Don't Let Your Shoes Argue With You

There are shoes that argue with you over every step and there are shoes that work with you all day long. The Cantilever Shoe is designed, first of all, like your own foot, with a flexible arch. No rigid strip of steel, such as is embedded in the shanks of ordinary shoes, disputes every step.

The Cantilever Shoe also has a snug heel seat, the gracefully rounded toe and the lower heel in vogue with the smartest women of today.

Comfort is a Help

To wear Cantilever Shoes is to be pleased with the trim appearance of your feet and to know supreme comfort the long day through. Their specially designed flexible shanks and other features work with you all day long. Your ligaments and muscles are allowed the free action and exercise they actually need in order to maintain their strength and spare you from that prevalent condition known as "weak foot" or "tired foot." Foot troubles are prevented and corrected.

When you lace up Cantilever Shoes their flexible shanks draw up to supply just the degree of support you require each day under each arch.

Slip your feet into Cantilevers—shoes that don't argue with you.

over one-half cup of melted butter; let boil a few seconds and add one cup flour. Beat a few minutes until smooth; remove from stove and add a bit of soda, also three eggs, beating very thoroughly. Drop from spoon into tin or muffin pan and bake in medium hot oven one-half hour. Make slight opening in cakes for filling soon as done. This makes about one dozen.

SEASONABLE FOODS

For those who like a substitute for meat in the warm weather the following dish will be suggestive:

Nut Loaf.—Cook one cupful of rice in boiling salted water until tender; drain, add two cupfuls of bread crumbs, one tablespoonful of chopped parsley, two tablespoonfuls of salt, one and one-half cupfuls of pecans or peanuts, a dash of pepper, a tablespoonful of butter, one egg well beaten and about one cupful of milk. Cook the rice in boiling water until tender, drain, adding the bread crumbs, toast, and enough milk to make a loaf which will hold its shape. Place in a baking pan with a little water and bake twenty minutes. Serve hot or cold with tomato or a white sauce with cheese.

The seasoning may be varied for this loaf, adding one tablespoonful of chopped pimento and one cupful of whole seeded raisins, served cold.

Rhubarb and Strawberry Sherbet.—Cut into inch pieces three pounds of rhubarb and let cook in water to cover until soft. Add one and one-half cupfuls of sugar and one quart of strawberries; sift the whole through a colander. Add the juice of a lemon and cook until the mixture is thick.

Strawberries and Angel Food.—Have the cake baked in a square tin and cut in squares. Heap spoonfuls of strawberries crushed with sugar over each piece, top with sweetened whipped cream and serve cold. Another tasty dessert is brick ice cream cut in two-inch slices put together sandwich fashion with slices of angel food. This, if carefully cut and arranged, makes a very pretty dessert.

Merriton Eggs.—Butter thickly many earthen baking cups or tinned cases as needed; sprinkle the butter with finely-chopped parsley and chives and break into each cup an egg. Set the cups in a pan of hot water and bake in the oven until set. Invert carefully on rounds of delicately toasted bread, well buttered. Pour around them a rich tomato sauce, to which has been added one spoonful of chopped green pepper.

ADVANTAGES OF PRIVATE SCHOOLS

The principals of four of Portland's non-denominational private schools have filed with the secretary of state the following argument against the school monopoly bill:

Do you believe in our public schools? Every right-minded American answers, "Yes."

Do you believe they should have our full, complete and loyal support? Again, every right-minded American answers, "Yes."

Is our full support of the public schools diminished by our support of the private schools? No, the two systems work perfectly side by side. The public schools necessarily and properly educate the vast majority, but by methods exacted by large numbers. The private schools educate comparatively few but with more attention to the individual. The ordinary branches of learning are acquired in both systems. The public schools can afford no more. The private schools by their independent position offer varied opportunities and individual development impossible or unsuitable in the public schools.

As citizens of Oregon and as principals of nonsectarian private schools we oppose the compulsory education bill.

As citizens we object to the measure because it deprives parents of the right to choose the means of education for their children. We believe in the necessity and value of the public schools and in the right of the state to require the education of its children by competent teachers and according to certain scholastic standards. We are equally firm in our belief that parents have the right to choose the school in which their children shall be educated so long as the state's standards are fulfilled. The states of the union so far have been content to compel children to attend some school either public or private where the state standards are maintained. If this measure becomes law it will be the first attempt in this country to compel every child to attend a particular kind of school.

As principals of the schools represented we object to the proposed law as it directly affects us in the following respects:

First—It will destroy the capital invested in our schools. The total capital invested in the lands, buildings, equipment and endowment funds of the four schools is more than $250,000. The buildings and equipment are of little value except for private schools and the use of the endowment funds is limited to private educational purposes. Two of the schools have pupils of high school grades who are not directly affected by this bill and it may be supposed that these schools can continue with such pupils, but the withdrawal of one-half of the children and one-half the income would kill the school. Moreover, we shall have no feeling of security in conducting the high school grades, for if this bill passes there appears to be no reason why a similar attempt will not be made to destroy the higher schools.

