LENTS WOMAN TRAVELS FAR

Mrs. Lucia F. Addison Attends National Convention Federation of Women's Clubs, New York. Sees Sleepy Hollow and John D.

Manor, where we received the waving welcome of Miss Elsie Janis, of artistic fame. Thence through the entire grounds of John D. Rockefeller, where we saw John D. playing golf, and received a hearty welcome, and guides to show us over his wonderful estate. Then came a luncheon at the "Castle," Miss Mason's school for girls, a marvelously beautiful place filled with historic interest, beauty and romance, and where Rev. John Knox Allen gave us a historic talk. From there a walk to Christ Church where we viewed the pen of Washington Irving, then back to our autos, and a drive brought us to Oyndhurst, the home of Mrs. Finley Shepard, (Helen Gould) where refreshments were served on the great lawn to some 500 guests, and where the hostess stood and greeted every guest in the most cordial and really affectionate manner. It is a charming home, with the delightful hostess, and the little adopted children happily playing in a sand garden. We shall not soon forget this visit. A walk from the autos, down a lane, brought us to "Sunnyside" the home of Washington Irving. Our last stop was at the home of Mrs. Henry Villard. I wish you could all have heard Mrs. Villard's hearty greeting to Oregon delegates and her tender voice as she said, "My husband loved Oregon." This home was exquisite inside throughout. Taste, artistic, and beautiful, was in evidence in every room. Here was served a delicious tea to these guests.

As we again boarded the "Commander," we felt that if we ever had experienced a "perfect day," this was surely the most perfect. I have only set down brief details. Can you, will you not, read between the lines all the wonderful human friendliness, courtesy, hospitality, and graciousness of hostess after hostess, and what it all meant to us to have the beautiful homes and estates thrown open to us in such a fraternal and gracious a manner? My pen falters, I cannot express it all.

CHERRYVILLE

Now is the winter of our discontent made glorious summer.

Fine weather, fine roads and beautiful scenery in every direction.

Strawberry short cake and Jersey cream make a great spread and are within the reach of all, as strawberries grow with scarcely any effort on this side of the mountain.

Miss Mildred and Genevieve Rugh are taking in the Rose Carnival at Portland this week.

"Lige" Coleman, the veteran mountain climber and guide, passed through here last Saturday on his way to his high house on top of Mt. Hood where he will keep watch for forest fires this season. He says he understands there will be a scientific man, sent by the Government to take observation, to keep house with him this season.

John Stienks, whose family lives here, and who is employed in a bridge gang on the O. R. & N. R. R., writes that the crew to which he belongs was told last week that they must go to Portland and take the place of striking longshoremen or lose their jobs. After they got to Portland they were worked continuously for 24 hours at the speed limit. Some more benevolent (?) work by "inspired millionaires."

Archie Averill, who is the same age to a day as Archie Roosevelt, third son of Teddy, now has a fine job in an architect's office at Aberdeen, Wash. He fitted himself for this opening by his own efforts after learning the carpenter's trade, while Archie Roosevelt is working in a carpet factory at $8.00 a week and the Prince of Wales, the same age—22 years—is of such low mentality that a member of Parliament said if he hadn't been born of a royal family he would have to run a peanut stand on some street corner, and yet if he came to Portland the greedy English and the stingy Scotch would nearly break their necks running after him.

A big effort will be made to defeat the nomination of Teddy at Chicago this week, but he is without doubt admirably fitted to run the great affairs of this mighty nation. The "Old Stand-patters" who belong to the Paleozoic Age when the stone man chased uncouth monsters with a club, don't want him and won't have him if they can help themselves.

Even the so-called Christian Church begins to realize that they must do something for struggling humanity, the great mass of whom are engaged in a fearful combat for a bare existence and one of the Methodist Bishops, A. W. Leonard, recently said at a conference: "The church that fails to relate itself to the struggle against white slavery, to all the war against child labor, to all the great reforms which will test the manhood and course of the church during the next ten years as never before would better get out of business and no longer call itself a church."

PLEASANT VALLEY

A. G. Sager and family of Lents and Mr. and Mrs. John MacNemier of Portland were Sunday callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Campbell.

Mrs. Shannon of Gilbert was transacting business in the Valley one day recently.

Jos. Eberhardt is getting the material on the ground preparatory to building himself a new house.

Contractors have got a force of men and teams at work putting the several fills between here and Lents on the Foster road, in shape for laying the concrete.

There will be a social gathering held at the Pleasant Valley grange hall next Wednesday evening, June 14th. A program will be rendered and lunch served. Everything is free and everybody is invited.

