NATION'S GREAT MEN DEMAND PROHIBITION

Governors Of Six States, Presidents Of Railroads, Bankers And Heads Of Colleges Unite In Demand.

Washington, D. C., April 23, 1917.—A growing demand for war prohibition is coming from wholly unexpected, influential business sources. Governor Harris of Georgia after consulting with other governors, has sent out a call for a governors' congress to meet in the national capital on May 4th to consider effective state prohibition purely as a war measure.

Telegrams urging national war prohibition have been received at the capitol from governors Brumbaugh of Pennsylvania, Aldrich of Nebraska, Catts of Florida, Alexander of Idaho, Capper of Kansas and Bilbo of Mississippi, while more than six hundred telegraphic demands have been received within the last week from such men as Howard Elliott, President of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, F. A. Vanderlip, President of the National City Bank of New York, David Forgan, Chicago's leading banker, Joseph Boyer, President of the Burroughs Adding Machine Company, H. C. King, President of Oberlin University, F. L. McVeigh, President of the University of North Dakota, N. F. Hinnitt, President of the Washington and Jefferson College, Geo. F. Bogardus, President of the University of Southern California, Simon Patten, economist, of Pennsylvania. Among a big contingent of editors demanding prohibition are Van Valkenburg of the Philadelphia North American, Schermerhorn of the Detroit News, Butteneheim of the American City, and Holt of the New York Independent. Out of a group of nearly fifty authors may be named Upton Sinclair, Booth Tarkington, Ray Stannard Barker and John Burroughs.

When the Democratic caucus by a vote of 87 to 60 declared for national prohibition during the war, the world was dazed and amazed. There is no occasion for it. It is the logic of events. The nation is confronted with an alarming food shortage, and we must feed not only ourselves but our allies. Prohibition will divert enough food-stuff from the waste of the liquor traffic into its legitimate use to give every one of the twelve million men in the armies of our European allies a pound loaf of bread every day.

The best actuarial authority was brought to Washington and asked what effect moderate drinking had upon life, and told in the cold calculation of science that 180 men die among moderate drinkers for every 100 that die among abstainers. We need men. This presented a practical proposition. No sentiment. No moralizing. This is language that the brusque business brain grasps. We need more men for farms, factories, and the ranks. Congressmen were told that there are some hundreds of thousands of men engaged in the manufacture and sale of liquor which, with the traffic prohibited for the war, would help the labor crisis. In addition to this it is said that the use of liquor decreases the efficiency of labor from 15 per cent to 30 per cent.

Then the doctors came with the testimony that the liquor traffic is largely responsible for those forms of contagion that are most prevalent and most disabling among soldiers. The demand for war prohibition comes from newly aroused business interests that are seeking, in a practical way, to help adjust the nation to the strain and stress of the war.

Committee on War Prohibition, Irving Fisher, President, Washington, D. C.

OPPORTUNITY IS HERE FOR STATE DEVELOPMENT

From an industrial standpoint opportunity was never knocking so loudly at Oregon's door as at present.

The price of all farm produce is the highest on record.

Steel shipbuilding has got a foothold and with the government proposing to build 1,000 wooden merchant ships, Oregon and the northwest can show what can be done here in this line of construction.

This will help our timber industry which in turn will bring prosperity to every community.

Hand in hand with this industrial and agricultural growth goes power and railroad development.

Individuals and private business must co-operate with the government and the government, both state and national, must co-operate with private industry to bring about our fullest development.

Crucifying business to gain selfish political ends must stop and fair dealing on both sides will be the order of the day.

A crisis like the present is a great leveler and brings home to all of us our dependence on each other when necessity demands.

ARCHIE MASON for City Commissioner

Mr. Mason has filed his nomination blanks with the City Auditor, as required by law asking the voters of this city to elect him as City Commissioner. His number on the ballot is 4.

Mr. Mason is a native of New York state, coming to the west 40 years ago. He at once took up the contracting business, specializing in large undertakings in heavy work in rock, sand and cement gravel for all the principal railway lines in the Pacific Northwest and many of the branch lines, notably the Columbia Southern, the Sumpter Valley, the Klamath Irrigation Project for the U. S. government. He also constructed all kinds and sizes of sewers for the city of Portland, Salem, Hillsboro and Oregon City. Has done paving of every description including macadam, brick, block, concrete, bituminous and asphalt.

Mr. Mason feels that he is thoroughly acquainted with all classes of constructive work that the city may be in need of, such as laterals, sewers, tunnels, bridging and aqueducts.

He is therefore in a position to place himself before the electorate equipped physically and mentally to perform the duties of a Commissioner in an efficient and economical manner.

Mr. Mason says that he will always early and late give his personal attention to all matters assigned to him, and the lowly as well as the great will receive courteous treatment. He will have no "laggards" or "time killers" if he is elected.

He asks the voters of this city to weigh his candidacy with deliberation and elect a man that knows how and has the qualifications to fill the office with credit to the city as well as to himself. Mr. Mason shows no partiality in employing labor as to their nationality.

STATE GRANGE POSTPONES SESSION

Planting And Sowing Of Crops To Be Given First Consideration As Patriotic Duty.

Owing to the lateness of the season and the necessity for planting, the 44th session of the State Grange has been postponed to convene on Tuesday, June 12, at Astoria.

If we should have good weather during the week including May 8 to 11, it would seriously interfere with the attendance at State Grange of the delegates and visiting members, who must attend to the planting and sowing of their crops.

The shortage of the food and forage supply in this country as well as in the whole world, is much more serious than most people realize, and it becomes our patriotic duty as Patrons of Husbandry, and as farmers to supply the demand for foodstuffs so far as possible.

It is further urged that all member and Granges hold special meetings on Saturday, May 12, and co-operate with county and district agents of the Agricultural College to make those meetings a success in order to insure the greatest production of necessary food for the maintenance of our army and our people.

By order of Executive Committee, Oregon State Grange, C. E. Spence, C. L. Shaw, B. G. Leedy.
