Friends and neighbors of Miss Susie Woody enjoyed a very pleasing piano recital last Saturday afternoon given by her at her home, 8239 49th avenue. The fact that Miss Woody is bound to an invalid's chair does not seem to hinder her ambition to play; rather does it tend to aid her, in that she has more time to devote to this subject, with the object of teaching in view. She is a pupil of Mrs. Mayme Boyle, 5634 38th avenue, Archer Place.

Arthur Fisher has purchased the four-room house at 9233 51st avenue from Robt. Reynolds. The sale was made through the agency of D. J. O'Connor. Last Friday evening about 30 young people attended the Epworth League rally held at Centenary church. Bishop Leonard gave a very inspiring address and at its close about a hundred young people dedicated their lives to Christ in life service. Sunday evening Bishop Stuntz of Omaha spoke to a large audience at the church. Fifteen young people joined the church.

Among 150 contestants at the baby show last Tuesday evening, Little Bobby Swan, with his manly demeanor, and cute curls, carried off first prize, 100 per cent perfect. The photos of the contestants are on exhibition at Powers Furniture Store, Third and Yamhill, and as soon as released a photo will grace the pages of the Herald. Bobby's parents are Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Swan, who recently purchased a home at 9226 63rd avenue, where they now reside.

CHAUTAQUA COURSE IS PROVING OF MUCH BENEFIT

"Six young college men wanted for manufacturing development work. Need not have technical education." Pay $130 a month to start. Apply to Edison, West Orange, N. J.

Perhaps of the Cornell graduates and his five companions who answered the above advertisement had taken the Chautauqua reading course for the current year they would have made a better record in the examination than the electrical wizard. At all events one member of the Lents circle are sure they could have done better than a fifty per cent grade.

This reading course covers a wide range of subjects; not only are the required books of the course read and discussed, but also the history of the places, or the biography of the people mentioned in the study; and stress is laid on current events.

Some of us had long been separated from our school days, had lost words of the ability to concentrate, and had what has been aptly termed a "sieve memory." Along both these lines the reading has proved of immense benefit.

Highbrow? No. How I detest that word! There may be other words more offensive, but few more irritating. All does one member of the Lents circle are sure they could have done better than a fifty per cent grade.

LENTS RESIDENT KILLED IN WOODS

Carl A. Harlan, a woodhauer employed by the Lents Fuel company, was almost instantly killed Tuesday about 11:30 o'clock, when he was struck by a falling tree while getting out cordwood near the Dearford road, close to Mt. Scott, three miles east of Lents.

The unfortunate young man was working with a team of horses and a sled, and several fellow employees of the Conlee brothers are reported to have informed him that a tree was about to fall in close proximity where Mr. Harlan was working.

He had started away from the direction from which the danger would come, driving the team, when the tree fell, but apparently had misjudged the striking radius. The usual cry of "timber" was given just before the accident occurred. It is said.

Mr. Harlan was struck on the head and his skull crushed. One arm was doubled under his body and broken in two places. Deputy Coroner Falk went to the scene of the fatality and took charge of the body. Investigation shows that the death was accidental and there was no inquest.

Carl Ashley Harlan, eldest son of Ashley and Minnie Harlan, was born at Holbrook, Nebraska, on June 14, 1897. Had he lived until next month he would have been 24 years of age. His parents moved to Corvallis, Benton county, Oregon, in 1903, where he attended public school. Later his parents moved to Alpine, in the same county, where Carl graduated from the public school. He enlisted in the navy in 1918 and his ship acted as a conveyer of transports to and from France. He was discharged at Seattle, Wash., Dec. 18, 1918. He shipped as a seaman June 1, 1920, and made a voyage to Japan, Hawaii, China and Siberia, returning to this city, where he was married on Oct. 25, 1920, to Miss Mildred Barker, daughter of L. A. Barker of the Economy Furniture Co. They purchased a home at 6006 88th street.

