GRAYS CROSSING BOY IS HOME FROM PHILIPPINES

William Bennet, son of W. S. Bennett, of 82nd street and 66th avenue, arrived home December 22, having served his country in various ways. He enlisted in the hospital service and was sent to Mare Island. After a short time he was made inspector in the explosive department in the arsenal where he remained until six months after the armistice was signed, expecting every day to be sent home. Instead, in the evening of one of those days which looked bright to him, thinking of home and parents, the order was given him to be ready to go on board ship early the following morning for the Philippines, where they arrived after a long, round-about trip of three weeks. There he was put into the naval hospital corps at Canntico. On November 9 they received orders from the war department to send these boys home, and they arrived at Mare Island where they were again detained for two weeks. His term of enlistment had expired six months before he was sent to the Philippines. In the meantime a brother died in Roseburg and his mother was in a hospital here. Mr. Bennet is a graduate of Washington high school, also of Reed College, department of chemistry. He has now gone to O. A. C., Corvallis, to take up a six months' course in chemical engineering. He speaks very well of the way they were fed in the service, except on the ship, where he says they were not given enough at any time to satisfy their appetites.

DUNBARS SURPRISED ON 25TH ANNIVERSARY

A pleasant little surprise was recently arranged for Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Dunbar. Christmas day was their 25th wedding anniversary, but everybody being so busy the surprise was arranged for Friday evening when the Friends church was converted into a parlor and the people were invited to come out and give the glad hand of welcome to Martha Isler, who had just returned from Michigan where she had been visiting her father and sisters, and Harry Tamplin, who had recently returned from France. When the people had assembled, to the surprise of the Dunbars they were escorted to the platform, which had been decorated with lavender and white crepe paper, with a big white wedding bell in the center, where they were presented with a case of silverware. Mr. Barker made the presentation speech in the form of an original poem. After a musical program Mr. and Mrs. Dunbar repeated the old Quaker wedding ceremony that they had repeated 25 years ago. Martha Isler and Harry Tamplin gave interesting accounts of their experiences while away. Glen Sanders, of 6212 90th street, is the happy possessor of a new Maxwell.

VISITORS FROM ALASKA HAVE HAD TRYING TIMES

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Nelson, of 81st street and 67th avenue, have had as guests Mr. and Mrs. Reinier, of Marshfield, and Mrs. Nelson's niece and husband, Mr. and Mrs. James Cox and children, of Alaska. Mr. and Mrs. Cox have been in the government service teaching the Indians in Alaska. Mr. Cox carried mail. Mr. and Mrs. Cox and their two boys who were there, one having come out about two years ago to live with his grandparents at Marshfield, were very sick with the flu while it was so bad among the natives in their little settlement. The Indians died off like flies with only such care as Mrs. Cox could render with the facilities she had. When she was stricken they had no one to help and many just starved. It was a pitiful sight to see the mothers being taken to the little burying ground to lay beside their dead babies and the older children. They dug a trench and wrapped their dead in a blanket for burial. Mrs. Cox says she never wants to see such suffering again. There were only a half dozen grown-ups of the natives to take care of the little ones left—nearly a hundred. Nurses and doctors were sent up there by the government but for some reason they did not seem to relieve the stricken people. They made only one call on Mrs. Cox. To add to their suffering, in addition to hunger they did not have sufficient clothing to keep them warm. Mrs. Cox went to Alaska five years ago to join her husband, and after she was on the boat she was stricken with black measles, and only recovered enough to change boats when her boy two years old was stricken and nearly lost his life. When they finally reached the point where her husband met them with the government launch Mrs. Cox and son were about exhausted. Then a storm came and nearly wrecked their heavily-loaded boat. To add to their distress engine troubles arose and Mrs. Cox had to stand at the wheel while Mr. Cox repaired the trouble. They landed safely at last at a house so dirty that it could not be occupied until it was fumigated. She is a brave woman and has no fear of these adventures. This is not their first experience as Mr. Cox has been in the employment of the cannery company for several years. When they came out the trip before this the cannery company boat was lost for three weeks in the Behring sea.
