

DR. EARL GOODE DEAD.

As a result of being gassed at the front while fighting against the central powers in 1918, Dr. Earle Goode, 27, died at the home of his parents, the Rev. and Mrs. John A. Goode, 7412 Fifty-fifth avenue, Sunday afternoon. Dr. Goode was a member of the state legislature from Multnomah county in 1917, being one of the youngest men ever elected to such a position in Oregon.

When the war broke out, he enlisted and was soon at the front. Since his injury he had been a victim of the lingering illness.

Dr. Goode is survived by his parents, a brother, Hubert A. Goode, secretary to Commissioner Mann, and a sister, Mrs. Herber R. Tyler. The funeral was held from First Evangelical church, Ladd's addition, Tuesday. Interment was in Mount Scott Park cemetery.

LENTS SCHOOL NOTES

The 8B class is planning a picnic some time before school is out.

The baseball boys will play games with Crescent, Kellogg, Woodmere and Woodstock, all on the Lents grounds, before the end of school.

The 8B boys have finished their desk lamps in manual training. Some of them are now making radio sets.

Anita Henry, 8B pupil; James Long, 7B pupil; Robert Houek, 7A pupil, all of the safety patrol, went to the Lincoln high school last Wednesday to attend a meeting of all the safety patrol committees of the city. Several talks were given on safety, one by Mr. Groat, superintendent of schools. One fireman showed different knots which they tie in case of emergency. He also showed different ways of carrying a man out of a burning house. A playlet on safety was given. After the meeting the children went outside and Sandy took their picture. It was put in the Sunday Journal.

Mr. Krohn, gymnasium supervisor, visited the school last Friday. Instead of having the usual exercises, he had the children practice for a track meet which is to be held May 23.

Eighty-five pupils attended the wrestling and boxing club last week, April 27. Luther Pennoyer said he had the hardest wrestle of his life when he tackled Jake Klechel.

The eighth grades made sponge cakes last Monday in cooking classes. Mabel Knox and her partner, Delphine Way, baked the best cake in the morning class, and Kathleen Hawken and her partner, the best in the afternoon class.

The two pupils that have the best book report in 8B at Lents will contest with Woodmere. The winners there will contest with the rest of the schools in Portland.

A baseball game was played between Lents and Woodmere on the Lents grounds Monday, May 1. The score was 8 to 5, in Woodmere's favor. Charles Guiness and William Limbach pitched. George Trenary was catcher, Elmer Lee played second and Lowry McKeown played third. John Cloverio, William McCrory, Leonard Thielke and Glenn Blair played in the field.

Room 16 has a pupil of whom it is very proud. For two consecutive months now she has received "excellent" in every subject, including application and deportment. This pupil is Carrie Bohna in the 7B grade.

Robert Houek has taken Lowry McKeown's place on the safety patrol. He now wears the green badge on his arm.

On Tuesday, a very interesting lecture on catching moles was given to the garden club members.

Muriel Dillman has been absent several days, owing to the death of her brother. Her class mates extend their sincerest sympathy.

We were all very sorry to hear of Earl Wharton's home being destroyed by fire Wednesday morning.

J. W. Peyton to Serve Ninety Days
J. W. Peyton, arrested by Deputy Sheriff Beaman, Schirmer and Wolfe at 3556 Sixty-fourth street has been sentenced to 90 days in the county jail by District Judge Bell. It was only last week that Peyton was released from jail after serving 60 days for bootlegging.

McArthur Slated for Chairmanship
Congressman McArthur is one of the two Pacific coast members of the committee on naval affairs, and if he remains in congress will eventually become chairman of this important committee.

St. Peter's Catholic Church
The Stoddard half block at Eighty-seventh and Foster Road has been purchased, making the new parish property one full block. Building operations will start this summer.

MOTHER, 2 CHILDREN, IN NIGHT CLOTHES, LEAVE BURNING HOME

Fire which destroyed the home of J. A. Wharton, a half mile east of Lents, early Wednesday morning, routed Mrs. Wharton and her two children, Eddie, 15, and Ruby, 12, from their beds in their night clothes barely in time to escape the flames.

