

20th Century Grocers 17 STORES

Lents Astoria Saint Helens Oregon City Vancouver Portland

LET US HAVE A SQUARE LOOK AT EACH OTHER

You have heard of the 20th Century Stores, but have you visited one? Have you talked with the store management; have you inquired of the clerks concerning matters that are of great interest to you and the store?

Do you know that these stores do not confine you as to variety? Do you know you can get all the best known brands of merchandise at these stores?

The consolidation of the purchases of these stores, coupled with the fact that such expensive items as delivery and the practice of charging is eliminated, permits goods that you see in 20th Century stores to be sold at less price than is possible elsewhere.

ARLETA NOTES

of the community and will endeavor to visit the churches of this district and Lents.

About 40 attended the luncheon at the parsonage Wednesday.

Mrs. H. E. Spencer, who lived near Ockley Green, died last Monday. She formerly lived on 71st street and was a member of the Arleta Congregational church, where her name has been retained all these years. She will be remembered by the older citizens.

The Rally Day exercises were well attended Sunday.

Morrison Handsaker met with an accident Saturday, when he fell from his wheel on his way to the tennis court at Reed College. While his face was badly disfigured, no serious results will follow, but he is detained from attending school this week.

Rev. Mrs. Handsaker goes to Eugene next week to attend the state association of the churches to be held Oct. 10-12 inclusive.

Anabel Presbyterian Church The Gleaners met Wednesday at Mrs. Wildes', on 74th street.

Church choir meets Thursday evening after prayer meeting. Only 12 attended last week. A larger attendance is desired.

Local and Personal

October 11 is the date of the regular Parent-Teachers' meeting, commencing at 2:30 o'clock in Franklin high.

Mrs. George Wilson of 4823 64th street was a Salem visitor last week.

Horace Watson and Floyd Worthorn went with the Whitney Boys' Chorus Sunday to Salem to sing on the state fair grounds.

Walter Jarvis and family spent the week-end with his father and mother near La Center, Wash.

Mrs. John Hunt of Arleta returned Monday from Salem, where she spent the past week with her sister, Mrs. Hoff, wife of the state treasurer.

Rev. Day was called to Dallas Saturday of last week to preach the funeral sermon for Mrs. J. B. Munn, who moved to Polk county in 1890 from Missouri. She was a zealous church worker and known for her social and philanthropic work. The large attendance at the services and the numerous floral offerings showed the esteem in which she was held.

Tuesday at 2:30 o'clock Rev. Day preached at the funeral of the 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Cavanaugh, 549 Morrison street. It was held at the Miller & Tracey funeral parlors. The deceased was one of the 50 selected voices of the Whitney chorus and a member of the Sunday school of the White Temple.

The Federated clubs of the city will give a luncheon at the Multnomah hotel Saturday at 12. Franklin high will have a table.

Mr. and Mrs. Connors and Mr. Crum of Millard avenue were state fair visitors last week.

The Spanish war veterans gave a reception to their ladies' auxiliary last week. A national officer was present. Mrs. Paul Newmyer sang three numbers.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Larsen have sold their home in south Portland and are now living at 6825 47th avenue.

Peter Larsen reports business much better than for some months past. He made two cash transactions involving houses and lots recently.

FRIENDS CHURCH

The attendance at church services is increasing every Sunday since the coming of the new pastor, F. J. Cope. Last Sunday morning was the largest since Miss Terrell's death.

Prayer meeting themes have been especially helpful. The subject last week was "Faith".

The Quaker Giants Sunday school class of boys had a business meeting and social at the home of Jesse Smith Tuesday night. There was 100 per cent attendance.

The young people's class had an executive meeting at the home of Effie White Tuesday night.

Miss Thelma Littlefield has the smallpox but is not seriously ill. She says she's having a good time.

The Misses Mable Braithwait, Dorris Mann, Madge Tamplin, and Carroll Tamplin and Jasper Ballou registered at North Pacific Evangelistic Institute Tuesday. They will be home over the week-ends.

ST. PETER'S CATHOLIC CHURCH

The great success of last Saturday's supper was ample compensation to the committee of ladies who worked so hard to make it so. Friends of the parishioners came from all sections of the city, even from the extreme of the west side, and the most welcome was the Most Reverend Archbishop Christie, who dropped in unexpectedly to share the good things.

Plans were made at a meeting held Wednesday for the pre-holiday bazaar. The pastor hopes to be able to burn the mortgage on the parish property before Christmas. Mrs. Henry has organized a club of young folks, who have already set to work.

The Rev. J. P. O'Flynn assures the congregation that plans for enlarged property and new buildings will be carried out when the present debt is wiped out.

Mrs. O. J. Celorie, hope for whose recovery had been given up, completely surprised her many friends by her return from the jaws of death, and today is feeling almost as "fit" as the farmer behind his team.

Mrs. C. J. Holway has returned from the hospital, completely recovered. Mrs. Holway has been one of our most energetic workers since the inception of the parish.

Mesdames Stubbs, Cadwell and Grassens collected all tickets available and started down town last week on a selling expedition. After a couple of hours' work they reported "sold out" and requested another hundred. However, next time we promise to be able to comply.

During October, there will be services Sunday, Wednesday and Friday at 7:45 p.m.

Special services Friday morning at 7:30.

EVANGELICAL CHURCH

The girls of class 27 of the Sunday school gave their teacher, Mrs. Rusk, a little party at her home on 92nd street Saturday afternoon, Oct. 1. The little girls will be promoted to another class next Sunday. They have become much attached to Mrs. Rusk, who has worked faithfully with them, and regret having to leave her.

They presented her with a nice box of candy as an expression of their love. Dainty refreshments of jello, cake, cookies and lemonade were served during the afternoon. Those present were Carrie Bohna, Helen Hogue, Thelma Allen, Margaret and Catherine Leitch, Lucile Trenary, Olive Updike, Mabel Montgomery and Dorothy and Stellabeth Geisler.

Tuesday evening the business session of the second quarterly conference was held in the church, after which an able sermon was preached by Rev. Farnham of the First United Evangelical church in Ladd's Addition.

Friday, Oct. 7, has been set apart for special fasting and prayer preparatory to the communion services on Sunday. On Friday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, the Holiness Prayer Band will hold its first meeting at the home of Mrs. Armstrong, 6107 90th street. Mrs. Armstrong will act as superintendent of the band and Mrs. Ed. Knauss as secretary. Special recognition will be given to requests for prayer. This organization was effected last Thursday night at the prayer meeting by Mrs. Godman, who has been appointed by the national Holiness association to superintend the formation of these bands. Mrs. Godman was here in the Dave Hill meetings last winter.

The good fellowship supper of last Friday night was a very successful affair. About 250 persons were served. The program which followed was much appreciated by the audience. Prof. Streffeller and Mrs. Hubert Goode sang; Judge Jacob Kansler, Harvey Scheuerman and the pastor made short talks, and Miss Alberts presided at the organ. Judge Kansler gave a brief review of his work. In his remarks he spoke of the importance of the Sunday school in preventing crime. Mr. Scheuerman spoke of the importance of being educated in the Scriptures, and the pastor emphasized the value of a human soul.

BAPTIST CHURCH

At Sunday school, hear the children sing and recite "This is Rally Day." All invited.

The Willing Workers gave the Misspah home a real delight last Sunday afternoon.

The Sunday school rally program will take the morning service. Young people's meeting at 6:30. Preaching service, "A Moral Wreck", at 7:30.
