Any fight on the floor of the house but was is all the benefit in favor of the insurremedy must strike at the root of these evils to be successful. There is a movement on foot. from the Federal Government down to the individual, to make war on the food speculators and artificial inflaters of value. It is the undoubted duty of all citizens to lend their influence to all movements eliminating, and if necessary, prosecuting the food speculator. If there be any traitors in America, if there is any crime that can be classed as treason, surely the man who will speculate in food at such a time is guilty and should be severely punished. There should also be a continual agitation against too much retrenchment; if retrenchment becomes widespread it will result in curtailing the money in circulation and the prosperity wave that seemed to be reaching us would be successfully driven back. We advise three lines of conduct to be consistently followed by all. Use all the influence you possess to eliminate food speculation, try and keep your average expenses about the same as usual, increasing them if you find it possible rather than decreasing, and use every vacant foot of ground, and every ounce of energy to grow garden produce of every kind, or in some other way become a pro-

$6,000,000 Bond Issue. Last year Congress passed the Federal Aid Road Act which provided that the national government should expend $75,000,000 in five years to aid the states in securing "good roads" if the states raised a like amount to meet the federal appropriation. Oregon's share under this act amounts to $1,819,280 of government money.

While the Secretary of Agriculture is nominally in charge of the expenditure of this money, the real head is Logan was given by Hamilton Holt of Waller Page, Director of the Office of New York at the Multnomah Public Roads and Rural Engineering, Hotel last Saturday. beaten and the government rule was upheld by the picked road experts of the United States.

Let us now see what steps the representatives of the paving companies (all of whom have paid royalties to Warren Brothers Company) who drew up the $6,000,000 road-paving bill, took to nullify the rules provided by the government for proper choice of roads and

They first offered a direct insult to the Secretary of Agriculture and the United States Office of Good Roads by arbitrarily providing that none of the roads to be paved should be classed as forest or post roads, whereby the Federal government could aid the state in securing a proper expenditure of money for paving. Not even satisfied with this defiance of the Federal government, the drafters of the bill had the effrontery to insert a clause directing the Federal government to expend 60 per cent of its money east of the Cascade mountains.

While the authors of the $6,000,000 paving bill were very careful to provide audience was drinking it in with be constructed and the character and rules of the Federal government should appear in the bonding bill so that comrapt attention, was an inspiration 2. "How does the taxpayer benefit directly by all the boosting offered by the ance companies, which pay fewer losses and pocket the balance?"

"Why don't the chiefs tell the story of fire prevention in Portland? Why don't they show what it costs and his candidacy for City Commissioner why?"

These are some of the questions asked by James Irving, secretary of the Firemen's Two-Platoon Committee, in answer to the statements made before the Improvement Club last week. Mr. Irving asks for information which should be forthcoming, and if the chiefs are honest in their purpose to serve the whole people of the city they will make a showing of the facts in the case. The questions asked about insurance rates is pertinent at this time. "If fire prevention work is of value to the taxpayer to the extent which the chiefs would have us believe, there chiefs in the down-trodden propertyowner becomes of little concern. The city is paying for fire prevention work. Does the city or the insurance company profit by the effort?"

"The fire chiefs have been telling the did they not give the conditions before the men were compelled, in self defense, to move for the shorter work day? Is it a case of "take what we duct an energetic campaign. offer or you will get nothing."

"What answer have the chiefs to this fact, relating to the efficiency of the house. Two men were at meals, two this office. men were off duty, two men were on special leave, and two men were on detail. Four men out of 11, at a house, certainly shows anything but efficiency under the present system. What baugh, Gresham, R 1. worse condition could prevail under the two-platoon plan?"-Jas.
