Sargent Gething, who has been in the employ of a Portland oculist, went to Seattle Wednesday night to enter the employ of a friend formerly of Portland, at an advanced salary.

Mrs. Nettie Riley will deliver four messages on Peace up the Willamette Valley. She leaves home on Saturday, returning on Tuesday. She speaks at Roedale, Marion, and twice at Salem.

The week day school of the Adventist church is progressing nicely. They have a larger enrollment this year than last. Mr. Sanger Fox and Mrs. K. Sommerfeld from Lents attended the Oregon Dry luncheon at the Y. M. C. A. Monday.

Rev. W. G. Lienkaemper conducted a Missionary Rally at the First German Evangelical Reformed church, 12th and Clay streets, on last Sunday. Quite a delegation came down from Salem to attend the rally. Rev. Lienkaemper's pulpit in Lents was filled by Rev. R. Miska.

Rev. W. R. F. Browne, pastor of the M. E. church, was detained from going to the annual conference at Lebanon by the illness of Mrs. Browne. On Tuesday morning he went to Lebanon where, soon after his arrival, he was stricken with paralysis. Mrs. Browne went to Lebanon Tuesday evening.

Next Sabbath morning will be the quarterly meeting of the S. D. A. church, with ordination services. Mr. Butler will be ordained elder. Saturday evening there will be a business meeting for making plans for the work of the winter, which all members are urged to attend.

The Christian Endeavor of the Second Friends church will hold a business meeting and social at the home of the pastor, Rev. John Riley, next Tuesday evening. Mrs. Geo. Carr is president of the Endeavor and will conduct the meeting. Mrs. Minnie Mendenhall, as chairman of the social committee, will serve refreshments.

Rev. T. R. Hornschuch, pastor of Grace Evangelical Church, is expected to return from his trip to the mountains in time to conduct the regular services at his church next Sunday. Rev. John Riley supplied the pulpit last Sunday, delivering a strong and inspiring sermon both morning and evening.

The home of Rev. J. M. Nelson, on 86th street, is undergoing some needed repairs, and a furnace is to be placed in the basement. The reshingling of the roof was necessitated by the poor workmanship of the shinglers who drove the nails below the lap, causing the shingles to decay. "Drive your nails under the lap," would make a fine subject for a sermon.

Mrs. H. J. Menig and baby visited friends at Park Rose Tuesday.

Warren Kilburn of Scotts Mills is spending the week in Lents.

The New Method Laundry drives a new covered auto delivery.

The Wm. Wullemeyer family of Salem motored down to attend the rally at the 12th and Clay street church, last Sunday. On Monday they viewed the Columbia Highway and on Tuesday visited the family or Rev. W. G. Lienkaemper, who was formerly their pastor in Salem. They motored home Tuesday afternoon.

An effort is being made to secure the Maxwell auto, offered by the Markell Company, for Rev. John Riley, pastor of the Second Friends church. If the people of Lents all get their friends making purchases at that store to vote for Pastor Riley, the auto will doubtless roll out to the parsonage for a home. February is the date set for making the award.

Mrs. Walter Tyler has been brought to her home from the Good Samaritan hospital where she underwent a most critical operation. Miss Olive Peterson is the trained nurse in charge of the case. Dr. J. A. Pettit, the operating surgeon, it is said, disclaims any credit for the success of the operation, which he says was due entirely to the wonderful poise and abounding faith of the patient. The close friends of Mrs. Tyler look upon her recovery as an answer to prayer.

On Friday afternoon of last week a company of neighbors and friends gathered at the home of Mrs. Ella Fankhouser. Mrs. Esther Fankhouser in the mean time was entertaining at her home a few rods away, Mrs. Botsford, who has been spending the summer with her brother, Mr. C. W. Clark, living south of Johnson creek. When the guests had all assembled, Mrs. Botsford, the unsuspecting guest of honor, for whom the surprise had been planned, was inveigled over to the sister's home. The amazement of the lady was all her friends could desire. A program was rendered in which Miss Clark played the piano, Mrs. Ash sang and Mrs. Botsford gave a reading. Refreshments were served. Mrs. Botsford, whose home is in Toronto, Canada, left Tuesday for a tour of California in which her husband will join her.

TREMONT, ARLETA, KERN PARK

Mrs. M. Francis Swope returned last Friday evening from a week's visit with her parents and other members of her family, who live at Milton, near Pendleton, Oregon.

Last Sunday morning the Millard Avenue Presbyterian Sunday School observed its annual Promotion and Rally Day. The services were participated in by the Cradle Roll, Beginners and Primary Departments of the school as the Juniors held a special junior service on the preceding Friday evening.

