

IF THERE IS ANY QUESTION

in your mind as to my ability to fit glasses correctly, even after others have failed to give satisfaction, read this:

Dear Mr. Pratt: I am glad to report that the glasses you fitted for me are working finely. My eyes are better now than they have been for several years. After the best specialists I could find back East failed to help them, I was about discouraged, but they are all right now. Mrs. Farr's glasses are also a perfect success. Her head quit aching before she had had them on an hour and hasn't bothered her any since. We are both recommending you to all our friends here.

Yours cordially,

REV. H. IRWIN FARR.

WAR TIME PROHIBITION

Commerce, Science And Health Demand Ousting of John Barleycorn.

The Connecticut Manufacturers Association, representing over 200 of the leading manufacturers of that state passed a resolution favoring complete War Prohibition by a vote of 176 to 1. That was remarkable.

The American Medical Association, the most representative body of its kind in the world, at its National Convention in New York this month adopted resolutions declaring alcohol to be neither a food nor a stimulant. That was remarkable.

The National Conference of Charities and Correction violated its custom of passing no resolution on a controverted subject and, recognizing the patriotic character and overshadowing importance of the question, unanimously adopted the resolution favoring national prohibition. That was remarkable.

Thus we see that these three remarkable events, embracing the fields of Commerce, Science and Social Health, are indicative of the growing sentiment in favor of prohibition. John Barleycorn is doomed. The war will prove his finish.

W.C.T.U. NOTES

The state headquarters of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union has been moved to 310 Selling Building, Alder St.

The Institute to be held at Lents, the third Thursday of July, will be of marked interest to all, the program will treat of the plans and methods of work for the W. C. T. U. patriotic service as outlined by the national body and carried out by the 20,000 locals throughout the nation.

A number of new leaflets containing valuable information on "Productive Citizenship in the Making," and kindred live topics, has just been issued by the labor department of the W. C. T. U., and copies can be had at state headquarters.

"Strong drink has stolen from every home in England one pound of food for every day of the war. The grain now used in the United States in the manufacture of alcoholic drinks would enable us to send a pound loaf of bread a day to each of 11,000,000 men at the front."

This statement is being sent out broadcast in the press of the day.

Section 12 of the Army bill reads "Section 12. It shall be unlawful to sell any intoxicating liquor, including beer, ale, or wine to any officer or member of the military forces while in uniform."

The National Council of Women representing twenty-seven of the prominent woman's organizations of the country with a membership of about 7,000,000 has gone on record endorsing national prohibition as a war measure.

Two hundred men representing live stock and farming interests of Minnesota recently wired President Wilson to suspend the manufacture of all malt and distilled liquor during the period of the war. William Hearst owner of the greatest chain of news papers in the world including great dailies at San Francisco, Chicago, New York, Philadelphia and Boston, has swung his two California papers—San Francisco Examiner and Los Angeles Examiner over to fight for ABSOLUTE, STATE WIDE, BONE DRY Prohibition.

The 700 physicians in attendance at the state convention of the Illinois medical association at Bloomington enthusiastically recommended the total abstinence abolition of the sale of alcoholic liquors in the military camps.

The Peruvian government offers $500 for a temperance text book. Every book submitted must be original and especially written for this contest. Manuscript had to be written in Spanish.

Mrs. Linnie Carl one of our own Oregon white ribboners is National Young People's Branch Field Secretary, after six weeks work in Tennessee word comes "Where ever she goes she wins friends. Her address here was one of the most inspiring I ever heard." We are proud of our Portland Girl.

Every meeting of the Mt. Scott W. C. T. U. is of great interest. Several new members have been recently added and a beautiful service of reception to new members makes each feel that they belong to a home protection army that is worth while indeed.

Word comes from the National headquarters at Washington to "keep the wires humming." This means that any day action may be taken by Congress on some of the bills now pending for national prohibition as a war measure. Communications by wire and letter should go at once to the President and to Senators and Congressman urging that such bills be passed. Rest assured the members of Congress are receiving their instructions from the liquor interests as to how to vote. Prompt action by the temperance people is absolutely necessary. Not only act yourself, but see that your neighbors, associates in business, and fellow townsmen do likewise. Also continue sending telegrams to the President, as commander-in-chief of the Army, asking that he exert his powerful influence for the safeguarding of the enlisted men.

PEOPLE'S FORUM

Veteran Writes Of Trip.

Battle Mountain Sanitarium, Hot Springs, S. Da., June 21st, 1917. To the Editor:—

Thinking some of your readers would like to know of my trip here I tho't I would write you about a few of the things I saw on the trip. I left Portland May 21st and stopped over at Penawawa, Wash. to visit relatives. Mrs. Clark remained there with her sister and I left there on the 28th for Spokane. I left Spokane on the morning of the 29th, taking the Milwaukee road. The ride to St. Maries was thru a fine farming country and everything in the crop line looking well but the season was two to three weeks late, and it was the same everywhere. There had been a few days of warm weather and the snow had melted fast and the St. Joe River was out of its banks and drift wood, logs, lath, lumber and even some small buildings were floating toward Couer'd Alene lake, and in some places the water was within a few feet of the track. The scenery was fine after we left the lake and entered the foot hills of the Rockies. The sky was clear and we began to see the lofty peaks in the distance, with valleys, ravines and hills nearer, and farms scattered over the landscape. As we went up the valley, the hills grew steeper and valleys narrower, but the changing scene grew grander as we climbed the western slope.

