

Mt. Scott Herald Trade-at-Home CONTEST

Throughout the advertising appearing in this section letters purposely have been omitted, which, correctly composed, will spell the name of one of the advertisers herein. Competition in this contest is open to all readers of the Mt. Scott Herald, and those living in the Mt. Scott district have the same chance of winning one of these cash prizes. Simply find the missing letters, to accomplish which you must read every ad in this section, and mail or bring your answer to the Contest Manager of the Mt. Scott Herald. All answers will be placed in a box in the office of the Herald and will be opened every Wednesday evening. The person who submits the correct answer, together with the largest number of votes, will win first prize, $5.00 in cash and 500 extra votes. To all who submit a correct answer 500 extra votes will be given, good in count for final prizes.

COMPOSER AT SIX

Master Morton Gould of Richmond Hill, New York, has earned a place in the ranks of the American prodigies, for, at the age of six he has composed several selections, including a waltz which was recently published. Morton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Gould, and has been playing several years. Musical critics who have heard him and his compositions, hail him as the musical prodigy of the age.

WAS OUT TO SAVE MONEY

Mrs. Newbride Had It All Figured, to Her Own Satisfaction, at Any Rate.

"Yes, it does, as you say, give rather an air to the flat," agreed the almost new husband. His wife had seated herself on the arm of his chair surveying their latest acquisition, the baby grand piano, which filled three-fourths of the living room.

"And now if we only had one of those nifty one-arm floor lamps," mused the almost new husband's bride.

"Why, Bettina, it was only yesterday that you argued the piano wouldn't finish the room without buying another thing," protested the almost new husband. "That was one of the arguments you used to wheedle me into buying!"

"Well, of course, it saves us buying a luscious blue plush bed-davenport, or a graceful chaise longue or a library table," she defended. "There simply isn't room in this apartment for much besides the piano. It really is an economy in the end. But a lamp is different. You know that a grand piano is not complete without a floor lamp. And while we are at it we might as well get one of the newest kind. Just think how cozy we would look with you sitting peacefully under the new lamp while I play to you every evening!"

"Hum!" groaned the almost new husband. "The next thing you'll be telling me that a grand piano requires an oriental prayer rug under the pedals, a Persian scarf thrown across the bench and a vase of dollar-a-smell roses in constant attendance. I'm rather surprised that you haven't mentioned another apartment with a piano room for your pet!"

"It would be nice," agreed the bride falling to note the touch of sarcasm in the voice of her husband. Then she rallied her forces once more. "But think how much money it will save us on movies. By staying home to play and sing we save—let me see—exactly 66 cents a day!"

"By the way," said the almost new husband, "we mustn't forget our serial on Friday night. Last week left Harry Hairbreadth in an awful fix. Do you think the piano would mind if we left it alone just once?"

"Oh, I guess not," answered Betty absent-mindedly. Then she launched her final attack. "You know, Billy, I can't expect you to give up going out entirely, at least until I learn to play better. I have heard of a splendid teacher at $10 an hour and I really think to be worthy of such an instrument, I should take lessons!"

"It's not the original cost, it's the upkeep!" said the almost new husband. "Come along, my dear, to the movies."

Cream-Colored Moles.
It is rather curious to find dead moles lying about dykesides when mole-fur prices are so high, writes a correspondent from Scotland. I crossed a field, and at the exit I counted no fewer than 22 moles in a heap. These had evidently been thrown there by a local trapper as useless lumber. More curious still, I came on what may be called the unique in moles. A gardener had trapped four of these rodents of a decided cream color. No portion of the bodies gave signs of normal coloring. The gardener said he surmised there were more on his premises, but he had failed to catch them at the date he exhibited the four referred to.

Continental Camp Rediscovered.
"Connecticut Village," one of the camps of Washington's soldiers in the Hudson highlands, the site of which has long been unknown, has been rediscovered by members of the New York Historical society. The unearthing of a bayonet blade, a grapeshot, buttons of the Continental Infantry and artillery, bullets, gunflints and other military relics, together with topographical characteristics that tally accurately with records in Continental documents, have placed the camp on the farm of James Smith, about a mile and a half from Cold Spring village.

Your Appetite Poor? Are You Short on Pep?
Eat foodstuffs that satisfy, that give you that "enough" feeling, that stimulate your pep and make you feel like "doing things".
Poor foodstuffs won't do these things. They may fill you up, but they do not satisfy—the nutrient is not there—the pep is not forthcoming—a sluggish feeling in time is the result.
You can always buy "food with pep" from us. We sell no other kind.
