ELDERLY FARMER SERIOUSLY INJURED

SPIRITED HORSES TAKE FRIGHT AT AUTO ON FOSTER ROAD AS DRIVER, A. C. KANNE, IS COMING INTO LENTS THIS MORNING.

A. C. Kanne, an aged farmer, whose home is on the Oregon City road this side of Clackamas station, was seriously injured when his horses became frightened by an automobile, upsetting the wagon and dragging him for some distance. The accident occurred on Foster road just east of 92nd street about noon today.

Mr. Kanne was driving into Lents in a one-horse light wagon with a large draught horse tied to the rear of the rig. It was this horse which, becoming frightened, pulled away and overturned the wagon. The driver of the automobile, Mr. Hewitt, agent for Armour & Co., stopped his machine when he observed the horses' fright, but too late to prevent the disaster.

Mr. Bohna came out of his store nearby and, with several others who witnessed the accident, went to the old man's assistance. He was carried into the Lents Pharmacy, and a physician summoned who rendered first aid. He was found to be injured internally and to have scratches and bruises about his face. An ambulance was called and he was removed to a Portland hospital.

WATSON AND KENDALL

The patriotic citizens who have flag staffs and display our National emblem are James G. McVey and Synney C. Hays, both of 71st avenue southeast, near 89th street; George Ward, Earl Johnson and Mr. Kragh, of 85th street southeast, C. H. Everson, Al Going and Mr. Sallor of 83rd street; and Harry Hipperson of 67th avenue and 81st street has recently erected a flag staff with a large flag.

Mr. Sanders, proprietor of the meat market at Gray's Crossing, took a trip on the Columbia Highway last Sunday, accompanied by his wife and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Porter, and son Arthur, as far as the famous "Punch Bowl," which was enjoyed very much. The lunch of many appetizing viands was neatly relished, after exploring the interesting nooks and drinking from the pure springs.

Mrs. Hull and married daughter and family, recently from Kansas, are visiting another daughter, Mrs. Mackenson, living on 82nd street southeast. They think some of buying property and settling here in our delightful old Oregon.

CHURCH SOCIAL FRIDAY EVENING

There will be a get-acquainted social at the Baptist Church Friday evening, beginning at 8 o'clock. Ice cream and cake will be served. Good time with games and short program. Everyone invited. Bring your friends.

Four American Y. M. C. A. secretaries with French and British units joined the staff of a base hospital and worked twenty hours a day as stretcher bearers and nurses in order to serve the wounded soldiers.

MR. SNIDER RECOVERING FROM INJURY OF LIMB

One day last week while working in the yard of the Inman Poulsen Lumber company, G. W. Snider, of 4418 79th street southeast, met with a serious accident. Mr. Snider's duties connected him with the handling of large timbers with a moving crane. In attempting to handle a 10 by 12 inch timber some seventy feet long, the hooks were not placed in the middle of the stick when the hook tender signaled the donkeyman to drop the timber, which he immediately did. The end of the big stick struck Mr. Snider's leg just below the knee, bruising the knee badly as it slid downward until it struck the foot.

Mr. Snider, suffering severely, was hurried to his home in an automobile, and Dr. G. T. Trommald, the company's physician, was called. A preliminary examination was made and later in the evening the limb was placed under the X-ray, which disclosed three fractured bones in the arch of the foot. The fracture was reduced Sunday morning and Mr. Snider at present is on the road to what the doctor expects to be a permanent recovery, although it will be some time before he can return to his duties.

CHERRYVILLE ITEMS

The crop of cherries is good here, both in quality and quantity.

Scarcely a drop of rain fell in June and but very little in May.

Haying is a short job here and with little prospect of a crop of grain.

Henry Beedenstein says twenty-nine years ago it did not rain from along in May until in September. Wow!

Lots of land seekers roaming over the hills these days looking up railroad land and a chance to contest somebody who has not fully complied with the law.

Henry Tenwyck of Marmat was called to the colors this week. When in Oregon City for a physical examination the Examining Board said he was a perfect specimen of physical manhood. They raise some fine specimens of humanity in these hills.

Old miners from Alaska were here on the hills last week and said the extreme agitation of the needle on their compass indicated mineral in these hills. They found some porphyry which they said carried gold and took it into Portland for analysis.

Old Hindenburgh says he is going to shake another big drum and going into Paris. He was going into Paris last Easter, but failed to connect. They were going to storm England and sink our ships loaded with soldiers and going into Verdun. Pools are always boasting. "Seest thou a man wise in his own conceit; there is more hope of a fool than him." "Though you bray a fool in a mortar with a pestle, yet will his folly not depart from him."

WISCONSIN ASSOCIATION WILL PICNIC AT COLUMBIA PARK

WIMBERLY-LENT WEDDING

A very pretty home wedding was solemnized at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Lent Saturday evening, July 6th, when their only daughter, Letia, was united in marriage to Carl E. Wimberly, of Roseburg, Rev. Oswald W. Taylor, of Grace Memorial Episcopal Church performing the ceremony.