On Friday evening, October 6, at eight o'clock in the Millard Avenue Presbyterian church a team of speakers from Reed College under the direction of Prof. Ogden, who is at the head of the department of education at that school, will present for the information of the voters of the community the arguments advanced both for and against the eight initiative measures that will appear up on the ballot at the coming election. A number of exceptionally good musical selections have been provided for the evening. Every one cordially invited to attend these discussions. No admission charges.

The Arleta W. C. T. U. met at Lucky Cottage last Tuesday afternoon. The following delegates to the state and county conventions were elected: State, Mrs. Stella Wilson; County, Mesdames Patricia Woodworth, Sarah Cuthbert, Lotta Murray, F. J. Merry (Delegate at Large), Stella Wilson (ex-officio); alternates, Mesdames Fross, Minnie Collins, and Eva Lawrence. Superintendents of Departments were appointed as follows: Mrs. Wilson, president; Assistant, Mrs. Lottie Fross; Organist, Mrs. M. Frances Swain; Flower Mission, Mrs. Patricia Woodworth; Social center, Mrs. Meta Smith; Sailors, Mrs. Eva Lawrence; Social and Red Cross days, Mrs. Lotta Murray; Sunday school, Mrs. Myra Zehrung; Press work, W. A. Hollingsworth; Mother's Meetings, Mrs. Laura Usher.

The next meeting of the Arleta W. C. T. U. will be held at Lucky Cottage Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 10, when the reports from the county convention will be received and plans for the present political campaign furthered. The county convention will be held Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 3-4, beginning Tuesday afternoon. The place of meeting is the First Christian church, corner of Park and Columbia streets. The State convention will be held at Pendleton, Oregon, Oct. 17-20.

Rally Day was observed at the Laurelwood M. E. church, Sunday, Sept. 24. The authorized rally-day program was observed, some of the features being old church hymns, songs by the Primary department, recitations by Oliver Clark and Evelyn Hecock, a short address by the pastor, the collection, and the secretary's report. The program committee was composed of Miss Mary Elizabeth Betz, Mrs. Gray, and Mrs. J. Archie Hollingsworth. A novel feature was the use of potted plants (ferns, leopard plants, etc.) loaned by Mrs. W. J. Hollingsworth for decoration. Vases of red geraniums contrasted with the green of these.

Monday evening, Sept. 25th, a "Get-together" social was held at the Laurelwood M. E. church. This is the second annual one of its kind, at which reports from the various departments of church work were given. The Amphion Male Chorus sang, and refreshments were served at the conclusion of the evening. The pastor, Dr. C. R. Carlos, left Tuesday for the annual conference of the M. E. Church which is being held at Lebanon this week. Laurelwood has had its banner year in various respects during the past Methodist Episcopal year and may reasonably hope for better things during the coming one.

The following essay on the work of James Evans, the great missionary to the Indians, was written by Harold Shaw, a second year Junior boy in the Millard Avenue Presbyterian Sunday School and read at the Junior Rally Day service September 22, 1916. Mrs. J. F. McLoney, teacher.

The Making of the Cree Alphabet. James Evans was a Missionary that lived in England. He went to Winnipeg to teach the Indians in North America about the gospel. This north country was very cold. There were many dangers and Mr. Evans suffered many hardships.

One thing that made his work hard was that the Indians had no written language that Mr. Evans could learn to read. They had no home but moved from place to place to hunt and fish and find grass for their horses. The reason why these Indians needed a written language so bad was because Mr. Evans could not follow them in all their travels. The Indians were very anxious to learn to read so Mr. Evans said, "Can't I figure out a way to read without learning our alphabet?" He listened to them talk and found there were only thirty-six groups in their language. After he had learned this he started in to make a sign for each group. Each sign stood for a part of a word. An Indian boy could learn to read in a week or two.

Mr. Evans' trouble was now, that he didn't have any type to print from nor any printing press. He couldn't wait to make type, so he made a pen by sharpening a stick. He made ink out of fish oil and soot. He had no paper to write on so he used birch bark to make his writing on. He used a large rock for a desk. The Indians learned to read very quickly and said, "The birch bark can talk." Mr. Evans made type out of lead from the tea boxes which he got from the fur traders. He also used the signs in pieces of birch bark, then made moulds out of clay. He melted the tea and poured it into his moulds. For a printing press he used a Jucker which the fur traders used to bale their furs. The women gathered the birch bark and got it ready to print on.

Mr. Evans printed hymns and verses out of the bible for the Indians to read. After about a year pages were printed the women sewed them together and put them in a book for them. This is the way they had their first Cree Books.

E., Portland, Oregon.

KENDALL

The first annual meeting of the Republics Association of the Association of the Republics was held Friday night at the home of Mrs. E. W. C. Little, 710-43 Avenue S. E., Portland, Oregon. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. E. W. C. Little, 710-43 Avenue S. E., Portland, Oregon. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. E. W. C. Little, 710-43 Avenue S. E., Portland, Oregon.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Clark are kept busy these days putting up jelly. They put up a great quantity for the trade. They, especially Mrs. Clark, are the leading spirits in social, church and Sunday School work.

