MICKIE SAYS

SAV, LISSEN, FOLKS! THERE AIN'T NO LAW AGAINST EDITORS CAREENING MONEY, SO IF YER LUCKY ENOUGH I'VE HAD ONE WITH A LIL' PEP, DONT HOLLER WHEN HE RAISES MORE FER TH' PAPER ER RAISES TH' PRICE OF ADS! GEEWILL! THEY AINT NO WORSE KNOCK ON A TOWN THAN A STARVED LOOKING NEWSPAPER!

Give the weather man a chance. All he needs is time, and he's sure to get the weather under control sooner or later.

When the manufacturers take to putting French heels on wooden shoes something will have to be done about it.

Dandelion greens can be had for the picking out on the prairies. The trouble with them is that they increase the appetite.

Straw lids are to cost more this year on account of the panic in Japan, or the social unrest in Bongoland or something.

If overalls become established in custom, some one may have the courage to go a little further and wear wooden shoes.

If anyone had ever supposed that self-determination was going to be carried to such lengths—but why cry over spilt milk.

The grower gets $7.37 for the wool in a suit of clothes that sells for $75. It's a far journey from the back of a sheep to the goat's.

Unquestionably it is the opinion of that varnish manufacturer whose home was bombed, that somebody would like to see his finish.

If the Japanese continue to be thrown out of Siberian towns they may ultimately decide that they are not really welcome.

Wasps were, of course, the first paper makers, but it does not help the average publisher of a newspaper very much to keep a wasp.

The high cost of overalls is quite likely to figure conspicuously in the family expense account unless profiteers lose their nerve.

A struggle to which the sporting element will look forward with interest will be that between the high cost of living and the summer furs.

Everybody is to have an equal chance to buy ships built by the United States but that doesn't seem to disturb the automobile salesmen.

In attempting to solve the sugar problem the government officials are merely undertaking a job that hitherto has been that of the housewife.

Some of the American draft dodgers who ran away to Mexico to escape the horrors of war must be awfully put out about the Sonora revolution.

According to a physician, posing as an expert, kissing in the dark is unsanitary. However, most men will continue to take a chance, as opportunity affords.

Japan promises to withdraw from Siberia when Siberia is no longer a menace to Manchuria. That combines oriental subtlety and Asiatic wit in a way calculated to make the judicious giggle.

Eggs have been nationalized in Russia. Each section of the country must deliver a certain number of eggs to the soviet. Even the czar did not go so far as to lay the hens of the country under tribute.

Every joy rider does not kill a human being, but they all take chances.

"Dry as a judicial ruling" hath a new significance.

The Poles appear to have been fighting ever since peace made them a nation.

A good many joy rides seem to be merely a trip from the garage to the hospital.

The census gives Philadelphia an increase in population, but doesn't explain it.

When fears are entertained it is always for the fishing party. Never for the fish.

The high cost of labor is nothing compared with the high cost of loafing on the job.

Some dealers say the shoe price peak has been passed, but they do not say which way.

Politics is still a men's game almost as much as baseball, but that's not saying women won't assimilate it.

No doubt the advocates of the six-hour day are among the bitterest of those who denounce the profiteers.

Potatoes are a few cents cheaper and the world breathes easier for having survived another great crisis.

Then again it may be that men marry their stenographers because the latter leave out a word now and then.

Another valuable thing the home gardener is able to get at this time is an unusually large crop of satisfaction.

No doubt that further advance in the price of coal will do much to encourage summer storage by consumers.

The fact that the next war will be in the air doesn't cause as much worry as the fact that the present peace is.

Sharks eat insulation off Pacific cables. Probably trying to get at some of those fish stories sent over the wires.

Sir Fortesque Flannery says the next war will be downright brutal, the last one having been a ladylike affair, of course.

A girl in Texas has won a prize for designing, making and wearing a $2.87 dress. She may be a wonder, but she'll never be stylish.

About the cheapest way to settle the Mexican problem would be to move the oil wells over to this side of the Rio Grande.

A necktie that displays a genuine pattern may be as bright as one that looks like an explosion in a paint shop—and it costs more.

Civilization is based on the unnecessary of life. Take them away from the people and they behave in a highly uncivilized manner.

A Seattle cafe announces that all tips left on the tables will be given to a local institution for the blind. Not if the waiters see them first.

Little complaint can be made against the personnel of the new German ministry, for few of the members ever have broken into print before.

Factory workers were wrong in their fear that the overall movement would send up the price of overalls. There are many pairs for sale cheap.

The annoyance caused by a coal shortage in summer gives an inkling of the distress to be feared should the shortage be prolonged into the winter.

Less than half the people struck by lightning are killed, declares a scientist. Right, but after we have elected them we often wish they had been killed.

And now a silent machine gun has been invented. Perhaps the genius responsible for it could be induced to give some thought to a muffer for suffragettes.

Scientific investigation has proved that tobacco smoke is not injurious to frogs. If it was, the frogs would be worrying us to death, trying to "bum the makin's."

"There's a law for profiteering," says a contemporary. We knew that, but what we want is one against profiteering, and then someone to enforce it.

If the world were not so lately through with the big war, it would consider any one of the half-dozen or more wars now going on as conflicts of epochal importance.

Mexican politicians are said to have agreed on Oregon for president, but the election doesn't occur until September 1, and the agreement is likely to be all Mex. by that time.

As Detroit passes St. Louis in population the ancient Mound city may be heard to remark in a superior, aristocratic tone that one must accustom one's self these days to taking the dust of upstart flivvers!

Deep Sea Bolsheviks.
The habit of attacking and endeavoring to overthrow venerable and other institutions is not consigned to human outlaws. One of the most persistent and ingenious of nature's iconoclasts is a marine worm, commonly known as the shipworm, which swarms in certain waters, especially on the coasts of East Africa. It apparently resents the introduction of wood into its domain, and whenever it comes across a ship, wharf, or pier formed of this material, it takes at once direct action. Its method is to bore into the timber, following the trend of the grain, and whenever it encounters a knot it makes a slight detour, and again forges ahead. Thus the erection, whatever it may be, is rapidly undermined. It is stated that a wooden viaduct which was erected across the arm of the sea which connects Mombasa with the mainland was practically destroyed by these vermin of the deep.

Cripple's Vision.
Sometimes dreams have been the means of bringing about extraordinary cures. A cripple, who for sixteen years was obliged to walk on his hands, because the muscles of his legs were so contracted that he could not use them, was asleep when there came to him a vision of a certain well in Cornwall, and he realized somehow, in the way one does in dreams, that if he washed in that well he would be cured. The dream made such an impression on him that he made the journey and bathed in the well, and as a result his lameness left him and he was able to walk as well as anyone. Of course, this is very easily explained as faith-healing, but still, it is quite a remarkable instance of the influence of dreams.—London Tit-Bits.

Strange Polar Sea Vegetation.
Among the most remarkable of the cold water plants are the laminariae, a kind of seaweed, which sometimes attains a gigantic size, exceeding in length the longest climbing plants of the tropical forests, and developing huge stems like the trunks of trees. Investigation has shown that these plants flourish in the coldest waters of the polar seas, and that they never advance further from their frigid home than to the limits of "summer temperature" in the ocean. The genial warmth destroys them.

Record Genealogical Tree.
A Spanish nobleman, the Count of Orca, has a genealogical tree complete in every branch from Noah downward. A golden ark figures in the family escutcheon, and the count maintains that his title commemorates the services rendered to humanity by his ancestor at the time of the Deluge.