Surviving him are his wife, father and mother, one brother and two sisters, the relatives by blood residing at Alpine, Oregon. There are also other relatives. Mr. Harlan was a member of Camp No. 77, Woodmen of the World, Portland. Funeral services were held from the Kenworthy parlors on 92nd street, Thursday, May 19, at 10:40 a. m. Interment was in Mt. Scott cemetery, where the Woodmen in charge of the services at the grave.

The deceased was well liked by his many friends in this locality. His untimely demise was a matter causing much grief to his employers and the men with whom he was employed.

WATER DISTRICT STILL FIGHTING

Indications are that promoters of proposed Buckley avenue water district will gain approval before the city council soon and press their legal rights to start a water district as denied in a recent resolution passed by the council at the request of Commissioner Mann.

In an election held last Saturday by residents in the district, which extends from 82d street to the Powell Valley road, 153 voted for the new district and twenty-two were opposed. W. C. Lawrence, L. S. Hobson and L. N. Skeie were elected directors of the water district.

George C. Johnson, attorney for promoters of the district, says that his clients are entirely within their legal rights as passed by the legislature in 1917, permitting the establishment of a water district where twenty-five or more people call an election and choose directors. Authority is given to issue bonds and construct mains in establishing the district.

"The Section Line Water Co. has been established seven years and is serving but twenty-three homes," Mr. Johnson said. "The company charges $100 to tap a three-quarter inch main. We expect to issue bonds soon for approximately $50,000 and fight for our legal rights. I believe any court would set aside the city's ruling in the matter."

CLARENCE O'NEIL WINS WEEKLY FIVE DOLLARS

After a lay-off of several weeks, Clarence O'Neil came right back and won the money in the trade-at-home contest this week, with a total of 296,750 votes. There were no other large amounts turned in which would change the relative standing of the contestants as published last week.

For this week's contest the name of G. A. Morrison Lbr. Co. has been selected, the letters going to make up the words "G. A. Morrison" being omitted from the side on the contest page. The company is an old-established firm in the Tremont locality, and with the build-a-home movement on and decreased costs in the building trades, is enjoying its share of patronage.

CHARLES W. WISE

Charles W. Wise, a resident of the rural route three district, died Wednesday. He was a bookkeeper employed in Portland and was born in the Rose City. The deceased was 28 years of age and is survived by his wife, Mrs. Lydia Wise, besides relatives by blood. Funeral services were held at 3 o'clock this (Friday) afternoon and interment was in Mt. Scott cemetery.

ARLETA MEN'S CLUB

The Arleta Men's Club will meet at the Christian church Tuesday evening, May 24. Supper will be served at 6:45 and will be followed by a musical program and speaking by Dr. Ralph McAfee. 9-t

SEWER FIGHT NOT SETTLED

Legal entanglements muddled the city council Wednesday morning in discussing the Foster Road trunk sewer and $408,000 Johnson creek drainage system and caused a postponement for the 'seventh' time of final decision on the issue.

The contentions by opponents of the project that more than 25.51 per cent of the home owners in the district were included in the remonstrance against the sewer as figured out by City Engineer Laurgaard halted final consideration of the matter which had been definitely set for Wednesday.

Those opposed to the improvement contended that 1447 home owners had remonstrated against the project in face of 1160 who voted favorably when the postal card vote of pro- or-owners was recorded several weeks ago by the department of public works.

"I'm for this sewer, but I absolutely refuse to vote on it until this legal tangle is straightened out and we're sure the money will not come out of the general fund," said Mayor Baker, after two hours of debate.

Next Tuesday at 10 o'clock will be by the council as the time for hearing City Attorney Grant's opinion on legal tangles involved in the case. Commissioner Barbur and City Engineer Laurgaard will work with Grant in making a re-check of the remonstrances against the project.

The usual hullabaloo and hurling of illegal innuendoes between opponents and proponents of the plan enlivened the meeting.

