They have employed former City Attorney L. A. McNary to represent them and have organized the Southeast Portland Civic club with 1500 members, to prevent the project being carried through, if possible.
The club feels that the cost of the sewer and payment has been inequitably distributed and that it is too high anyway. It asks that the county withhold tax funds from the enterprise and refuse to permit construction of the sewer.

PASSES THROUGH LENTS One of the largest funeral corteges ever passing through the streets of Lents was that of Garl Gunster, member of the fire department, who lost his life in the May apartment fire of June 15. Services were held at the municipal auditorium Monday at 10 a m., with all members of the city council, delegations of firemen and police and hundreds of Portland citi-zens present. The fire truck carrying Gunster's body was escorted on its way to Mt. Scott Park cemetery by delegations of policemen, firemen, Labor Temple representatives. Span-ish war veterans and a band. Several hundred automobiles followed the cor-tege. During the hour in which the body lay in state hundreds of people passed by the coffin and left flowers; as a tribute to the fireman's memory.