At Avery we changed from steam to electric power for the 441 mile haul from Avery to Harlowton, Montana. There was no smoke and no cinders flying in the car windows, and the start and stop was minus the jerk and bump of the steam power which made that part of the journey easier. From Avery to Roland the west entrance to the big tunnel at the summit a distance of 24 miles we had climbed over 1600 feet, had passed thru 22 tunnels and crossed 24 bridges. As we drew near the summit we saw the higher points covered with a mantle of snow that the warm weather was fast dissolving, and nearly every gulch and canyon had a series of cascades and miniature waterfalls from the snow line to the bottom. In a few places the snow had drifted in hollows and the water had cut a channel under it leaving a snow arch.

In passing thru the tunnel at the summit there was none of the discomfort of smoke and cinders sifting thru the cracks and the two mile ride under the Idaho-Montana line was a pleasure indeed. The same beautiful scenery was to be seen on the east side of the mountains but there were fewer tunnels and bridges. We dropped into the valley in a few miles where man with his ingenuity has made the desert to blossom as the rose and has made beautiful, productive farms where only the Indian and jack rabbit were to be found less than a half century ago, and thriving towns and cities are found every few miles with all of the necessities of modern life and most of its luxuries and comforts. Night came down with her sable shroud soon after leaving Missoula, so I will close this letter for fear there may not be space for more. Kindest regards to all my friends at Lents.

REV. R. H. CLARK

"Senatorial Dignity."

Washington dispatches advise us that a certain United States senator offered a bribe of $5,000 if his son were exempted from the draft. The party to whom the offer was made promptly communicated the fact to the Attorney General of the United States.

We are watching for the next act in the drama of "senatorial dignity."

PORTLAND'S RESPONSE TO RED CROSS APPEALS

The response to the appeals for the Red Cross fund in Oregon have been as patriotic as the response for subscription to the Liberty bonds. Like all organized charities there is no approximation to justice in contributions. The millionaire food speculator has not contributed in proportion to many of his victims. The millionaires of Portland contributed very small sums. There are grain speculators, potato speculators, fish speculators, meat speculators, timber and lumber speculators, and other kinds in Portland, who have made fortunes out of the war already, and stand to make much more. It is safe to say that out of the Federal lists of millionaires in Oregon a dozen could be picked who could have contributed the entire apportionment out of their incomes and profits this year and never missed the money as much as the widow in South Portland who has eight children to support by hard labor, and who contriuted eight dollars. Charity is no remedy for anything. Much of it is pretense and flap-flap. The genuine part of it is usually imposition on those already robbed. The cinch on the working people of Portland for food stuffs alone amounts to more than half a million a month that is levied by the food combine in our beautiful city of roses and tax dodgers.

Farm and Grange

Non-Partizan League.

Among many interesting questions considered at the State Grange recently held at Astoria was the abolishment of the State Senate, the organization heartily endorsing such a measure. The senate can be abolished in less than twenty words. The proposition was put up to the people once and defeated, but that does not mean that it will always be defeated. We used to have two city councils in each city running at the same time and hiding behind one another just as our two Legislatures do now. One legislature at a time is bad enough. There have been two sessions of the legislature since the people had the abolition of the state senate first sprung on them. Perhaps they would not shy again. "The State Senate and the office of State Senator is hereby abolished." That is sufficient to do the job if backed up by the people. North Dakota is about to abolish her state senate. The Western States of Canada have done so long ago and they get along just as well.

Keen interest was also manifested at the State Grange in the non-partisan movement, as outlined by Mr. McKaig, of North Dakota. The Grange endorsed the organization of Oregon under its leadership by a strong vote.

Mr. McKaig stated that the primary object of the non-partisan league was to do away with food speculation. We quote the following extracts of his address, taken from the "Oregon Farmer":

"It is not so hard and fast that Oregon members are expected to adopt and work for those things which the people of North Dakota need. Different states have different needs. It is a great reform party, but there is no wish to become too radical. It is what I may call a conservative-radical party. It is for political freedom by means of the ballot. It is revolutionary, if you call it revolutionary to have the people rule in fact.

"Nor are we trying to have nobody but farmers as governors and members of the legislatures. We want honest men who are wise and willing to work for the good of all the people. It makes no difference where they come from.

"The party is built like other political organizations are. We hold caucuses and conventions as other parties do.

"We have been attacked bitterly in some states by some organs. We were called 'socialists' in North Dakota because we advocated the building of grain elevators by the state.

"In the Western States we have been welcomed by the farm organizations in particular. As in Oregon, so in Idaho, Montana, Colorado and elsewhere, the grange and union would adopt us as their own. In the East where we have made some progress, the farm organizations are more conservative, but they have made way for us without coming out in the open with their endorsements."