"I tell you it is bad business during this industrial depression to send $400,000 on the people this improvement which may mean the confiscation of property," said N. G. Hedin, representing several property owners opposed to the project. "Mr. Mayor—as a business man in the face of this depression you would not do this improvement in the face of this remonstrance. I don't think you should do it as a city official."

"Two-thirds of the home owners will be ruined unless we get this improvement," fired F. I. Marshall, "I haven't any educated gentlemen to come here to plead our case. We ask for justice and a chance to progress in our district."

Commissioner Bigelow asserted that he would not vote on the project, either for or against, unless it was assured that the street railway company would agree to move tracks along the road to allow for the paving of the thoroughfare. Laurgaard explained that it would take six weeks or two months before the city would be ready to let the contract for the work, in the time and manner ordinance was passed.

PRIVATE RONALD E. SMITH

With his casket draped with the colors for which he died and banked with beautiful floral tributes to his friends and acquaintances, Private Ronald E. Smith had rested at his home, 5227 72nd street, since Monday. On Wednesday, at 2:30 p. m., he was buried at Mt. Scott cemetery. The services were in charge of Finley & Co., and conducted by buddies of Private Smith.

The pallbearers were boys who were in his company: F. A. Bertidge, H. E. Smith, Vernon Livell, Roscoe Williams, Roy Shane, and Henry Weller. The firing squad in command of Otto Meinert fired the salute and taps was sounded by Milton Smith, Chaplain McCormick of the American Legion read the last rites and officiated at the services.

Private Ronald E. Smith of Co. A, 2d machine gun battalion, was killed at Soissons, France, July 18, 1918. He enlisted in Co. E, 3d Oregon, March, 1917. Left New York with the 162d Infantry in December of the same year. He leaves to mourn his loss his father, who is blind, E. C. Smith, and his mother, Mrs. Ella Smith, also the following brothers and sisters: W. D. Smith of Barton, Ore., H. E. Smith of Seaside, Ore., Mrs. H. L. Kamper, Mrs. C. R. Hansen, Mrs. Reynolds and Mrs. Lillie Berdine.

Private Smith was cited for bravery but was killed before he received the word. The copy of the citation was forwarded to his parents.

J. H. KRALL OPENS SHOP NEAR 82ND AND FOSTER

A new industry in the Mt. Scott district is the cabinet and glass shop recently opened by J. A. Krall on Foster Road, near 82nd street.

Mr. Krall is a first-class mechanic and for six years was with the Central Sash and Door Co. of Portland, acting as out-of-town man for that concern. As such he did and has yet to complete glass work on the new buildings of the state university at Eugene. Recently, when the company decided to give up the glass business, Mr. Krall bought the stock and purchased the property on Foster Road, and moved it out here. He has in stock fancy plate, sheet and Florence glass and will make a specialty of sun porches, a beautiful example of which is seen in the sash shop. He is also a general carpenter and cabinet maker, and those building and wanting built-in features, or any carpenter work, are advised to see him. His prices are reasonable.

ARLETA THEATER

Patrons of Arleta theater will be delighted to know that Manager White has installed a new $10,000 American Photoplayer, No. 45, which is said by those who know to be one of the finest instruments made for motion picture houses. The machine, which was purchased in Portland, is the latest model and on it all the latest needed to properly interpret the films, are produced, including the whistling of birds and similar notes. Only the very largest houses in Portland and the bigger cities can boast of a better musical instrument than the one Mr. White has purchased. The old machine, which was very efficient in its scope, was disposed of.

AUTO TOURISTS BUCK RED TAPE

The Oregon State Motor Association, with headquarters in Portland, is a mecca for tourists tarrying in this city, and had it not been for this organization, a lady and gentleman passing through last week would have been in dire straits, and as it was, suffered no little embarrassment from the actions of a couple of motor cops and an underling at police headquarters.

