HERALD CONTEST CREATES MUCH INTEREST AND ENTHUSIASM

MRS. ADA RAINEY WINS $5.00 CASH PRIZE

Great Interest Evidenced in Trade-at-Home Contest

First Week's Selection Was Difficult and Change Made in Rules to Give Readers More Chances to Win Cash Prizes

Today, Mrs. Ada Rainey, of 8924 57th avenue S. E., was made happy by the winning of $5.00 in cash for the correct solution of the contest problem in the "Trade-at-Home" section of The Herald and the largest number of votes for the week.

Mrs. Rainey was the only one sending in the correct answer, although many replies were received. Inadvertently, the contest manager selected an incorrect name as the first, Gilkey's Restaurant, and as this contained seventeen letters, all scattered through the ads upon page six, it was a task beyond the ability of those not accustomed to finding errors, to locate them all and then arrange them to spell the name of an advertiser.

It may be said that the Herald stretched a point in order to award the prize. No correct answer was received on Wednesday up to five o'clock, when the office was closed. Mrs. Rainey's solution reaching the Herald on Thursday morning. She enclosed 1800 votes, of which 1200 were credited as a result of her subscription to the Herald, taken last Saturday.

Another point to be made clear is that in the future no one will be permitted to enter the contest who is an employe of a firm whose ad appears in the contest. It would leave the way open to fraud to a great extent, the employes having access to the coupons which are given out in the business houses.

In Mrs. Rainey's case, however, there was absolutely nothing unfair. She obtained the bulk of her votes through subscribing to the paper, and worked for hours in finding the name of the firm; for that reason, and because no other correct reply was received, the Herald awarded her the $5.00 in payment for her zeal. Mrs. Rainey is an employe of the Cottage Restaurant, Lents, and took a great deal of interest in the contest since the details first appeared.

This week we will make a radical change, in order that it may be easier for some one to win the money offered and get a flying start toward the cash prizes at the first week. We have picked the names of the Arleta Theater and enough letters have been omitted from the ads in question to spell the name of this popular playhouse. Find these missing letters, mark them with PEN AND INK, tear out the entire page and mail it to the contest manager, Mt. Scott Herald, Contest Manager, Mt. Scott, Oregon, Lents Sta., Portland, Oregon, together with the coupons, purchases at the stores participating in the contest. The correct answer accompanied by the largest number of votes reaching this office before 5 p. m. Wednesday will earn for the sender $5 and the lead in the race for the $150 given at the finish.

Remember, this money is waiting for you—we want you to read the advertising of these progressive merchants. The only way you can get the prizes is to prove you have read them by marking the errors. Only those errors as occur in the ads themselves count. Where words are abbreviated, as "St.", "Rd.", "Ave.", "Or.", the letters dropped in abbreviating do not count. "Arleta Theater" contains thirteen letters; find and mark these thirteen and you have an excellent chance to get the money. Incidentally, the contest manager will pay $1.00 to the first person calling the attention of the Herald to any error in these particular ads that is not one of these missing letters.

Don't forget that 1200 votes are given with each subscription, new or renewal, to the Mt. Scott Herald. This number will go a long way toward securing a prize, if you are clever enough to comply with the other terms of the contest offer.

Arleta Theater was chosen as the answer to the second contest, and everyone throughout the Mt. Scott district is familiar with the location of this popular movie house. Four thousand people each week add to their pleasures by a night spent at this theater, and one and all praise the management of this house, both for the courteous treatment accorded its patrons, and the high quality of pictures shown. Make it a point to attend some evening soon, if you are not already a patron, and you, too, will be a booster for the Arleta Theater.

Watch for the announcement next week of the standing, also the winner of a crisp $5 note. Remember that at the finish $1500 will be distributed among the first five contestants; tidy sums that will go a long way toward the expenses of that desired vacation next summer. It costs absolutely nothing to enter, beyond the effort necessary to read the ads and save the coupons.

The father of Mrs. T. A. Droste, residing at Ridgfield, Wash., has suffered a stroke of paralysis, according to word recently received.

