

Hoover Needs Aid

In order to make sure that there is sufficient sugar to meet the requirements of the 1918 canning season, the United States Food Administration is making a renewed appeal for greater conservation of sugar.

If you want to be sure of your favorite marmalade, quince jelly, or canned loganberries next winter, help Mr. Hoover save sugar for the housewives, who are relied upon to fill the pantry shelves with all these good things in the canning season. Arrangements have been made whereby every housewife, by signing an official certificate, will be able to secure an ample supply of sugar for canning and preserving fruits for her family upon assuring the government over her own signature, that the sugar will be used for this purpose only and that she will limit her household in the use of sugar for all other purposes to three pounds per person per month.

Now, in order to provide this supply of sugar for the home canners, Mr. Hoover calls upon us all to do a little extra saving on sweets. By using less sugar in your tea or coffee and eliminating all frosting or sweetened fillings in cakes, and by eating less candy or no candy at all, everybody can help save sugar for the canners. Instead of sugar use cane, corn and maple syrups, honey or molasses in cooking. To sweeten your cereals serve them with syrup or sweet fruits, and most important of all—stay your hand when it reaches for the sugar-bowl! That extra spoonful sprinkled over your strawberries or laded into your coffee may seem only a little bit, but with everybody doing it, the spoonfuls soon mount up to sacks.

How to Increase World's Bread Ration

With famine creeping through Europe, and every nation struggling to produce enough food to sustain life, the American farmer has a duty that he can not shirk. America must ship food to Europe for our soldiers. America must supply bread to starving peoples. No matter what other crops are raised, more acres should be devoted to bread grains. "Do your bit, Mr. Farmer," says a Food Administration bulletin. "Success depends upon you in this world war."

West Point is on a food-conservation basis, and the health of the cadet corps is better than ever. All bread used is composed of 45 per cent wheat flour, 45 rye, and 10 per cent white bolted grain flour; and many cadets consider it superior to the former white bread. Sugar consumption has been cut down, meatless days and meals are rigidly observed, and the reduced amount of meat has been beneficial to health. A lesson from a reliable source.

Taking It From Babies.

"Every ounce of wheat products in excess of six pounds per month that you eat, Mr. American Citizen, is that much literally taken from the mouths of the starving women and children of France," says a Food Administration bulletin. "The armed allies may go without wheat, but these innocents will actually die unless we give them of ours in generous proportion."

Victory bread is received with hearty approval. But don't be satisfied to use it on a wheatless day or at a wheatless meal, because it isn't wheatless.

"Potatoes for Wheat, or it May Mean Defeat."

It is ABSOLUTELY necessary that we increase the consumption of potatoes, and conserve wheat. Millions of bushels of American potatoes will spoil by summer, if they are not utilized now, so urge your customers to load up, two sacks to a family, if possible. Farmers must be encouraged to plant more potatoes next year, for it is through increasing the consumption of potatoes that we are able to reduce the use of wheat, which is the only food product compact enough in the emergency to be shipped to the Allies, and to our soldiers at the front. Potatoes are too bulky and even beef shipments must be limited.

The above is an extract from a letter from W. B. Ayer, Food Administrator. SLOGAN: EAT MORE POTATOES, SAVE MORE WHEAT.