Fred Smith, a neighbor, believing that the girl was still in the burning house, dashed in to rescue her, but was forced out again by the flames after failing to find her. He suffered a number of minor burns.

The fire started from an overheated stove and spread rapidly over the house. A few household articles were saved. Wharton, the father, was away from home.

FOSTER ROAD EXTENSION

Mount Scott Improvement and Lents Business Men's Clubs Join Hands

Interest in the proposed extension to Foster Road, to permit a shorter route to Portland from the Boring country grows each week. This morning at 9 a number of Mount Scott residents left the Arleta and Lents districts to view the proposed road, in company with County Commissioner Rufus C. Holman.

Tuesday night a number of Lents men attended the meeting of the Mount Scott Improvement club in the Arleta library building. Mayor Baker spoke. The greatest matter of interest was the acquisition from the city for a park of the triangular piece of ground just south of the Arleta library. The matter of a new bridge across the Willamette river came up.

Some Arleta and Lents people attended the meeting of the South Portland Improvement association, held in the Neighborhood House, Wednesday night. At this meeting the location of the proposed new bridge across the river was discussed.

At the meeting of the Lents Business Men's club, May 10, the South Portland club plans to have some representatives. The Mount Scott Improvement club will be well represented and it is the hope of President Roy Davis and Secretary C. S. Ogsbury of the Lents Business Men's club that all members will be present.

CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Johnson Enjoy Tuesday Surrounded by Friends

Tuesday, April 25, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Johnson, one mile south of Lents, the couple celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. The rooms were decorated in golden colors. At 2 Rev. P. Rasmussen, of the Danish Lutheran church, announced a Danish hymn. Appropriate addresses were made by Rev. F. B. Culver and Rev. P. Rasmussen. The guests were then seated at the tables and enjoyed refreshments, after which an informal program, consisting of songs and addresses, was carried out.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson are natives of Denmark who came to this country in 1891. They have lived near Portland since 1900, and have made a wide circle of friends. Their only living child, John M., who is connected with the state accident commission, was present with his family.

With the close of the afternoon the guests departed after wishing Mr. and Mrs. Johnson many years of continued activity.

Those present were: Rev. and Mrs. F. B. Culver, Rev. and Mrs. P. Rasmussen, Messrs. and Mesdames J. M. Johnson, H. P. Larsen, H. Hansen, J. Mortensen, C. J. Fankhauser, J. Lund, A. W. Fankhauser, J. W. Hagensen, Mrs. N. Hansen, R. Rasmussen, L. Larsen, Miss Helen Johnson, Miss Larsen, Miss Lund, Miss Mortensen, Miss Margret Johnson.

New Dean to Speak

Rev. Elizabeth W. Ward, of North Pacific Evangelistic institute will preach at 11 o'clock Sunday morning at the Friends' church, and at 8 P. M. the pulpit will be occupied by Rev. Edward Mott of Long Beach, Cal. Rev. Mr. Mott has accepted a call to the position of dean of North Pacific Evangelistic institute, to begin July 1. He is one of the prominent ministers of the Friends' church in America, and all are invited to hear him. Rev. Mr. Cope has gone to Seattle, Wash., as a delegate to Tacoma quarterly meeting.

District 45 P.-T. A. Entertains.

A bazaar, fair and chicken supper will be held at Gilbert school the afternoon and evening of May 12. A cafeteria supper will be served from 5:30 to 7. The program begins at 8. For the benefit of club work. The affair is given by district 45, Parent-Teacher association. There will be plenty to eat and a good time assured.

"Tremendous Trifles."

It was only a tiny seed,
Carelessly brushed aside;
But it grew in time to a noxious weed
And spread its poison wide.

It was only a single spark,
Dropped by a passing train;
But the dead leaves caught, and swift
And dark

Was its work on wood and plain.
It was only an unsound nail,
That the workmen used—ah me!
But the ship that else had weathered
The gale

Went down in the deep, dark sea.
It may seem a trifle at most,
Scarce meant to be unkind;
But it pierced as a dart to the heart
That heard,
And left its sting behind.