HABITS OF THRIFT ARE BENEFICIAL TO YOUNG

Secretary Houston of the treasury department has addressed the following letter to the school children of America:

"I have been gratified to hear of the fine record you made last year in saving money, and of your investment in thrift stamps, war savings stamps and other government securities. Your government is proud that the young people of the nation are developing these most practical habits. I can assure you that the money you are now investing in government savings securities is very helpful in meeting your country's great responsibilities. While you are aiding your government through the purchase of these securities, you are forming habits which will be most valuable in the future, in the mastery of your personal financial affairs. I congratulate you on your record and encourage you to continue this splendid work."

"It is my earnest hope that from the lessons of thrift which you are learning in your school, by your practice of saving, investment and intelligent use of all your money, you may early in life get such a start toward financial independence that your success will be assured."

"In order to provide for the needs of those who desire to invest in larger amounts than the 25 cent thrift stamp and $5.00 war savings stamp, the treasury department has issued two new securities—a $1.00 treasury savings stamp and a $25.00 treasury savings certificate to be added to its present list of savings securities. Four of these stamps with a few additional cents can be exchanged for a $5.00 war savings stamp, or twenty of them with the addition of a small cash payment can be exchanged for a $25.00 treasury savings certificate. I trust that your savings may increase in 1921 over what they were in 1920 and that the $1.00 savings stamp and the $25.00 treasury savings certificate may be attractive to you in the investment of your future savings."

Sincerely yours, D. F. Houston, Sec. of Treasury. More than 100,000 copies of the letter were necessary to reach all the school houses in the United States and a special list of superintendents and principals.

The new officers of Mt. Scott lodge No. 1888, I. O. O. F., were installed on the evening of January 4, District Deputy Grand Master T. C. Cox acting as installing officer. The officers who took charge of the affairs of the lodge for the ensuing year are: President, Frank Mirwald, N. G.; T. E. E. Cleland, V. G.; W. E. Goggins, G. S.; Chas. Rabr, F. S.; F. R. After the installation refreshments were served. The toastmaster, Walter Sanders, then called on the new officers for remarks. The talks most worthy of mention were made by Bro. Goggins and Peterson, who cheered and enthused the members with their review of the progress made by the lodge during the past few years, inspiring everyone present with the desire to work with greater diligence for the good of the order.

W. C. T. U. PROGRAM

A program in observance of national constitutional prohibition day was given by the Arleta W. C. T. U. last Sunday afternoon at the Kern Park Christian church. It was as follows: America, audience; selections, men's quartet of Laurewood M. E. church; scripture lesson; prayer; text of 18th amendment to constitution; selection, Kern Park Christian church choir; reports from foreign countries, Mexico, Rev. Ghorlmy; Siam, Rev. White, Japan, Rev. Finley, different countries, Rev. Alice Handsacker, Rev. Mahlon Day, of Canton, China, head of a Christian college, who has travelled extensively in that country, made an interesting talk. He is an uncle of Rev. Owen Day of Arleta Baptist church, who was present and sang a solo. Johnson Smith, prohibition agent for Oregon, was present and spoke interestingly in the work of his office.

The Mt. Scott Herald is at this time surely showing its abiding faith in the future of this community in putting its money into this contest, now on, as described in these columns. Now, Mr. Merchant, you that have declined to advertise your wares in the present contest with the claim that our circulation was not sufficient—you are called, and it now remains for you to prove whether that was a mere subterfuge or whether you really are in earnest in your help build up this community as well as benefit your own welfare.

Interned Sinn Feiners Try to Foil the Cameraman

What at first might appear to be a band of Hindus, is actually a body of Sinn Fein prisoners marching to dinner at the internment camp at Ballykinler, County Down. They covered their heads with towels so as to elude the camera man.

JOHNSON CREEK CAUSES DAMAGE

The residents of the Lents Junction and Gilbert sections are up in arms over what they allege to be a nuisance and an abuse to their property rights through the periodical overflow of Johnson Creek.

