Catarrh Cannot Be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly upon the blood and mucous surface. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surface. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing catarrh. Send for testimonials, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, price 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

tions down to Portland. In fact Mr. Lemke is a heavy contributor to the wholesale cut-flower market in Portland. This, however, is only one of his lines, for he has 10,000 square feet under glass, where he always has a full line of ferns, potted plants and cut flowers. He cultivates nine lots adjoining his green-houses. Mr. Lemke always sells his goods lower than the down-town stores, because he has less overhead expense and so can afford to do it. He does a very large trade in sprays and other floral pieces for funerals. Mr. Lemke spent 13 years in the business in his native land—Germany—before he came to this country; he has been established here seven years. We understand he is not yet married and . . . but we had better not say anything more for we are liable to get into trouble. He has an automobile now and can deliver orders at very short notice. He showed us some fine ferns that would cost $1-$1.25 in Portland that he is offering at 60c to 75c. His carnations are simply magnificent just now and he estimates that he has over 5000 plants. He does not make much of a fuss over his place, just says it is a modest little plant and warns us not to talk too "big" about it, but agrees with us that there is no need for local people to buy their floral pieces and decorations away from home. He has an exceptionally good heating plant for a small institution, but he thinks it pays well. He used about 50 cords of wood last winter. His best season is from October to the end of May. Of course he has a phone.

Mrs. Gullick, Milliner.

A neat little store is that of Mrs. Inez Gullick's Millinery establishment next door to Chester's Barber Shop on 92nd street, where she has been located for some three months. She has been located in business in Lents for several years. Of course it is not to be expected that a mere man knows much about ladies' hats, and we've seen the time it took more courage than we possessed to even venture inside such a shop, still we looked over the stock and having had a little experience recently buying hats for our better half and wanting to get something good at a very low figure, we have been kicking ourselves all morning that we did not look around in Lents before undergoing the ordeal in Portland. Portland stores cannot compete with the local store for Mrs. Gullick is an exceptionally good buyer, makes her own hats, trims them and is able to sell them at far less than Portland prices, and still make a nice profit. We saw there this morning a "stunning" hand-made black velvet hat that we were told would sell for $18 in Portland, which was marked down at a special winter sale reduction price at $6.25. Also a mauve velvet creation, warranted to "kill on sight" at only $5.75; if our stenographer had been a blonde we'd have sent her around right away! Hats all the way from $1 up, just as many different styles as displayed in Portland, and Mrs. Gullick always disposes of her old stock each season, holding none over, so they can be depended upon for style. Probably the greatest draw-back to Mrs. Gullick's snug little emporium is the small display window, but we understand this is to be enlarged next month, and once a prospective customer enters the store a good assortment is found attractively displayed. The prices of hats have just recently been greatly reduced, and the prices are even more attractive than usual just now.

A. N. Gardner.

Some four or five years ago Mr. A. N. Gardner thought he would quit the jewelry business and just "loaf around," so he sold out his prosperous business in Union, Oregon. A few months of idleness and loafing in California proved more than he could stand so he proceeded to find a nice quiet little spot where he could have his own tools again and potter around once more at his old job. That is why Lents has today one of the best watch repairers in Portland. Oh! by the way he told us not to say that, because he has all the work he wants—which by the way was something else we shouldn't have mentioned. But what in the world is a poor newspaperman going to do when he is trying to boost the community when he finds something that is creditable? We'll just be independent like that Pilate person we have heard about who said "What I have written, I have written." Well, anyway, to return to Mr. Gardner's comfortable little store, we have known of Mr. Gardner's skill with cranky and cantankerous watches and clocks for some time, and we have known several Portland people to come out to him with their troubles and he has smoothed them out nicely thank you. Today we found him poring over or squinting into a queer looking little old relic which he said was a Bull's eye, and was probably 150 years old. This looked a sort of fishy yarn to us until he explained that that was just the name the queer English folks of those days gave to that particular kind of watch. It was almost as thick as it was round, and was all hand made, but ticked steadily on as though it was just an infant. Mr. Gardner was fixing it

Health Problems In The Suburbs

By LORA C. LITTLE.

Editor Mt. Scott Herald.—Dr. William Graham of Belfast, authority on mental and nervous diseases, announces that insanity and all diseases of the nervous system have fallen off in Great Britain since the beginning of the war.

Astonishing, at first glance; but there's a reason, and if we can dig out the reason perhaps we shall have something of value to the life and health of the people of this quiet suburb of a city in a nation at peace and far removed from the scene of the world conflict. It is of interest to us, for there are neuroathenics and persons suffering from shattered nerves here as well as in other parts of the world.

First, know that all bodily functions depend on sound healthy nerves, and that disease in general is caused (at one stage of course) by nerve weakness. If then nervous vigor could be maintained, multitudes could be restored to health—could be kept in health.

Shall we, then, go to war? Heaven forbid! That would be on the order of setting a city afire to get rid of a garbage pile. No; let us instead find what it is that war supplies that is lacking in the ordinary life, and then supply that in a constructive and not a destructive way.