It may seem a trifle at most,
The thing that we do or say;
And yet it may be that at fearful cost
We may wish it undone some day.
—M. P. Handy.

PREFERS CHARACTER TO "HIGH BROW" STUDY

A plea that public educational institutions should place greater stress on "the old-fashioned virtues of honesty, justice and decency" and less on the subjects generally termed "high-brow," was made by John J. Tigert, United States commissioner of education, in an address before the National Education association department of superintendence in session in Chicago. "If we cannot teach these virtues along with modern thought, then we had better dismantle our splendidly equipped institutions, and turn to the old log school house," said Mr. Tigert. In the words of a famous evangelist, "I would rather have my boy in heaven learning his A B C's than in hell reading Latin and Greek," we had better have citizens who have character and little erudition than citizens whose knowledge is a peril to society."

Time After Time.

Two boys stood close to a number of workmen busily engaged in constructing a building. "That seems like nice work," said one to the other, observing, as he watched a mechanic driving, with well-aimed force, nail after nail into place.

"Yes, I should like to be a carpenter, but I could never have the patience to hit the same nail so many times," answered the other boy.

The workman paused, his hammer lifted midway, and smiled. "You would never make a mechanic, then," he said, "since it is only repeated efforts that bring good results."

This is true along any line you may pursue. The art in accomplishing a task skillfully is not learned in a day, but often represents years of steadfast toil. This ought not to discourage us, however, but rather to increase our desire to succeed. It is true that "no great thing was lightly won."

A boy who, early in life, sets about his work, whatever it may be, in earnest, is likely to accomplish wonderful results. "That son of yours is a born farmer," remarked one man approvingly to another, as he noted the energetic manner in which the lad performed his task.

"John always does his level best at everything," was the reply. "That is really the secret of the whole matter—our level best, and stopping at nothing short of it."

Looking for Comfort.

Dr. Semper writes from London to the Dubuque (Ia.) Witness: "If we except the formal dinner occasion when evening dress is de rigueur, the Englishman shows a pronounced liking for an odd assortment of rough tweeds or flannels, of varying hues and different styles, no one piece of the costume matching with its neighbor. No attention is paid to what in America is styled 'a good fit.' Clothes in England do not fit in any sense of the word; they simply hang from the wearer. There is method, however, in the Englishman's undress, for it is quite evident that the freedom which he enjoys in matters of dress makes for the maximum of personal comfort. In England the apparel does not proclaim the man, and you can never tell a person of rank, or wealth, or education by the clothes which he happens to be wearing at the moment."

Nation's Finances Sound.

Soaring prices of Liberty bonds and the fact that in two years the public debt has been reduced by 3,500,000,000 prove that the United States is rapidly recovering from the wounds of the war. A nation that has paid off in such a short period a sum equal to the total national debt of the United States at the close of the costly civil war is a pretty solvent nation.—Senator Lodge.

Scientific Humor.

"Don't be shocked," said the bare trolley wire.
"Be on the level," said the square.
"Never get unstrung," said the telegraph line.

"Keep your tongue still," said the wagon.
"Don't be a striker," said the match.
"Have a keen eye," said the needle.
"Don't break your neck," said the bottle.

"Be sure to look things over," said the telescope.
"Don't talk harsh," said the phonograph.
"Hold tight to what you have," said the staple puller.

"Never beam round," said the bomb.
"Always hold your temper," said the cold chisel.
"Always keep things smooth," said the plane.

"Always hold your head high," said the jack.
"Grasp at every opportunity," said the pinners.
"Always reflect on things first," said the mirror.

—Science and Invention.

The Seven Mistakes of Life.

1. The delusion that individual advancement is made by crushing others down.
2. The tendency to worry about things that cannot be changed or corrected.
3. Insisting that a thing is impossible because we ourselves cannot accomplish it.
4. Attempting to compel other persons to believe as we do.
5. Neglect in developing and refining the mind by not acquiring the habit of reading fine literature.
6. Refusing to set aside trivial perfections in order that important things may be accomplished.
7. Failure to establish the habit of saving money.—Shelton Looms Bulletin.

Household Exhibits at Fairs.

