. Barnum said the American people liked to be humbugged. I should rather say, they insist on being humbugged, and then cry about it.

And then we all get busy on Presidential years, and run and roar and vote and vote until another one appears.

So mind your p's and q's Carranza and don't get in a fuss. Or Uncle Sam will come down there and clean up all our mess.

Do everything for those who are doing all the work, but nothing for the parasite the loafer and the shirk, and maybe Carranza, if you are very wise. You possibly will do something to open all our eyes.

We have some boneheads in this country but thank God we have no crowned heads.

Work at the shingle mill has begun in good earnest as there is sufficient motive power now furnished by the increased volume of water in Alder Creek. Large orders are on hand as the firm Turner and Ritzer have traded for several head of cattle. Anything to start the wheels of industry.

Utilizing Leaves

In most towns and cities, autumn brings with it the pungent odor of burning leaves, the smoke of which settles like a choking pall over the streets and homes. The door yard cleaning days of spring are likewise marked with the incense of smoking vegetable matter that is being cremated along the streets and allies. Instead of smudging themselves and their neighbors, the inhabitants of our towns who own shade trees can often make far better use of the fallen leaves by composting them. The high degree of fertility usually noticed in newly cleared lands which have been covered with forests of broad leaf trees, is mainly due to the abundance of leaf mold which the soils contain. This material is especially valuable for its effects in increasing the moisture holding ability of light soils and of improving the texture of clay soils. Florists use leaf molds, where obtainable, for mixing with their potting soils, and it is of equal value in the flower bed, the vegetable garden, and the field.

In our semi-arid regions, leaf mold does not readily form without a little care being given to the matter. The leaves may be stored in a large bin in some shady or secluded corner of the yard, or even in a pit dug in the earth. They should be packed in tightly and kept moist by an occasional wetting with the hose, or if in a pit, from the irrigating ditch, or they may be spaded or plowed directly into the garden. Leaves also form a fair substitute for straw in bedding the horse and will add to the value of the manure for fertilizing purposes.

In case none of these uses can be made of the fallen leaves of trees, some local market gardener or farmer who knows their value may be given the privilege of hauling them away to use on his fields or in the compost heap.

The older nations of the world have learned to utilize every bit of waste vegetable matter in some such way and, although intensive agriculture is perhaps not yet so imperative in this country, this utilization of dead leaves is in line with the growing sentiment for the conservation of soil fertility.—B. O. Longyear.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is strictly closed, deafness is the result, and because the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; ninety percent out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.
