The Constant Customer

Most of our customers are constant customers—returning to us repeatedly for whatever they may need, from tires and tubes to practically everything in the nature of motor car accessories.

You may be an out-of-towner—you may not live where we can serve you constantly—we may have opportunity of serving you only once.

Nevertheless it is our endeavor to make our service such that you will always remember that once, and wish that you could be a constant customer of such a garage as this.

Kendall.

The Ladies' Aid and Parent-Teacher Association recently held their last meetings for the current year. They will meet next month to elect new officers and outline their program for the work of next year.

School will not start in the Battin district for two weeks yet, being that much later in starting than the city schools, thus giving the children more time to assist in the harvesting of the crops.

The dry weather will make the garden crops short, yet the supply will be more than usual as so much more was planted in this district than last year, especially potatoes and beans.

Mr. Strasser and family are now valued residents of this district, having purchased one of Mr. Oleson's homes.

Mr. Oleson was home from Eastern Oregon for a short visit, returning Tuesday. He is engaged in drilling wells in the eastern and central parts of the state. He says in some instances the wells cost as much as the original cost of the farms, but add more to their value.

Mr. O'Sullivan and family have moved to Kenton so as to be nearer his work. Mr. Fowler and family contemplate doing the same, thus we lose two of our valued neighbors, but they may not remain away for long and their homes will undoubtedly be occupied by others during their absence.

The Will Of The Majority.

"I'd like to see anybody interfere with my own business. I'd send him out of here in a wooden overcoat."

This is reported to be a quotation from the utterances of a moonshiner of Oregon. As a matter of fact, we haven't a doubt but that a good many men have said something of the sort. Their argument is based, apparently, on the belief that so long as they make whiskey for their own use, out of their own grain, on their own places, the law can not interfere.

A recent decision of the Oregon supreme court definitely states that the manufacture of intoxicating drinks of any kind is expressly prohibited, no matter for what purpose the liquor is to be put. The will of the majority is that nothing of the sort can be made in this state. It is lawful to defy the express will of the majority.—Oregon Farmer.

Jailing traitors and alien enemies is quite proper and should be done in every case, but we'd like to see them put to work and made to earn their keep. Taxing loyalty to feed disloyalty does not appeal to us.

"No matter where you are billeted," writes a Canadian soldier from the trenches in France, "there you will find the Y. M. C. A.—the nearest thing to home we boys have."