The extension service of the Oregon Agricultural college has issued a bulletin entitled score cards for household exhibits at fairs, designed to aid exhibitors and judges in the display and classification and judging of exhibits. This bulletin will be followed by others on agricultural and horticultural exhibits and on livestock and poultry. The bulletins are free to residents of Oregon applying for them.

A timely circular issued by the experiment station of the Oregon Agricultural college deals with seed potato improvement; the selection, treatment and methods of planting are described.

Would Make No Difference.

America supports, among other pernicious parasites, a few periodicals which are devoted to the promotion of bigotry. Witness the title of an article recently published in the "Protestant" of Washington, D. C.: "Romans Head the American Legion." The inference is that National Commander MacNider is a Catholic. It just happens that the national commander is not a Catholic. And it also happens that if National Commander MacNider were a Catholic, the fact would make no difference to the American Legion.—Editorial from the American Legion Weekly.

A good story lurks in the pages of "The Reminiscences of a Raconteur," George H. Ham, its author, was being operated upon for appendicitis. "This is eternity," he thought as the doctor put him to sleep. "When I recovered from the effects of the opiate," he says, "I found myself in a darkened room, and wondered where I was, and what it was all about. The kindly-featured nurse quickly discovered that my consciousness had returned, and came to my bedside, and then I remembered everything. 'But why this dark room? It was early morning when they operated on me, but now it can't be night! No it isn't,' she seriously responded, 'but we were afraid of the shock you might get.' 'Why, what shock?' 'Well, there was a big fire just across the street, and we were afraid if you awoke and saw the flames you might think that the operation hadn't been successful.'"

BUILDING PERMITS

L. R. Dickinson, rect garage, 4921 Seventy-second, 75.
Forrest Maxfield, repair residence, 6126 Eighty-sixth street.

An ex-service man was telling of a corporal in his company who was a quick thinker. One day during drill the corporal was standing on the sidelines of the parade grounds. A pretty girl was eagerly watching the drill when a rifle volley crashed out. With a scream she shrank back into the arms of the young corporal standing beside her.

"Oh I beg your pardon," she exclaimed, blushing. "I was frightened by the rifles."

"Quite all right," the corporal gallantly replied. "Let's go over and watch the heavy artillery."

BORN

To Mr. and Mrs. James Griggs, 8 Buckel avenue, April 19, a daughter, viii:11.

PRESIDENT SAYS HALT!

Seven governors of eastern, western and southern states, in commenting on the editorial, "An Appeal to Governors to Halt the March Toward Federal Empire," recently published in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, have unequivocally condemned the centralization of power in the government at Washington, D. C., and promise their aid in checking the tendency.

President Harding, through his secretary, George B. Christian Jr., also expressed the view that "an effort should be made to halt the persistent effort to reach the federal treasury in payment for public service which very frequently deserves to be the burden of the separate commonwealths."

In the course of the editorial, the Post-Dispatch called attention to the fact that the governors of the states of the union have been organized since 1908 in a continuing body known as the governors' conference, and urged upon them the necessity of a special meeting "to formulate a definite program of action and to press it upon their respective legislatures in concert to the end that the most hopeful experiment in self-government ever attempted by a great people shall not end in failure and despair."

Governors Against Federalization.
The governors who replied with approval and pledges of co-operation are Thomas E. Campbell, of Arizona, Percival P. Baxter of Maine, William C. Sproul of Pennsylvania, Emory J. San Souci of Rhode Island, Samuel R. McKelvie of Nebraska, J. B. A. Robertson of Oklahoma and Thomas W. Hardwick of Georgia.

The editorial in the Post-Dispatch was an exhaustive review of the legislation and the judicial decisions which in the past 20 years have abridged the powers of the several states and vested in the federal government authority and functions which, the paper declared, were specifically reserved to the respective commonwealths when the federal constitution was framed and adopted.

The meaning of the use of the taxing power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated to encourage road building in the states, a subject that congress is constitutionally competent to deal with. But from that point it is now being used to increase the power of the federal government and the use to which it has been put by its advocates of centralization, the Post-Dispatch says:
"It was initiated