

Mt. Scott Herald Trade-at-Home CONTEST

Throughout the advertising appearing in this section letters purposely have been omitted, which, correctly composed, will spell the name of one of the advertisers herein. Competition in this contest is open to all readers of the Mt. Scott Herald, and those living in the Mt. Scott district have the same chance of winning one of these cash prizes. Simply find the missing letters, to accomplish which you must read every ad in this section, and mail or bring your answer to the Contest Manager of the Mt. Scott Herald. All answers will be placed in a box in the office of the Herald and will be opened every Wednesday evening. The person who submits the correct answer, together with the largest number of votes, will win first prize, $5.00 in cash and 500 extra votes. To all who submit a correct answer 500 extra votes will be given, good in count for final prizes.

LAUGHED AT SEAL

"Hell-Diver" Refused to Figure on Pursuer's Menu.

Curious Speed Contest Reported by Nature Student, Who Witnessed the Incident, on Maine Coast.

Seals are quick of movement, and anyone who has ever watched them feeding cannot but marvel at the speed with which they dart about in the water and the apparent ease with which they are able to overtake their prey, says a Bulletin of the American Game Protective association, and likewise there are few duck hunters who have not had the opportunity of witnessing the speed of the grebe, commonly known as the hell-diver. He can easily protect himself by diving and swimming under water, and "lightning is slow as compared with the speed with which a hell-diver submerges when he sees the flash of a gun headed in his direction."

Which of the two is quicker in the water becomes a nice question, to the discussion of which Arthur L. Penniman contributes the story of a contest he witnessed on the Maine coast, in the Penobscot bay region, between a seal and a pied-billed grebe, when each contestant was apparently doing his best, "the seal looking for his supper and the hell-diver intent on seeing that he didn't make up the men."

"While we were engaged in studying the habits of a fish hawk," Mr. Penniman writes, "our attention was attracted by a great commotion in the water off shore. From our blind we could see that the splashing was caused by a seal performing the most curious antics in his attempts to catch a bird which we later identified as a pied-billed grebe."

"The seal made rapid progress, porpoising in and out of the water in quick diving leaps and was fast overhauling the bird, which was swimming frantically to escape his pursuer, but, however, made no attempt to fly. After a straight-away race of some fifty yards or more, it seemed as if the chase was over, as both bird and seal disappeared in the same splash as the seal struck the water. When the splash subsided we saw that the grebe had cleverly dodged to one side and, after twisting and turning quickly around a very small circuit to elude the seal, he headed straight for shore."

"The bird now began to use its wings, and skittering rapidly over the water, soon distanced the seal, which continued the chase until within 30 feet of the beach, where the water was no more than knee deep."

"There he sat with his shoulders out of the water, watching the grebe as the latter ran along the edge of the shore. Then, as though he hated to give up his meal, he slowly pursued the bird on a parallel course in the water, paying not the slightest attention to the men on the beach until he was frightened off by our intervention in the contest."

Developing Guatemala. President Herrera of Guatemala, has undertaken to interest foreign capital in the development of some 15,000 square miles of unexploited territory in Guatemala which still awaits the hand of the pioneer and the invader to transform it into productive fields. As the first step he has created a new department of agriculture with a minister in his cabinet and has appointed as head of this department Antonio Bouscayol.

Both the president and the new minister have devoted the main part of their lives to agricultural development and are therefore keenly interested in providing encouragement to the farmers and planters. Both realize foreign investment must be encouraged to accomplish this end and believe that such aid must be expected as a result of diffusion of the knowledge that Guatemala has a safe and sane government, is a fit place to live in and has much territory as yet undeveloped.

No Two Snowflakes Alike. For 35 years Wilson Atwyn Bentley of Jericho, Vt., has been studying snowflakes. In that time he has made 3,800 photomicrographs of snowflakes and has found that no two of them are exactly alike. As a result of his exhaustive study he firmly believes that the snowflake is the most exquisite example of nature's art.

His photographs have been introduced into several universities, and have also won a niche in the arts and sciences, as well as being used for designs in aircraft shops and for jewelry designing.

BLESSED BY A BULL FIGHT. Jane Addams went once to a bull fight in Spain. She saw five bulls killed and as many horses. When her friends expressed their surprise at her indifference to the bloody sport, she said she had not thought much about it. Then she began to think. The more she thought, the more her conscience troubled her. She had been contemplating engaging in some form of social work. It suddenly was impressed upon her that she had been hilling her conscience to sleep by a dream of service that was remaining only a dream, that she was not really in earnest. It was the memory of her attitude of indifference to the bull fight that acted as a mirror to her soul and stirred her to action, says Our Dumb Animals. She returned to America, and the famous Hull House of Chicago came into being. This is the only good thing we ever heard as connected with a bull fight, except when the tortured bull got even with his torturers.