Every year, and sometimes twice a year, they allege that at times when the precipitation is heavy the creek becomes swollen and breaks over its banks, with the result that about 1000 acres of land are wholly or partially inundated. At the Brooks Mercantile Co., Foster Road, it was said that the pavement there has been at times covered with water, to the depth, one resident declared, of the hubs of a buggy. For two weeks, it is said, it was impossible to get to the store without building a temporary bridge, or sidewalk, across the overflowed road.

This territory is just outside of the city limits, and while $43,000 in bonds has been voted for Bull Run water, the bonds have not yet been sold nor work started. For the present, therefore, as in the past, residents of the district are forced to depend upon well water for their needs.

At Lents Junction is a sawmill, not now or for the last two years in operation. Logs, brush and debris is carried down the creek and lodged against the dam built to furnish power for the mill, and it is this fact, those interested ascribe as the chief source of trouble. They allege that the taxpayers in that vicinity contribute their full share, and perhaps a bit more, of the money raised to keep the machinery of the county in operation, and they say they are not getting their proportionate share of the benefits. It is said that $5,000 at the outside spent in clearing the creek of obstructions would remove all causes of trouble and materially affect conditions there. Frequent complaint has been made to the county officials, they say, without results, and they are up in arms over what they allege to be the negligent attitude of those charged with the duty of protecting their interests.

PROPERTY OWNERS KICK ON PAVING CONDITIONS

More than 40 property owners recently filed a protest with the city council against paying the United Contracting company for the paving of 66th street, charging that it was rapidly disintegrating because it had been laid on a wet foundation. Upon a red-hot protest being made to the council, Commissioner A. L. Barbur said the department of public works is willing to order a flush-coat of asphalt spread over the job, but he declines to go to the rescue of women in that vicinity who get stuck in it when it softens next summer. The meeting was characterized by some plain talking upon the part of those interested.

MRS. IOLA CAIN POWELL

Mrs. Etta Iola Cain Powell, of 3729 65th street, passed away at her residence on Monday, Mrs. Powell was born January 27, 1856, and was aged 64 years, 11 months and 20 days at the time of her demise. Funeral services will be held Saturday morning at 11 o'clock at the Kenworthy parlors, the Lents Grange, of which deceased was a member, in charge. The remains will be shipped to Yamhill, where services will also be held Sunday and interment take place.

ARLETA STREETS NEED DRAINAGE

The recent rains have made street conditions very bad in the district east of Archer place and up to and including Arleta. Large pools of water stand in low places at street intersections. Unpaved streets are in many places to all traffic except foot and even those who walk are forced to make detours, traverse lawns and jump from high spot to high spot to reach their homes in the various neighborhoods.

A representative of the Herald made a personal inspection of this territory and can vouch for the fact that conditions are very unsatisfactory. Large pools of water are standing on 63d and 66th streets at Foster Road, and at other intersections the surface water is almost as much a nuisance. A sewer digging outfit at work in the territory north of Foster Road and adjacent to Archer Place has found it necessary to tear up the streets and add to the general discomfort.

ARLETA WOODMEN INSTALL NEWLY ELECTED OFFICERS

Thursday evening, January 13, the newly elected officers of Arleta Camp No. 805, Woodmen of the World, were installed at Woodmen hall, Arleta. They were: F. E. Gilstrap, consul commander; P. M. Picard, advisor; W. F. Mahan, banker; J. A. Bowen, clerk; F. W. Quinn, escort; C. Jenny, watchman; E. E. Baxter, sentry; Henry Lee, manager. F. A. Beard, district organizer of the order, was present and acted as installing officers. After the ceremonies, District Organizer Baker and local members were called upon for short talks. During the evening a big feed was served to the large number present.

SHOES HIGHER, SAYS GOGGINS

Shoes are going to be higher rather than any lower, says W. E. Goggins, Lents merchant, in an interview with the Herald. Mr. Goggins bases his prediction chiefly upon the state of the leather market, which is very unsettled, notwithstanding the low hide quotations. Between the time when the raw hide goes to the tannery and becomes leather, several months elapse, and the mere fact that hides are down now has only a slight effect on the price of shoes at the time they are placed on the market.

