Attention has been called to a recent bulletin sent out by the post office department in reference to old paper, rags, etc. Most of us have considered the disposition of waste paper and found that not enough can be obtained for it to pay for wrapping it up. Add to that delivery charges and freight and you will be paying some one to take it away. With the cheapest sort of news going at 5c a pound it looks as the waste paper ought to be worth hauling away. However, it isn't and the postal department gave us a bad "steer."

It looks like an exceedingly bad piece of taste on the part of Senator McBride to resign his office with the expectation of taking another one away from a duly nominated candidate. Mr. Tazwell, so far as we know, was fairly nominated. There has been nothing produced in a public way to show that he is not competent and worthy to fill it. It will not be easy to convince about fifteen thousand voters that it is necessary to turn down the duly nominated candidate.

Over in Colorado they use Ford automobiles to kill the gophers—What? Yes sir. They locate the gopher's house, slip a piece of hose over the Ford's nose (exhaust) and just set it to snorting. After the Ford has blown his breath into the hole for fifteen minutes the gopher is glad to die. That is one thing additional to the Ford's glory. Its going some when you can utilize a machine's breath for economic purposes.

"The Optimist," under the guidance of its former editor, Bernard Mulrine, has come to life at 383 East Couch. It has a healthy appearance and will fill a much needed service by supplying east siders with local news.

The Beverage Industry

The manufacture of non-alcoholic beverages causes many industries to spring up in the wake of Prohibition legislation.

In Oregon at least one brewing establishment—the million dollar Weinhard plant at Portland—is making 3000 barrels daily.

In Salem there are two large fruit juice establishments, and smaller ones are springing up in many places in western Oregon.

The Weinhard factory has a capacity of 12,000 barrels per month and employs 75 hands and ships to four states.

A Great Institution

"The Bankers of the state have set the seal of their approval upon the live stock show which is now annually held in North Portland and translated their confidence into terms of dollars—$10,000 to be specific. This means that the show will be financed as never before, therefore that things can be done which never could have been done before.

The Portland show is different from any other show in the country. It now ranks next to the great International Live Stock show at Chicago which means that it is the second show in consequence held in the United States. But it is not run as a money-making affair. There are no charges for admission; everybody is welcome. Everybody is received with open arms and made to feel that his presence is appreciated. Until the livestock show began here it was not generally recognized that the Willamette valley was the ideal spot in the United States for the raising of high grade stock. There is no place that can beat it and here eventually the breeders will come for the finest types of breeding stock. Stockmen from over the country have been more surprised over this outlook than any other. They have been surprised at the quality of the stock, beef and dairy, but they have been still more surprised to find here the natural conditions that so happily blend to produce them.

A few years ago people would have been satisfied to have had Portland recognized as the pure bred stock center of the Pacific coast. But now nothing short of actual rivalry with the International at Chicago will satisfy those in charge of it. In following this line they are simply following the line of least resistance. All that is needed is a little careful direction and the growth will follow as a matter of course. The Pacific Northwest is growing proud of the annual stock show. It will grow prouder as the time goes on for it is already one of the two great events in the pure bred stock business of the country.—Telegram.

A DOZEN GOOD TIPS TO POULTRYMEN

Mr. Poultryman, if you take pride in marketing good eggs at a good price, consider the following.

Do not keep mongrel stock. They are not high producers, and their eggs are not uniform as to size and color.

Keeping laying hens separated from setting hens.

Gather eggs carefully in warm weather twice daily.

Insist that your buyer candle and grade your eggs and that he pay a premium for "firsts" over "seconds." You cannot afford to produce the best and take a flat "case-count" price along with the producers of small, dirty, stale, inferior eggs.

The sale of infertile incubator eggs will never help you to establish a higher market price for your product.

Separate the male birds from the flock except during the breeding season. Fertile eggs are poor keepers.

Keep nests free from filth and provide plenty of them. It is the foul, dirty, unattractive nest that compels the hen to seek the weeds or some other undesirable place.

Market eggs in a standard egg case. Never haul to town over rough roads or in an open basket or pan exposed to the hot sun.

You will have the largest number of "firsts" if you market at least twice a week.

In keeping eggs, provide a dry, cool, well ventilated place. Fertile eggs must be kept below 68 degrees to absolutely check germination.