Here, I believe, is the secret. War (such a war as that in Europe) is a big thing, an absorbing interest; it so fills the consciousness of the people of Great Britain that there is no room for recognition of the trifling irritations and an-noyances of daily life. It is these little vexations and frets that wear out nerves—these and the sensualities that occupy otherwise empty minds. The stress of a great war lifts mentally idle and sensual people out of themselves by sheer force, and for once they have mental occupation beyond the gratification of their appetites. And those who are given to dwelling upon small griefs and troubles are made to forget them by a great trouble. Both classes of mind for once have a great interest supplied them—forced upon them.

Therefore get an aim in life, give your spare time at least to the thing that appeals to you as the most useful thing you can do, and then throw yourself whole-heartedly into your work, and it shall be meat and drink to you and keep you in happiness and health.

Dwell, too, in thoughts of the usefulness of your bread-earning toil, and that shall nourish mind and soul as well as body. Here is the very groundwork of hygiene.

and they are made of eggs. "real eggs, not the powdered kind," the charming assistant at the counter told us hastily. They handle a full line of cakes, pies, cookies and doughnuts. Their wagon makes daily trips to town and they are soon to install an automobile delivery.

Wiley & Allen.

One of the old-time firms is Wiley & Allen, the real estate men with their office at the waiting room on the corner of 92nd St. and Woodstock Ave. They have been in business here 12 years and have handled much of the real estate that has changed hands in years past. They claim that they have yet to hear of one of their customers being dissatisfied, a claim which those who know them will bear out. They have sold lots in Clemenson's Addition, Mt. Scott View, Mayfield Addition, the old town site of Lents, and practically every addition in the neighborhood. A great many of their sales have been on the installment plan.

Waiting Room Confectionery.

Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Fleener have been running the Waiting Room Confectionery for the past ten months. Its appearance has been greatly changed; linoleum has been placed on the floor and the inside newly painted and papered. It makes a very cozy soft drink and ice cream parlor, with a full line of fruits and tobacco. Mr. Fleener finds business is fair considering the present financial conditions.

New Meat Market.

A new meat market was opened recently in Lents in the Duke Building under the firm name of Becker's Market. Mr. Becker is quite satisfied with the share of trade that has fallen to him considering the length of time he has been established.

W. H. Hacker.

Another occupant of the Duke Building is W. H. Hacker, who, with his wife have a general grocery and vegetable store on the opposite side of the store to Becker's Market. They bought out Mr. Sullivan and are doing a nice little trade, strictly for cash.

Grim Reaper Busy Past Week.

This operation was to have occurred at nine o'clock Sunday morning, but death intervened at seven o'clock. Catherine was a member of the Friends' Sunday School and was loved by every one. Those who were present at the Children's Day Rally of 1915 will remember her as the fascinatingly beautiful tot at the end of the line who hid her face behind the card she was displaying. Her quiet, shy ways were what proved so charming to all who knew her. Besides her parents two brothers and one sister are left to mourn—Carroll, Otto and Louise.

Funeral services were conducted at the Kenworthy Undertaking Parlors Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Rev. John Riley officiating.

The sympathy of the entire community is extended to the family in their great bereavement.

Mary Meyers

Mrs. Mary Meyers, wife of J. H. Meyers, of Lents Junction, passed to her eternal reward at the family home on Dec. 28th, at the age of 64 years. Besides her husband a son, Ernest, and two daughters, Doris Myers Laubner and Mrs. Horton are left to mourn her loss. Funeral services were conducted at the Evangelical Church Monday afternoon, Jan. 1st, Rev. Krausse, of the German Lutheran Church officiating, assisted by Rev. Eppinger, of Montavilla. Interment in Mt. Scott cemetery.

Hattie Stenberg

Mrs. Hattie Stenberg, of Sycamore Station, died on Monday, Jan. 1st, aged 77 years. Funeral services were held this afternoon (Thursday) at the residence, at 2 o'clock, Rev. J. M. Nelson, pastor of the Lents Baptist Church, officiating. Interment in Multnomah cemetery.

Mary Ethel Height

Mrs. Mary Ethel Height, wife of Harry Height, of Bellrose Station, died

Dec. 30th and was buried from Kenworthy Parlors Tuesday at 11:00 o'clock a. m. She was a daughter of Amos Barrick. A little son is also left to mourn a mother's loss. Rev. J. E. Nelson, of Annabel Presbyterian Church, officiated at the funeral services. Interment in Mt. Scott cemetery.

Eva De Long

The death of Miss Eva De Long occurred at Salem the last of the week and the remains brought to Lents for interment. The deceased was a sister of Mrs. A. B. Gates, of Lents; also of Mrs. E. R. Lynn.

Funeral services were conducted at the Kenworthy chapel Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock, Rev. John Riley, pastor of the Friends' Church, officiating. Interment in Multnomah cemetery.
