Now that there is to be another jump in the price of gasoline, will they still call it a filling station or an emptying station?

What a garden a man could have if things were as sure to come up as they are on the produce dealer's counter.

They are sending music by wireless and before long you'll be able to tell a man what you think of him from a safe distance.

Predictions are the temperature will rise. There is no reason it shouldn't. It is the season for it, and everything else is doing it.

That yarn about a ship's crew being saved from starvation by the food carried for a cargo of parrots is certainly a bird of a story.

It is the sober opinion of a competent judge that dandelions make better greens than wine even in this period of drought.

Public opinion in epitome has effectively swatted the family profiteer who took four lumps of sugar to his or her cup of coffee.

The height of hardship will be reached if those profiteers who prey on human necessities decide to raise the price of summer furs.

Present tendencies toward lower prices may be a mere windfall. Stable values and prosperity to endure demand normal production.

Possibly it would give the somewhat deflated overall movement a new impetus if King George should appear in a pair at some important function.

France will be able to raise enough wheat for her own bread this year. But the American speculators do not seem to believe it, judging by prices.

A 5 per cent decrease in the potato acreage may be due to a realization that the ultimate consumers will not be able to eat so many at prevailing prices.

Nowadays the owner of the "one-man farm," intensively cultivated, is in luck, being independent of hired help, unless he feels the need of a chauffeur.

Immigrant families from South America are bringing in great rolls of money, sometimes hundreds of thousands of dollars. One suspects that they intend to rent a flat.

W. M. QUINN AND FAMILY SHAKEN BACK TO OLD OREGON

Dr. O'Donnell informed the Herald yesterday, that W. M. Quinn, and wife and the doctor's daughter, who accompanied them to Los Angeles, California, about two weeks ago, were all expected to arrive in Lents Thursday evening. The Quinns went to Los Angeles to make of that place a permanent home, but after experiencing several tremblers they were finally shaken back to "dear old Oregon." The Herald welcomes them back, where there is no dry-land sea-sickness.

ICE-CREAM SOCIAL.

The ladies of Shiloh Circle, G. A. R. announce that they will give an ice-cream social at the Hodge lawn at 5815 92nd street on Saturday, July 31 from 2 p. m. to 9 p. m. The proceeds go to keep up the expense of the organization, which is purely one of human interest in the welfare of those who have survived the great civil war.

EVANGELICAL CHURCH NOTES

There will be no Y. P. A. services next Sunday evening, because of the camp meeting at Jennings' Lodge. All young People's services there, the Young People's services there, also the Y. P. A. convention on the afternoon of the fourth and fifth of August at the camp ground.

ARLETA BAPTIST CHURCH

"The Choke Hold" will be the subject of the morning sermon at the Arleta Baptist church Sunday, August first. Mr. Day will discuss the power of secret sins to strangle the higher purposes and the nobler determinations in life.

In the evening the subject will be, "The Promise of Prosperity". The short Sunday evening services are being well attended. The attractive music led by a large choir under the direction of J. A. Finley is unusually agreeable this summer.

The Pastor will take a much needed rest during August, in preparation for what promises to be the best year's work in the history of the church. Plans are under way for the enlargement of the temporary Bible School equipment, which will be ready by fall.

The Womans Society of the Arleta Baptist Church are giving a Food Sale at the Arleta Sewing Machine Store, all day Saturday, July 31st. Cooked food and fruit of all kinds will be on sale. The prices will be reasonable. Get your Sunday Dinners at the food sale. Come early for the best service.

INSECTICIDES INVESTIGATED

How growers may increase the value, reduce the cost and lessen the damage of sprays applied for insect control, are explained in a new bulletin, "Insecticide Investigations," just off the O. A. C. Experiment Station press. The effect of "spreaders" in getting a thin, smooth and even covering of poison is described by A. L. Lovett, Station Entomologist, from many experiments conducted in the last few years. The information is bound to prove of very great benefit to growers, who may get a free copy on request. Address Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Ore.

Mr. Frank Saunders of 512-87th street has just returned from a weeks fishing trip over on Wilson river, and report a good catch, and a fine time.

An Efficient County Officer.
The Mt. Scott Herald feels like paying a compliment to Sam. B. Martin, the efficient County Auditor for the promptness with which he furnished the copy for the Auditor's Semi-Annual Report of Receipts and Disbursements—Multnomah county, Oregon, 500 copies of which were printed last week for distribution by the county. The copy was all that could be desired in the matter of its preparation, and there were no long waits in getting it to the busy printer, hence this unsolicited compliment to a county officer who does things right.
