

UNIVERSITY EXTENSION WORK TO MEET ALL NEEDS

The seventh annual session of University of Oregon extension classes, opened at Central library Monday, with 33 classes scheduled. Registration will continue throughout the entire week. First meetings of all classes, with the exception of commerce courses in ocean traffic and transportation and export and import trade of the Pacific Northwest, will be held on Monday evening, October 14, in the Oregon building.

The special series of courses for men in industries, including practical instruction in structural drafting, mathematics, electricity and magnetism and applied science, are arousing much interest among men in shipyards, steel plants and electrical shops, in St. Johns and Vancouver as well as in Portland.

In addition to these special courses instruction will be given in many of the usual university subjects, such as French, Spanish, literature, psychology, education, public speaking, art and ethics. According to a recent ruling of the university faculty students who complete approved extension courses may secure residence credit, which may be counted toward graduation, thus making it possible for them to complete a full university course with a minimum of time taken from their regular employment.

CHRISTMAS PACKAGE REGULATIONS

Mothers and friends of boys in France should note closely the regulations covering the transportation of Christmas packages. The war department has given out rules which must be followed if the soldiers are to receive their prized-holiday remembrances.

To make the plan successful there is being issued to every man overseas a "Christmas parcel label." Unless the fighting man sends this label to his family or to some friend he can receive no parcel. Similarly, should the label be lost in transmission, there will be no duplicate issued, and, in soldiers' parlance, "he will be out of luck."

The parcel to be sent, upon the receipt of the label, may weigh not more than two pounds 15 ounces un-wrapped. The Red Cross will wrap the parcel in a specially prepared carton, three inches by four inches by nine inches in size, and articles sent must go within these dimensions.

The Red Cross will deliver these cartons one at a time only and only to holders of the War Department's "Christmas parcel label." As soon as the labels arrive from France the Red Cross will receive the cartons and will have them at Red Cross Christmas parcel stations in Portland, as well as at the offices of branches throughout the counties of Clackamas, Tillamook, Washington, Yamhill and Columbia, while other parts of Oregon will be cared for by their respective Red Cross chapters. All parcels must be mailed before November 15, and should be prepared as soon as the label is received from France.

The carton may be filled with any articles that are not overweight or prohibited and a list of prohibited articles will be given out with cartons. When the carton is filled it should be taken to the Red Cross receiving station to be established where Red Cross representatives will inspect the parcel and will exclude any article disallowed by the war or Postoffice department.

The Red Cross will remove notes or messages; will wrap, tie and weigh the parcel and will then place on the package the "Christmas parcel label," received from abroad and bearing the name of the recipient. The sender will then affix postage stamps at the rate of 12 cents a pound or fraction thereof and the Red Cross representative will attach an "inspection" tag. The Red Cross will then retain custody of the parcels until delivered to the postoffice authorities.

No Christmas package will be received by the postoffice addressed to soldiers overseas that does not bear the "Christmas parcel label."

EAST SIDE CONGREGATION DEDICATES BIG CHURCH

A story of religious zeal and hearty service was told in the dedication of the East Side Baptist church last Sunday. The structure is of stone, and represents the result of an effort begun in 1872. Dr. W. B. Hinson had charge of the dedicatory service.

The East Side Baptist church was established as a mission and was organized in a cottage on the south side of East Ankeny street between Seventh and Eighth streets, November 2, 1872, the property on the corner of East Seventh and Ankeny streets was purchased and a small church building was erected. August 30, 1880, the organization was incorporated as the First Baptist Church of East Portland and continued as such until February 8, 1896, when the name was changed to the Second Baptist Church of Portland.

This church continued to worship in the small building until 1898, when a new building was completed and dedicated. Soon after this, owing to a misunderstanding among the members, a separation ensued and a part of the membership withdrew and erected the building at East Twentieth and Ankeny streets. In August, 1910, the two congregations came together and organized the present East Side Baptist church and continued to worship in the building at East Twentieth and Ankeny.

Of the original charter members there are five remaining. Mrs. W. B. Hall, Mrs. Margaret Frazier, Mrs. George McLynn, and Misses Mae and Anna Shogren.

Rally Day.

Last Sunday was rally day at the Evangelical church. Every department of church work was being rallied, and the occasion was a complete success. For several weeks the plan had been before the workers of the church. Everybody got busy in making personal calls and mailing invitations to friends of the church, Sunday school and Y. P. A.

The crowds that responded to all of the services of the day did credit to the workers. An enjoyable program had been arranged, which was carried out to perfection. Much patriotic thought was woven into the services of the day. The soldier boys from Vancouver, who had been invited, added to the interest of the occasion. They were taken to Lents homes for dinner. A social hour with the soldier boys in the young men's room at 5 o'clock was an enjoyable season. Lunch was served and when the hour came for the Y. P. A BOX FROM HOME

Drawn by Gaar Williams, Division of Pictorial Publicity.

Food savings of millions of Americans during our first year of war enabled this government to send enormous food shipments abroad for our fighting forces and the Allied nations. Our savings in cereals—out of a short crop—amounted to 154,900,000 bushels; all of which was shipped to Europe. We increased our meat and fat shipments 844,600,000 pounds. This was America's "box from home" to our army abroad and the civilians and military forces of the Allied nations.
