THE BREAD LINE

THERE would be no bread lines in the big city if we who live in the country towns did our duty by one another. You and I can do our part to break that bread line—to break up that appalling condition in which men must either beg or starve. Remember: The bread line of the big city is recruited from the country. Our town has its duty to do. Our Community can solve this problem. Industry should be plentiful in the country towns. But industry can't flourish here if we send our money to build up the big city. If all of us all the time spent all of our money in our home town there would be no bread lines in the big city. Each home town would then take care of its own. Let you and me do our part.

Food Will Decide The War

—We must remember that every flag that flies against Germany is, by proxy, an American flag; that those fighting in our defense cannot be maintained over this winter without the food necessary for their armies and ours; and for their men, women and children at home. Their needs can be supplied only by the resolute personal service of every man, woman and child in this country. This is your individual service in this war.