Only the immediate family of the bride, and the bridegroom's brother, G. V. Wimberly, and wife, were present. Miss Ruth Lent played Mendelssohn's Wedding March, and during the ceremony, softly McDowell's "To a Wild Rose." The parlors were beautiful in a bower of ivy, ferns and garlands of Dorothy Perkins roses.

The bride was unattended except by her little nephew, Claude Lent, who carried the ring in a large pink rose, and little Marian Klingel, as flower girl.

Mrs. Wimberly grew up in Lents, and except when in attendance at Willamette University and teaching in Roseburg High School, has always lived here.

Mr. Wimberly was city attorney at Roseburg, but is now one of Uncle Sam's volunteers, and is in training at Benson Polytechnic school.

FROM OVER THE STATE

A Salem dealer has ordered 1000 Ford tractors.

The Farmers' Elevator Company of Shaniko has let the contract for a 30,000 bushel concrete elevator to cost $22,500.

The Albina Engine and Machine Works now has a free circulating library for the benefit of its employees.

The North Bend Box Factory is now working on two shifts. This city has just shipped 2000 piling to the Hawaiian Islands.

The Willamette valley loganberry industry is being nationally advertised.

The Portland grade teachers are helping to save the loganberry crop at Gervais.

Four large silos are being built on the North Coos river.

Work at the Gresham cannery is under full headway, the canning process being applied to cherries and a few raspberries and loganberries. About 30 tons of cherries will be put up, and they are of excellent quality.

The one-reel comedy in which Charlie Chaplin and Harry Lauder appear together will be released soon and the proceeds devoted to charity.

DOGS AND CHICKENS DO NOT HELP CONSERVE

In a time like this, when everyone is trying to do his bit and in every way trying to do as our Government heads request, it is rather discouraging, to say the least, to have all our efforts prove futile, or as much so as can be made possible by the gross carelessness and extreme selfishness of others—others who, from a financial standpoint do not need to conserve or have not enough good red blood in their veins to make them want to conserve. By this I mean, for instance, when one has worked hard early and late to get a garden spot in readiness, and having at last, after long hours of trial (while the above mentioned neighbors are taking nice long morning naps or in the evening are lolling in their hammocks or riding about in their limousines) have finally gotten a garden growing nicely and are looking forward to the time of fruition, to wake up some morning or to return from work some evening and find that these same neighbors' chickens have been at liberty and, chicken like, have taken advantage of that liberty to visit our garden, and have laid waste in a few moments what has taken weeks of time, labor and money to produce. I would like to ask in all seriousness if this is justice? Or is there no recourse in a case of this kind? If there is not, then why are the children at the school taught so carefully to raise gardens, rabbits, etc., to help conserve for the Government, and at the same time to teach them frugality?

These children at school and at home as well, are taught to be thrifty, and have instilled into their young hearts and minds to respect the rights of others. Young lives are susceptible to impressions and are keen to know when things are on the square with them, so I think we should be careful that their rights are protected as well as that they are taught to respect the rights of others, else we are apt to help them form a habit of deceit and chicanery instead of upright principle and true democratic spirit which we so much admire and profess to possess.

Then why not have a law which will compel (when necessary) others to protect the rights of those who are trying to obey the mandates of those in authority.

I can cite another true case of similar inconsistency. A boy 12 years old, a member of the rabbit club (a boy who owns a liberty bond and some thrift stamps which he has paid for by his own efforts) has by dint of much study and work gotten a fair start of Belgian hares. Imagine his feelings when, a few evenings ago, he heard a commotion in the back yard, and rushing out found two large white bull dogs playing havoc with his beloved rabbits. A fine doe with seven five-weeks-old young ones were strewn around on the ground all dead or dying and another doe, about to be a mother, was being torn to pieces by one of the dogs.

The money value can be readily figured of these nine rabbits which were destroyed in a few moments by these dogs, which in my mind had no business whatever to be running at large. But the money loss is nothing to be compared with the principle involved. You may think the pens were not properly made or not fastened securely, or the dogs could not have opened them; but they were made according to plans in the rabbit manual, and in addition had double chicken wire and good clasps to the doors. One would not have thought it possible for anything except human hands to open them, but those dogs tore open three hatches and destroyed nine rabbits in a few moments, that had taken much thought and care to produce.

Now the question is, what is the use of trying to teach our children and grown-ups thrift and economy if the "slackers" are not forced to respect the rights of those who are trying to do right? Among the first things necessary to bring about justice, would be to have chickens and useless dogs kept from running at large.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

The Lents Union met last Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. E. M. Scheuerman, 6017 89th street southeast. No outside speakers were present, but an interesting discussion was held on the patriotic work being done by the State and National Unions.

Special attention was called to the W. C. T. U. Patriotic Home, which is situated near the cantonment at Camp Lewis, Washington. Those who will receive care in this home are soldiers' young wives who are soon to become mothers, and who have to depend upon the scant allowance from the husbands' salaries, supplemented by the Government allotment of $15. For a nominal sum per month the Home will afford them room, board and sympathetic Christian care and surroundings.

Mr. Crandall brought his family to Oregon from Neillsville, Wis., several years ago, and they made their home in Lents for a number of years. About three years ago they removed to a farm near Oregon City, but owing to Mr. Crandall's failing health, gave up farming and located in Sellwood about a year ago.
