

Quality First

In some lines of business price may well be the great talking point. Those who can buy best and sell lowest have something interesting to say to the public.

In the Drug Business

It's different. Quality regardless of price should be the main factor, and it is here; what you buy here in the line of drugs and medicines will be of right quality, and price asked will also be right—as low as goods of same quality can ever be bought for anywhere.

MERELY HER 'INDIAN SUMMER'

Elderly Lady Rejects With Scorn the Idea That She is in the Autumn of Life.

She is a little old grandmother—exactly seventy-four years old. And quite a busy little creature she is, knitting stockings for this niece, a sweater for her grandson and tating lace for her newest great-grandchild. Her daughter with whom she lives, the other day remonstrated with her for working so hard. "You don't have to work so hard now, mother," she said. "You've worked all through your summer of life and now at autumn you surely should have a rest."

"I'm not having an actual autumn of rest and decay," the old woman indignantly protested. "My life is too beautiful and too fruitful to label it that way. It's an Indian summer. When I was younger I used to watch old people having autumns when they fretted everybody and were miserable themselves. It worried me because I knew that some day I would be old, and I didn't want to make anyone, not even myself, miserable. And one autumn I enjoyed Indian summer so much that I decided to have an Indian summer in my life. And," half indignantly, "I don't intend to have you or any other person throwing frost on it to ruin it, either."—Indianapolis News.

FOUND THAT NEATNESS PAYS

Indianapolis Youths Possibly Only Needed Good Example, Though the Pennies May Have Helped.

Somebody invented an old saw to the effect that "bad news travels fast." In the vicinity of the Weidely Motors company's plant good news did the same thing.

One day a dirty-faced urchin of the neighborhood asked Bill Umphrey of the Weidely company for a penny.

"Wash your face and hands and I'll come through," Billy told the kid.

When Mr. Umphrey emerged from his office at noon the youngster was there, his face and hands glowing like a 100-candle power lamp. He got the penny.

An hour later, when Mr. Umphrey returned, there was a lineup as long as that for the "Follies." A regiment of clean hands was outstretched for coins of the realm. The generous Billy came through again.

He started something. Now the kids have begun work on George Weidely and Truman Rapp. The result is that Irish Hill youthful countenances and hands beam like a circus billboard.—Indianapolis News.

Ibanez's Contribution to Poe Memorial

When Senor Blasco Ibanez said that the Bronx should erect a memorial to Edgar Allan Poe—and threw down $100 to show that he means business—he acted like a poet. Though Poe pried into a number of nooks and crannies of European literature, he seems never to have interested himself in Spain or Spanish. His "Oval Portrait" is located in "one of those piles of commingled gloom and grandeur" which have so long been associated with Spanish architectures, and that is about the extent of his debt to the land of our guest. But poets do not look for reasons; they are content with opportunities. Seeing that we had no adequate Poe memorial, he seized upon the chance to make a good suggestion. Possibly, also, Poe's "Four Beasts in One" prompted generous thoughts in the author of "The Four Horsemen."—New York Evening Post.

A Disturber.

It was a scrubby little room, in a scrubby little part of a scrubby little city's scrubbiness, and the London traveler didn't approve at all.

When he went to wash he found that there was no water for the basin, no soap to wash with, and no towel to dry himself with.

So he rang.

Five minutes interim bringing no answer, he rang again and then again and again, until his arm ached. At the end of 20 minutes a waiter of forbidding aspect opened the door.

"Did you ring?" he inquired in a bass, rumbling voice.

"Of course I did!" snapped the London visitor.

"Well," said the waiter as he withdrew, "don't do it again! You'll wake the misses!"—London Tit-Bits.

Lightheaded Customer.

A Jeffersonville merchant has recently placed an automatic weighing machine in front of his store. A few days ago a citizen was observed standing on the machine and closely scrutinizing the dial. His hat was in his hand, although the thermometer marked a low temperature, and a passerby asked him why he had his hat off. "I want to see what I weigh without my outdoor garments," said the citizen blandly. His interlocutor walked away, muttering: "He wouldn't weigh much less if he took his head off as well."—Indianapolis News.

Tomato Juice for Babies.

Dr. Alfred F. Hess of New York says that canned tomatoes are good for babies. Orange juice is commonly given to them, for they need something of this sort to prevent such diseases as scurvy, and Dr. Hess has found that canned tomatoes serve the same purpose. He told the State Medical society that he gives about an ounce a day to infants that have passed their first month, especially to those whose mothers are not nursing them.

VILLAGE OVERRUN BY DOGS

Housewives of Silver Lake, New York, Had to Guard Kitchens From the Hungry Animals.

The hamlet of Silver Lake, on the outskirts of White Plains, N. Y., is all "het" up because of the large number of dogs that have migrated to that section, according to the New York Evening Sun. In the daytime they forage through the town and at night they make sleep impossible by their howling.