Second—It will deprive us and our teachers of the right to earn a living in a lawful occupation. The principals and teachers of the four schools are largely college graduates who have given the best part of their adult years to teaching. As private school teachers they have been trained through an experience different from the public schools. The smaller classes in the private schools allow greater freedom of action, a less rigid discipline, more initiative and a closer relation with individual pupils than can be permitted in the public schools with their larger classes.

Third—This law will destroy schools which provide desirable methods and courses of study, which the public schools have not adopted and probably never can adopt. Our four schools meet the public school requirements as to courses of study, competency of teachers, and attainments of pupils. And because they are private schools we do more in many respects than the public schools. Our chief advantage lies in the smaller classes. While the Portland public elementary schools have one teacher for about 40 pupils, our schools have one teacher for about 12 pupils. This means better teaching and more attention to each child's development. In the private schools far more consideration can be given to healthful conditions. Quiet, uncrowded, well ventilated rooms are provided. No one interested directly or indirectly in the public schools approves of the large classes and the over-crowding. They are endured only because of the enormous cost of curing the evil. The private schools consider the small classes essential to their success and they provide the necessary teachers only at greatly increased expense.

Our schools furnish other special inducements which in the eyes of our patrons are advantages. In the judgment of some parents co-education is not best; even for young children and they prefer to send their boys to a school exclusively for boys like the Hill Military academy and their girls to Miss Catlin's. Shall such parents be deprived of the right to exercise their judgment? Is the state injured by having such schools?

Some parents wish the discipline and training of a military school for their boys. Is the Hill Military academy to suffer because it offers this kind of instruction under an army officer detailed by the United States government?

Each private school equals the studies of the public schools and can give special advantages in additional subjects including the arts, languages, and manual training.

The schools we represent are in Portland and some children come to us from other parts of Oregon and from other states because of our climate, the art museum, the public library and the special advantages of a large city. The time will come, unless this bill passes, when similar schools in eastern Oregon or in the Rogue River valley will prosper on account of the benefits afforded by their different climate and surroundings.

Finally, the bill should be defeated because:

It would deprive public school education of the benefits it receives from the experiments in methods, research work and high standards contributed by independent schools.

It is against the best American ideals of freedom in that it denies to men and women freedom of thought and action in the choice of environment and influences for their children.

It represents an anti-American effort to standardize the individual and strikes a blow at democracy's long struggle to protect the individual in his right to direct his own life.

The Hand That Brings the Money

The other day in a paper published in the Rogue River Valley I saw an article taking "Pop" Gates to task for advertising in the Mail-Tribune and the Pacific Record-Herald. The article says "Pop" is the only avowed klanman in the state and yet he won't advertise in the klan paper. In other words the renowned editor meant that "I am your friend provided you bring me the coin, but if you do not it makes no difference that I am a fellow klanman I'll lambast you all I can." It is well for the public to know this. Perhaps that explains many of his articles. The hand that brings the money is the hand that rules the roost.—Medford Record-Herald.

COATS OF SOFT CLOTH

Happy is the little girl who is destined to own a coat of duvetine like the one pictured. It bears a strong resemblance to the garments of her elders, with its full collar and wide cuff bands of fur. It has a strap belt of the material and ties for the neck, also finished with fascinating bands of fur at the ends.

DRESSY COSTUME BLOUSES

A lovely costume blouse of georgette, richly embroidered in silk, when worn with a satin or silk skirt, will make a toilette sufficiently dressy for almost any occasion. The blouse pictured has full sleeves, cut to long points at the elbow, and drawn in at the wrists. This model may be made with a poplin.

CHEERING SOME ONE ON

Don't mind about the triumphs;
Don't you worry after fame;
Don't you grieve about succeeding,
Let the future guard your name.
All the best in life's the simplest;
Love will last when wealth is gone;
Just be glad that you are living,
And keep cheering some one on.

Let your neighbors have the blossoms;
Let your comrades wear the crown;
Never mind the little setbacks,
Nor the blows that knock you down;
You'll be there when they're forgotten.

You'll be glad with youth and dawn,
If you just forget your troubles,
And keep cheering some one on.

There's a lot of sorrow round you,
Lots of loneliness and tears,
Lots of heartaches and of worry
Through the shadows of the years,
And the world needs more than triumphs,
More than all the swords we've drawn.

It is hungering for the fellow
Who keeps cheering others on.
—Selected.

"Now, boys," said the schoolmaster, "I want you to bear in mind that the word 'stan' at the end of a word means the place of." Thus we have Afghanistan—the place of the Afghans; also Hindustan—the place of the Hindus. Can any one give me another example?"

Nobody appeared very anxious to do so, until little Johnny Snags, the joy of his mother and the terror of the cats, said proudly:

"Yes, sir, I can. Umbrellastan—the place for umbrellas."