The couple arrived from California, enroute to the state of Washington. At Sacramento they purchased a new car. With the usual tape accompaniment, their numbers were delayed in issuance, and they proceeded northward, and were not molested until reaching this fair city, where they were told by a couple of motor cops to report to police headquarters.

An irate officer greeted them at the station with official ostentation. Although the unfortunate travelers told their tale of woe and produced a receipt for a 1921 license duly paid for, there was nothing done, sayeth Mr. Officer, who informed them that the only possible way by which they could visit the numerous place of attraction in Portland would be by purchasing an Oregon license. This dictum was accompanied with insinuating and insulting remarks.

An appeal to the motor association, of which the tourists mentioned were members, fortunately, brought quick results. Not from the swivel-chair bonehead, but officers Bigelow and Irwin, learning the facts in the case from the leading representative of the association, the "O. R." of Chief of Police Jenkins was soon stamped upon the visitors' credentials and they were assured the freedom of the city.

If Mayor Baker desires to make a clean-up of undesirable who are a disgrace to the force and serve simply to give Portland a bad name, with the tourist fraternity, he should make a shining example of this smart Aleck at his earliest convenience.

P. S.—The tourists mentioned received their license plate Tuesday and proceeded on their way rejoicing but not overly inclined with kindly feeling toward one or two officious officers, others than those mentioned, to whom they extend thanks through the columns of the Herald for courteous treatment.

BUNCO ARTIST HAS BAD LUCK

Marshall Fraser and his associates in the organization of the Transportation Marketing company, Inc., were bound over to the grand jury by District Judge Deich Tuesday on charges of violating the blue sky law.

Fraser is president of the concern. With him the court held in answer Charles Ohlson vice-president, J. W. Maddox, secretary-treasurer, and A. Maxim, director.

From evidence produced Tuesday it appeared that only stock certificates for $500 were issued and that they were sold with the guarantee of jobs with the concern which, it was said, intended to open a chain of groceries in Portland. Many workingmen already had invested savings in the company; it was further asserted.

One of these "grab-it-and-beat-it" stores was scheduled to open in this locality, on Woodstock avenue near 92nd street. The negotiations for the lease of the building were conducted through the local agency of D. J. O'Connor, realtor. The latter got his cash in advance and refused to buy any grocery tickets at a discount when urged to do so by the promoters, it was said. A few cheap stands and counters were procured and a canvas streamer hung across the building, proclaiming the advent of the company to local mercantile circles about May 14. Before that date the promoters were in limbo.

Fraser was in the limelight recently by reason of his prosecution on a charge of defrauding the public in a company called "Your Transportation Co., Inc." While this case was pending in the courts the grocery store scheme was inaugurated. At the time of the transportation company's failure Fraser ascribed his difficulties to the transportation "trust," who, he claimed, took that method of killing off competition.

ARLETA GYM CLASS ENTERTAINS

The Arleta gym class entertained the Montavilla gym class with a masquerade party at Arleta school on Monday evening, May 16. A large crowd enjoyed the fun of the evening and about fifty masked, there being among the costumes a negro bride, mock kids and a hobo. Delicious refreshments were served and the instructor, Mrs. Hodgson, was presented with a beautiful bouquet of carnations.

Arleta Library Notes

One hundred and fifty children witnessed the picture of the salmon industry in Oregon and heard the first installment of "Peter Pan" as told by Miss Rice, children's librarian, at Arleta branch library on May 12th.

The twelve children's librarians of the city, with Miss Fox, head of branch work, and Miss Ewing of the school department, Central library, met last Wednesday morning for a monthly conference at Arleta library. Luncheon was served at noon in the garden adjoining the library. Miss Stoneman, visiting nurse for this section, was also a guest.

This library is fortunate in having the Wisconsin Home Manuals, edited by R. E. Andrews, Ph. D. These are "Housewifery," by L. R. Balderston, a handsome handbook offering suggestions on how to reduce tasks in the home and