Silver Lake has a population of about 500 persons, and it is said that there are 141 dogs, one lap poodle and half a dozen hounds by actual count.

A staid old resident says that there is every kind of a dog imaginable in Silver Lake—small ones, big ones, short ones, long ones, dogs with no tail and one eye, lean ones and fat ones, but mostly lean ones.

This great influx of dogs to Silver Lake has created many nuisances. In fact, the housewives don't dare leave their kitchen doors unlocked or half a dozen hungry mutts will be roaming around trying to find something to eat. The story is told of how one woman baked a raisin pie for supper for her husband. She left it on the kitchen table to cool while she went about her household duties. A little later she heard a great commotion, and when she went to the kitchen she found half a dozen hungry canines, big and little, fighting for the last raisin of her pie. She struck them with a broom, but that did not do any good, because they had her pie.

ENGLISH TERMS ARE ADOPTED

French Take Kindly to a Number of Expressions That They Learned During the War.

We all know what an army of French words has billeted itself permanently upon the English language. Not so many of us think of the interchange of prisoners, so to speak, between French and English, of the numerous English words naturalized in France. In sport, of course, this English contingent was to be expected. "Champion," "ring," "knockout," "coming man," "singles," "football," "touring club," "skating rink,"—long is the list of such English words in French. Even the French labor dialect has suffered some English infusions—"trade union," "lockout," "leaders." There is even the lovely verb "lockout-er." "Whisky" and "pale ale" and other exported names of sin must mostly remain unmentionable here.

The war has introduced "boy scouts," hardly to be recognized in its French pronunciation, "scouts," "Tanks" and "nurses" are familiar words in contemporary French. At a theater or railroad office you are almost as likely to get a "ticket" as a "billet." "On the golf links," wrote an English collector of French Anglicisms last year, "one may hear 'J'ai droppe une balle,' instead of the clumsy 'laisse tomber.'" "Lavatory" has suffered a sea change. In Paris it means a barber shop where you can get a shampoo.

Get Busy!

Real development lies in arousing the potential worth that has been lying dormant in your character. The first step is in starting something that will challenge the whole being to activity. Many a man does not feel equal to the tasks of the day. But circumstances are such that he has to make the start. The first few strokes of the pencil may not mean much, but the fact that he starts something arouses him to keener thinking, and before long he may be doing his best work. And each idea begets another until the fellow is aroused to full capacity. Yes, and there are occasions when the very stress of necessity makes a man rise to the superman that lies within each of God's creatures waiting the challenge worthy of it.—Grit.

This Old Earth.

In a recent lecture Sir Oliver Lodge, the eminent English scientist who is now visiting America, announced that the earth would probably continue to exist for 20,000,000 years more. These are, of course, round numbers. Some scientists estimate that the earth will live for ten times this age. There have been animals of one kind and another on this planet for fully this length of time. The dinosaurs are believed to have lived through some such period. The age of man, which is probably only a few thousand years, seems the merest trifle by comparison. When we consider how man has developed during recorded history, which is less than ten thousand years, we may hope that he will evolve to an infinitely finer type in the future.—Boys' Life.

Keeping Warm With Games.

Games were never so popular as now in country houses, and the reason is not far to seek. Living rooms are not heated as they were in the good old times, and guests, young and old, vote for games because they are warming. There isn't a better game of ball than "fives," known in the days of Queen Elizabeth and declared by her to be "the best sport she had ever seen."—The Gentlewoman.

Coal in Mexico.

The only state in Mexico producing coal is Coahuila. Normal production is about 900,000 tons a year, but at present only about half that quantity is obtained and none is exported. The shortage is supplied from the United States. Coal is not needed for heating purposes and charcoal is used for cooking.

There is a "Funny" Side to Fuel Costs

It's this—"funny" that any motorist will go right on day after day burning up perfectly good fuel from which he gets no mileage return whatever.

"Funny" that any motorist will pay exorbitant gas costs.

"Funny" because it is not at all necessary. There is only one excuse—that is he's not acquainted with the New Stromberg Carburetor.

No excuse whatever for the motorist who is familiar with the New Stromberg and its wonderful feats of mileage production.

Anyone who knows anything at all about this remarkable carburetor knows that it gets most miles per gallon of gas. There is no disputing or denying the economy of the New Stromberg.

It holds World's official economy records on virtually all makes of cars. Which means that it cuts deep into travel costs on any car.

If you belong to the "excusable" class of motorists—those who are not acquainted with the New Stromberg, come in and let us introduce you to facts and figures that will convince you of the folly of excessive fuel expense. Better still, put a New Stromberg on your car. Try it out 10 days. If you are not satisfied, we'll trade back—you take no chance whatever. The New Stromberg must show you savings before sale is closed.
