HAVE YOU NOTICED

That the rain was really wet?
That the pavement on Foster Road is down past Laurelwood?
That the height of the vacation time is here?
That with summer and outdoor sports the sale of radio supplies has decreased according to word received from dealers?
The disastrous results of the fire that broke out Monday morning in the stables on Hawthorne?
That the loss was $50,000.
That this column always is wrong?
That first we tell you that you must have a fire permit for your trash fire when you can't have a fire.
That next an item is left out?
That then it reads that unless it had rained before that column was printed that there would be no such thing as friends?
That what we meant last week was that you can catch more flies with honey than with vinegar and that the same is true with friends, but the first part was left out by a typographical error.
That the "cross crossings cautiously" campaign is on?
That this is good advice?
That there is going to be a park at Laurelwood?
That there is going to be a new Masonic temple there, too?
That the Olcott-Hall recount is on in full blast.
That in spite of all that the K. K. K. have said it appears that we have a few honest election boards?
That 114 undesirable aliens have been deported from Portland during the past year?
That Vice-President Calvin Coolidge and his wife are to visit Portland soon?
That there are 23 new churches being built in Portland this year?
That four of them are in the Mount Scott district?
That the opening of the deer season may have to be postponed on account of the fires?
That the fire situation in the northwest is bad?
That Senator McNary has explained his stand on the Muscle Shoals question?
That Dan Kellaher has sent a letter to the public service commission asking why there is no action on phone and car rates?
That we are wondering about that too?
That congestion of traffic may be avoided by using side streets?
That this is Buyers' week?
That 60 Mazamas are off to explore the Three Sisters for two weeks?
That the Al Azar pyramid of United Artisans are building a $40,000 temple at Third and Columbia?
That this is the third issue of this column?
That they say that the third time is the charm?
That although we are not superstitious we hope that this issue charms you?

BIRTH CONTROL CONFERENCE WANTS TO COME TO PORTLAND
Mayor Baker Says Organization Will Not Be Welcomed

The fifth international birth control conference, which recently met in London, has announced that its next international meeting will take place in this city in 1925. When approval of this announcement, Mayor Baker declared that the delegates would not be welcome, adding: "I don't know what the matter with these people. Of all the cities of the world Portland would be the least receptive to them and their doctrines."

Evangelist Sam Small Tells Why He Cannot Be a Bigot

In the Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution of June 19, 1922, appeared the following article by Rev. Sam W. Small, noted Methodist evangelist:

Every true lover of his fellow-man in Georgia, or anywhere else, should rejoice that the majority of the board of education in Atlanta has refused to reject the nominations of teachers in the city schools because of their memberships in the Roman Catholic church.

In doing so they upheld the 13th paragraph of the Bill of Rights of the Constitution of Georgia, which declares that "no inhabitants of this state shall be molested in person or property, or prohibited from holding any public office, or trust, on account of his religious opinions," etc.

There are few human idiosyncrasies more deplorable than religious bigotry. It has been an acrid and sometimes fatal curse to other ages and nations. Our fathers who founded this republic knew well its factional and disintegrating influences and determined to shut it out of our system of civilization and government as far as human device could do it. They knew what evils it had mothered in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Virginia. In the latter colony they had seen the conflict arise that eventually led James Madison to produce the famous remonstrance of 1785, and Jefferson to champion the "bill for establishing religious freedom" that became law in January, 1786.

First Amendment

Strangely, however, in making the federal constitution its authors went no further than to say (Art. VI, Sec. 3) that "no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States."

The omission of a guaranty of religious freedom caused heated opposition to the document in the conventions of several of the states and ratification of the constitution was finally achieved by pledges from its advocates that the omission would be cured by immediate amendment. Hence came the first amendment, that "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof," etc.

That prohibition, of course, affected only the national congress and did not bind any one of the states. But in the constitution of 1789 Georgia declared (Art. IV, Sec. 4): "All persons shall have the free exercise of religion," etc. Nine years later, in 1798, a new state constitution was adopted and in it was the provision, "nor shall any person be denied the enjoyment of any civil right merely on account of his religious principles." Equally strong and specific declarations of religious freedom were written into the subsequent state constitutions, in 1861, 1865, 1868 and 1877. So Georgia always, as a free state, has been openly committed to the policy of religious liberty, and hence the marvel that in this year of grace, 1922, there should spring up among us any flames of intolerance.

I am a Protestant of the strictest and straightest sect, born of Covenant stock, and could not imagine myself being a Romanist proselyte in a million years. But if I believe there is a drop of bigoted religious prejudice in my blood I should pop a lancet into one of my veins and let the dirty stuff out of my system.

As a Protestant, the Catholics of America have no terrors for me. I glory in the stupendous historic and progressive growth of Protestantism against the world-wide oppositions of Roman Catholicism and see no future chance that the latter will ever stay, or even overtake again, the growth of anti-papalism throughout the world.

For 37 years I have been going all over America as an evangelist and preacher of the Methodist interpretations of the gospel of Christ and have encountered no alarming signs that Romanism is an institution of "treason, stratagems and spoils," or a swelling menace to the rights, liberties and religious immunities of the vast Protestant majorities that dominate our nation.

Attended Catholic Academy

When my father, in 1865, for business reasons, removed his family from Macon to New Orleans, he had to choose between putting his children into public schools with negroes, or into the Catholic schools, where white children were protected from bi-racial contact and conflict. So for several years I attended a Catholic academy. One of my teachers was the famous Father Ryan and another was the afterwards Governor Blanchard. None of my teachers tried to convert me to Catholicism, or constrained me to follow the Catholic devotional regime, and when I won seven of ten prizes offered in the course, not one of the books given as prizes was a Catholic volume. I came out of that school as free and unaffected a Protestant as when I went into it, but brought away a profound respect for the fairness, kindness and devotion of my teachers and associates.

Since then, for 55 years, I have known and had a genuine affection for many good and great Catholics. What nobler soul would any man want to know and love than Bishop Keiley of Georgia? or Archbishop John Ireland of St. Paul? And what finer citizens has Atlanta ever had than John Flynn, Martin Dooley and John Stephens.

And who ever carried the banner of Atlanta over the nation more gallantly and famously than Captain Joe Burke at the head of the old Gate City guards. Why, he became so celebrated for his success as commander of that unrivaled organization that when it was proposed to send it to Europe in 1887 the British government refused to let it come upon English soil because Captain Burke is an Irish Catholic! What do you think of that?

Also, fellows, I have been in yellow fever epidemics in towns wherefrom all the Protestant preachers went floozy—God knows where—and only the Catholic priests and Sisters of Charity remained to nurse the sick and bury the dead, and most of them perished at their posts of duty to God and man.

That, too, is why I am no anti-Catholic bigot!