Never wash eggs. It destroys their keeping qualities.

Eggs are easily affected by bad odors. Do not keep in a musty grain bin, or in the vegetable cellar, or where they can absorb the odors of kerosene and gasoline.—C. S. A.

OLD STRAWBERRY BEDS SHOULD BE RENOVATED

As soon as the picking season is over, the strawberry bed should be mowed and raked off. The dead leaves around the old crowns should also be removed and burned. The rows are generally crowded with plants in the center, and these should be thinned out and the rest thoroughly cultivated with the hoe. Then the beds should be given a coating of well rotted barn-yard manure and worked into the ground.

In many cases where the rows are heavily matted and the young plants have taken root between the rows, it is advisable to plow up the center of the rows, leaving the younger plants to form the new row.

Strawberry plants produce the heaviest at the first season's fruiting and decline very rapidly after that time. For this reason, it is advisable to remove the old plants and give the younger ones a chance to develop. The old plants can easily be told from the young plants by the roots. Old plants have dark-colored roots, while young plants have light-colored. Also the crowns of the old plants become black and elongated, while on the young plants the crowns are short and light-colored.

Good fruit growers will ordinarily not fruit the beds more than two seasons, it being cheaper and more profitable to set out a new bed. But where only limited ground is to be had, the renovating system above described can be utilized to advantage.—E. P. S.

CARRANZA'S FIGHTING FORCE TOTALS FIFTY-TWO THOUSAND

But There Are 3,013,595 Unorganized Civilians Capable of Bearing Arms.

If General Carranza called his entire federal army into service against the United States he would have not more than 52,000 men. This was the estimate furnished to the United States war department at the time of the Vera Cruz troubles, and there has not been much of an increase since then.

Most of these troops were quartered in Mexico City, Guadalajara, Tampico, Zatecas, Mazatlan, Lantia, Guanajuato, Acapulco, Victoria, Valles and Puebla until March of this year, when the general northern movement toward the Arizona border slowly began.

When the headquarters of Carranza were at Vera Cruz—and that was the time the last estimate of Mexican fighting strength was furnished to the war department—General Obregon had a force of about 20,000 near Leon. General Pablo Gonzales, at Puebla, commanded 15,000 men. Other armies of Carranza on the east and west coasts number about 17,000. This makes a total of 52,000 troops who are supposed to be faithful to the first chief.

When General Villa's headquarters were at Chihuahua—just before his removal to Aguas Calientes—his total force numbered 40,000 men, and the greater part of these, the war department has been informed, moved back of Villa when he traveled north to make his raid at Columbus. Though many of these guerrilla warriors were put to flight by General Pershing, it is said that they have gone into Carranza camps. Before General Zapata began a movement toward the east from Mexico City he had 10,000 men.

About 5,000 men are engaged in guerrilla warfare in various parts of the republic. These include Yaqui Indians in Sonora and 3,000 men in the mountains of San Luis Potosi under Eulalia Guiterres.

Mexico's peace strength in 1910 was estimated at 43,989; reserved, 42,753; total war strength, 86,742; total available unorganized, 3,013,595. Mexico's population at that time was estimated at 15,063,207.

MILITIA EASY FOR RAILROADS

Have Ample Facilities, They Report, to Take All Troops to Border.

The railroads of the country say they are ready for the greatest preparedness test—moving of the militia of the country to the Mexican border.

Railroad officials east and west unite in declaring that as fast as the administration orders state troops moved they will be ready to transport them. The way is cleared for the movement of troop trains, and engines and cars sufficient to handle the thousands of men are said to be available.

The problem of transporting supplies may be more complicated. The eastern roads are just emerging from a serious freight congestion, but the managers believe sufficient cars will be available to handle the additional business.

"Western railroads, facing their greatest test for efficiency, can move the 80,000 to 100,000 militia summoned to the Mexican border without a hitch and without affecting regular passenger traffic." This was the statement of railroad officials who schedule the operation of most of the troop trains.

MILITIA OF NATION.

Munitions Men Needed at Home. Howard E. Coffin, chairman of the industrial preparedness committee of the naval consulting board, will call the attention of the war department to the inadvisability of calling for military duty skilled workmen of industrial plants manufacturing war munitions. ## Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is usually the result of an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out of this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; otherwise out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.