CHERRYVILLE

The Fall rains have begun. The equinoctial storms—if these gentle rains can be called a storm—was a little delayed but got here all right. Joseph Keen of Portland was through here last week with a party of surveyors, taking the actual grade and exact length of the auto road from Portland to the Government Reserve at Zig-Zag, and beyond. They did not disclose what their purpose was but it is presumed it is for an auto road line but that is mere conjecture. Mr. Keen says his enemies are envious of his enterprise in various directions got a frame-up on him and landed him behind the bars but they couldn't keep a good man down and he proposes to keep-a-keeping on.

Candidate Hughes in a recent speech in Indiana says all Democratic legislation must be swept away. Nobody but a blind bitter partisan would talk that way, as many Republican members of congress, in fact all of them, voted for the Child Labor Law and also the Rural Credit law. The Outlook, a magazine edited by a thorough-going stand-patter says much of the legislation passed by the last congress was of a most excellent character. It is becoming more and more apparent that Hughes is not fit for the exalted position of President and what is more to the point stands a poor show of getting there.

Billy Sunday, in his opening at Detroit, Mich., said, "You fellows are lousy with money" and told his ushers and pushers "to go get all of it." There is many a truth spoken in jest and the money is what Sunday is after. He will never be found working among the slums of New York City or in the mountains of Kentucky or Arkansas where the people are miserably poor. He will stay where the picking is good. A steam threshing outfit was in town this week threshing oats at the Freil Sr., ranch. This is probably the first time a steam thresher was ever in Cherryville. Oats are good all over the county and several fields are reported around 100 bushels to the acre.

Potatoes are nearly a failure in many parts of the Middle West and a paper from Illinois says they are now selling at $1.50 to $2.00 a bushel. Why not ship some of our mammoth crop? The despised evergreen blackberry, which grows in any kind of soil and yields abundantly every year, are now being extensively canned in several parts of the state. One cluster, when growing in very rocky soil, will probably yield close to ten bushels. An acre of these berries, at prices paid in the Valley would quite a ways towards supporting a family through the winter.

There is an immense crop of huckleberries up around the Plaza.

THE LADY ON THE LINKS.

Enjoying a Game of Golf With the Wife of Your Friend.

She—Would you mind teeing up my ball? Thank you. Perhaps a little higher. John says I ought to have my tees lower, but somehow I never dare try. Shall I go? (She drives and goes about twenty feet. How difficult?)

He—(cheerfully) That's nothing. One never expects to play for the first three holes. (She drives and goes about twenty-five feet. You see?)

She—(to her husband) What ought you to do for me?

He—This is the best thing I think you should do. (He takes her club and tees her ball.)

She—(to her husband) You're terrible. Yes, I suppose I should, but one can always get on much farther with a handicap. (She tees the ball which goes about ten feet. How dreadful?)

He—Never mind. (Savagely driving his ball with his foot out of the grass nearly a hundred yards.)

She—Wonderful! John says you play such a consistent game.

He—The last time I played with John it cost me $10.

She—What? You don't play for money, do you? John says—

He—Oh, never! I broke four clubs. (At the end of the eighteenth hole her score is 128. He has a bad 110.)

She—It was awfully good of you to put up with me.

He—Good! The pleasure is mine. After all, it isn't your score that counts. It's the experience.

She—Thank you so much. (Later to John) He told me I played some simply wonderful shots and said I was developing a great game. There!

He—Of course you are dear. (Later to John) Say, old man, how do you like lying to another man's wife instead of your own? Life!

QUEER HUMAN NATURE. How the Significance of Words May Change With the Years.

How the same word may have a different significance for the same man at different stages of his life is given in the following from the New York Post, as adapted and expanded from the French in the Paris Figaro:

Life.—At twenty: Days that are coming. At fifty: Days that are going.

The Heart.—At twenty: An organ whose frequent palpitations are due to indignation. At fifty: An organ whose frequent palpitations are due to indignation.

The Truth.—At twenty: Something to be flaunted in the face of the whole world. At fifty: Something it is not always politic to tell.

Poetry.—At twenty: Something you read with eagerness and enthusiasm. At fifty: Something to quote.

Time.—At twenty: You imagine you never have enough of it. Therefore are always in a hurry. At fifty: You know you never have enough of it. Therefore never hurry.

A Mutter.—At twenty: A protection for one's dress shirt. At fifty: A protection for what is under one's dress shirt.

The Hair.—At twenty: You shake it back off your forehead. At fifty: Comb it carefully down across your forehead.

Key.—At twenty: A contrivance used to open things with. At fifty: A contrivance used to shut things with.

Depends on the Point of View. "Does your husband do foolish things with his money?"

"Well, I wouldn't say that. He gives it all to me."—Detroit Free Press