Right now, while hides are low, labor is high. Tannery common labor receives six or seven dollars a day, as against $4 in pre-war times; the skilled men at the business earn as much as $18 a day. With wages at this level, leather remains high, although the green hides are a drug on the market.

As a result of the uncertainty as to the future, tanners are not taking the hides from pickle until ordered. They are wary about preparing any stock for the future until such time as they can do so with the certainty of making a profit.

Labor in the factories has not as yet reduced its demands to any appreciable extent. Labor gets the largest proportion of the wholesale price of the shoe, either in the tannery or factory. The result is that with labor working on approximately the same schedule of wages it received during the war, shoe prices have been affected to the greater extent by the general economic condition and the necessity of the merchants liquidating rather than by any lower costs of manufacturing. Shoe sales at less than cost have been the result.

Mr. Goggins has no exception to the rule and is today selling many lines of shoes at a figure below actual cost. This condition cannot continue indefinitely; when present stocks have been reduced and merchants have met their obligations, there is likely to be a readjustment of prices that will make the price to the consumer higher than at present.

Mr. Goggins has a stock of quality which he has been disposing of at prices so low that in most cases it has wiped out his margin of profit. In addition, his shoes stand up to the demands made upon them, for he is thoroughly familiar with the manufacturing end of the business, having been foreman of a factory in California. It has always been his policy to buy for the trade and recommend to his patrons only footwear that will give satisfaction; he knows a well-made shoe of every pair he sells, stands back of every pair he sells. With all of the above to be taken into consideration, a forehand man or woman will do well to lay in a stock of footwear at the present time. Shoes will probably not be lower and they may cost more if you wait.

STREETCAR TRACKS UPON FOSTER ROAD TO BE SHIFTED SOON

The tracks of the P. R. L. & P. Co. will be shifted from their present location along the south side of Foster road from Fiftieth to Seventy-second street southeast to the center of that thoroughfare to enable the city to properly widen that street and properly pave it in connection with the paving program to extend out to Eighty-second street, it has been announced by the department of public works.

The shifting of the tracks was agreed upon at a conference held by Commissioner Barbur with President Franklin T. Griffith, Vice President F. L. Fuller, City Engineer Laurgard and City Attorney Grant.

SPECIAL NOTICE

The big program to be given at Millard Avenue Presbyterian church will be held Wednesday evening, Feb. 2, instead of Tuesday evening, Feb. 1, as heretofore advertised.

STREET PETITIONS WELL RECEIVED

Street improvement petitions for work in the district east of 82nd street, have been circulated for the past several days, and all indications point to the fact that before many months have elapsed, the thoroughfares in Lents and vicinity will equal or surpass those of any of the Portland suburban districts.

Asel Kildahl, of Lents Garage, is in charge of the work of securing signatures for improvement of the following streets: 87th, 88th, 89th, 90th and 91st, while W. S. Sanders, of the Gray's Crossing Market, has the same authority for 82nd to 86th streets inclusive. Both report that signatures are freely made, and in very few instances is opposition encountered. Such hesitation as is displayed is usually from those who do not want to be the first to sign up.

On later visits, when this class of property owners find their neighbors favor the project, they join in approving it. One difficulty usually found is the reaching of the owners of vacant lots and those of non-residents. In many cases opposition, if any is encountered, comes from this class, but a large percentage come through when they can be reached.

A report was current that one section of 84th street had turned in a petition that was 100 per cent strong. This could not be verified, however, at the time the Herald went to press. Petitions for the following streets, with the work desired, are out at present: 82nd, sidewalk; 83rd, 84th, 85th, 86th north of car line, 87th south of Foster Road, 88th, 89th, 90th and 91st, sidewalks and curb and 12-foot pavement.

Petitions will be ready for circulation late this week for the following streets: 93rd, 94th, 95th and 96th; avenues: 56th to 60th inclusive from 92nd east to 97th street.
