RED GROSS WORKERS PADDLE IN RAIN

In order to show their sympathy with the actual canvassers, every member of the headquarters staff in Portland laid off half a day and personally took charge of precinct work, doing the actual "door-"all pulling" themselves.

Among those who actually got soaked sion will be 10c, with an additional to the skin, so they could experience at first hand the lot of the workers were, C. C. Chapman, state chairman; Henry E. Reed. state manager; Rufus C. Holman, manager of the city campaign; A. C. Black, advertising manager; Orton E. Goodwin manager of the Press, and Victor J. McCone, manager of the speakers' bureau.

The entire staff, although they have neglected private business entirely for the campaign, resolved they could get wet into the bargain.

Their action put renewed impetus into the Portland campaign.

Despite the inclement weather, campaign headquarters at Portland reports that a really remarkable showing has been made and that with the final days of the campaign yet to come they are 240,000 members of the Red Cross.