CHURCH CONFERENCE AT REFORMED CHURCH

Lienkaemper, is president, will meet in its annual session next week at the Reformed Church, corner Woodstock avenue and 87th street. The opening session will be held on Thursday, June 15, at 7:30 p. m.

On Friday evening the 400th anniversary of the Protestant Reformation will be observed. A stereopticon lecture will be given. Pictures of the great reformer, Ulrich Zwingle and of Switzerland, his place of labor, will be shown. The public is cordially invited.

Well Children Are Active

If your child is dull, pale, fretful and wants to lie around, the chances are it is suffering from worms. Kickapoo Worm Killer, a pleasant candy confection, liked by all children is what your child needs. You only give one-half to one lozenge at a time and you get immediate results. Every mother should have a box on hand. 25c. at all druggists.

WATER GLASS METHOD OF PRESERVING EGGS

This is the season when the hen is busy, and those who have a surplus of eggs which they do not wish to sell may preserve them until the slack laying season. George A. Olson, chemist for the state agricultural experiment station at Pullman, Wash., makes the following suggestions as to containers and strength of water-glass solution in a recent bulletin on preserving eggs: Below is given convenient size jars, which can be purchased from local dealers; the approximate number of eggs (average size and volume) they will hold, together with the pints of water-glass solution that will be required to cover the eggs.

No. Eggs	Solution	Container	will hold	Pints	Ounces
1-gallon	40	3	10
2-gallon	80	7	13
3-gallon	120	10	13
4-gallon	160	14	6
5-gallon	200	18	0
10-gallon	400	36	0

The proportions of water-glass to water required for preserving eggs varies. Some have a successfully preserved eggs in proportions of one part of water-glass to 20 parts of water; others have used more concentrated solutions.

The proportions to be used will depend largely upon the length of time desired to keep them preserved. For the shorter periods perhaps the weaker solutions will do, but it is safer to use a proportion of one part of water-glass to 12 parts of water than, say, one with 15 parts of water. The best results, however, have been obtained where the eggs have been preserved in a solution containing one pint of water-glass to 9 or 10 pints of water.

EARNED THEIR EDUCATION.

Nineteen Princeton Seniors Worked Their Way Through College.

Going through college on nothing a year seems to be more than a polite fiction, judging by records which have just been unearthed on the campus of Princeton university. Nineteen men in the senior class at Princeton went on record as having supported themselves wholly throughout their college course of four years. Although the names of these nineteen "self made" college graduates are not made public, their occupations are, and the list includes such jobs as pressing clothes, tending furnaces, washing windows, waiting on table and "minding the baby."

Tutoring and selling provided probably the greatest actual return of any of the various kinds of work. Several of the men did typewriting, newspaper work and filling in the library, and a large number obtained agencies for the selling of every conceivable article that the college student could desire, ranging from pajamas to diamond lockets. A part of the money which each man earned was of course made in the summer time outside of Princeton, but in every case the greater portion was earned during the academic year.

AN INNOCENT VICTIM.

The Original of Squeers Died of a Broken Heart.

The grossest injury which Dickens ever inflicted on a fellow being was his too accurate portrait of an innocent man in his Squeers. That Yorkshire schoolmaster was, as a rule, cruel and wicked enough it is true, but the particular schoolmaster who was recognized and who recognized himself as the original Squeers seems to have been an exception to the rule.

It will be remembered that Dickens and his illustrator traveled together to the north of England for the purpose of collecting material for "Nickelby" and especially for the Dotterboys episode. At Greta Bridge they visited a boarding school known as Bowes academy. The master, William Shaw, received the strangers with some hauteur and did not as much as withdraw his eyes from the operation of penmaking during the interview. This sketched him in the act; Dickens described the act. The personal peculiarities of William Shaw were recognized in Squeers. Shaw became a butt of popular ridicule, lost his pupils and finally died of a broken heart. Yet there is abundant evidence to prove that he was a really excellent and kind hearted man, who was made to suffer for the misdeeds of his neighbors.—Exchange.

Golf Balls.

History tells us that at first golf balls were nothing but round or nearly round pebbles about the size of the sphere used at present. These were supplanted by the hand cut wooden balls and then in turn by the feather ball. Then came the gutta percha ball, of which an interesting story is told. It is said a caddie in Scotland picked up a discarded football shoe with a gutta percha sole and tore off the sole. This he soaked in water until it was soft and then molded it with his hands to the size of a golf ball. Thence it was only a step to the molded and hammered gutta percha balls, which endured until as late as 1898, when the rubber cored ball was first brought out in the United States.

The rubber cored ball, the foundation of the ball of the present, was not taken into England until three or four years later, and it is interesting to note that in 1906 Aleck Herd, who was the only player in the field using the ball, won the British open championship with it.—New York Sun.
