The candidates on the co-called Republican ticket, are already getting ready to shed their tears—they are so Humid.

Mr. Lenfestey says Mr. Hume was but a "cipher" as an influence affecting the result. That may be so, but it makes a "mighty sight" of difference which side of a figure 1 you write the cipher on, and we do not hesitate to say that the public well knows that Mr. Hume was "ten to one" in the results of both the caucus and convention.

Peter Costelloe, candidate for School Supt. on the Hume ticket, two years ago swore allegiance to the Union party, and was nominated by that party for the position which he now seeks.

How does this strike the members of the late "Republican caucus?" A few days ago, at the court house, R. D. Hume publicly announced, in the presence of a number of gentlemen, that his excuse for participating in the caucus was that the delegates didn't know how to conduct such a meeting, and he did.

No little amusement was occasioned by the ridiculous show Hume made of himself by his last week's supplement. He is a fit subject for compassion rather than ridicule.

How easy it is for Hume to cry out, "personal abuse," and "dirt," when we relate facts in which the public are interested, and which he cannot gainsay.

It seems to worry the editor of the Gold Beach paper, that J. H. Upton came to our assistance in setting up our new plant. Being an amateur in the business, he is ignorant of the fact that there is always a certain courtesy existing between practical printers and experienced newspaper men which prompts them to assist each other in cases of need regardless of political or private differences.

When the word came up from Gold Beach Thursday evening that great excitement prevailed at the Gazette office; that the whole time of the editor-in-chief was occupied in the office, down on the floor on his "all-fours," eagerly searching through the old newspaper files of the office; that he had doubled the already large force of compositors, and "lookout for the Gazette, for there'll be razors in the air," we were frightened almost out of our shoes, for we expected almost complete annihilation.

There is a sort of ludicrous side to the question, however, when we remember that the week previous he stated that "under the former management its columns were filled with abusive matter directed at me," and by his supplement he proves this statement to be false, by showing conclusively that under the former management the paper stood his friend, through thick and thin, and not only gave him any quantity of taffy, but opposed the several movements to drive his heathens out by force, which we would do again under the same circumstances.

And again, as to the Chinese agitators at Rogue River, we were satisfied that Mr. Hume had them well armed and well trained for defense; that if force was attempted they would resist, and that the first white blood spilled would be the signal for the entire extermination of the Chinese, which would in turn result in severe punishment for all implicated.

Yes, Mr. Hume did well in copying from our old files. We hope he will continue the work—give us a copy of the matter relating to a certain barbed wire fence, which caused him to withdraw his "patronage" from the paper; also the last Circuit Court proceedings, and all matters and things relating to the January Co. Court and liquor license.

It is surprising how the minds of two men will sometimes follow in the same groove. For instance, the long article in this issue, signed by W. P. Lenfestey, is identical, word for word, with an article appearing in the Gold Beach supplement, signed "Delegate."

The Election Law.

The following is a synopsis of the new election law, copied from the Coast Mail: As a rule the election boards meet about as before and fill vacancies from the citizens present.

In case the judges appointed by the county court be not present at the polls, the electors present may select from among themselves the members of the board. Polls to be open from eight in the morning to six in the evening.

Where a married man's family reside is his residence. Where a single man sleeps is his residence.

In incorporate towns no person shall approach within fifty feet of the polls except the officers necessary and the person in the act of voting.

Judges of the election have the power to fine violators of the rules fifty dollars and the money goes to the school fund.

Counting must begin one hour after the polls close and keep on without adjournment till it is finished.

Only white ballots shall be used, and ballots which cannot be determined shall be void. Colored ballots may be used solely as sample ballots for the information of the voters.

Table with 2 columns: Name and Party. Includes Binger Hermann (Republican), M. V. Rork (Peoples), and R. M. Veatch (Democrat).

The lower blank space is for the name of some one not on the ticket, in case the voter wishes to vote for some one else. The voter must cross out the names of those he does not wish to vote for.

The county clerk must provide one large and one small ballot box for each precinct, also poll books, pens, ink, blotting pads, indelible pencils, string and sealing wax.

The voter must give his name and residence when applying for a ballot; in case he cannot read, two judges may assist in making out the ballot.

Any person who exhibits his ballot so as to let it be known how he votes is liable to a fine of $50 to $200.

Any person who shall tear down election notices or disturb any election packages unlawfully is liable to $500 fine or imprisonment, or both.

The ratification of the Behring Sea arbitration agreement and modus vivendi convention, were exchanged between Great Britain and the United States on May 7th.

Wyoming, which recently came into prominence by the troubles between large ranch owners and small cattlemen, now proposes to gain fresh notoriety by sending a female delegate to the Republican national convention.

One of the most horrible cases of suicide ever recorded occurred last week in San Francisco, on board the fireboat Governor Irwin.

Chile is coming to the World's Fair with a fine exhibit, and she will receive a generous welcome. All we want is for other people to do the square thing, and we harbor no resentment after they do it.

The River and harbor bill as it passed the House, carried an appropriation in round numbers of $21,300,000. In addition the Secretary of War is authorized to contract for the completion of important projects of improvement to an extent involving the ultimate expenditure of about $26,000,000.

We are sorry for Hume. He is so anxious to give Upton a thorough chastising through his paper, but knowing himself to be badly overmatched, he is forced to go back to the old files and dig up some of our big bombs, which were used when we were exchanging some heavy shots with the latter.

The Pope's new brief to the French Cardinals gives him another go on the good will of the French republicans and of other nations as well. He reaffirms his doctrines of his encyclical, which has been unchanged; he enforces explicit terms the duty of Catholics to the republican government.

Should Benjamin Harrison and Grover Cleveland be the opposing candidates for President this year, as now seems altogether likely, it would be the first instance in 52 years, and the third in the history of the Government, of a second race for the Presidency between previous competitors.

For the first time in the history of this country a bulletin was issued by the Census Bureau on water transportation. In this bulletin the transportation fleet in 1890 in the United States numbered 25,000 steamers, sailing vessels and unrigged craft, whose gross tonnage was 7,633,676 tons; the estimated commercial value of these vessels being $215,069,296.

Additional complications may possibly arise over the Behring Sea affair, from the fact that the poachers who infest those waters threaten now to sail under the flag of some other country besides those of the United States or Great Britain.

The modus vivendi which has been agreed upon between this country and Great Britain, provides that vessels of either country which violate this agreement may be seized and tried in the courts of the country to which the vessel belongs.

Any person who shall enter the sea, it would seem the modus vivendi, which was intended to protect the seals in northern waters, would only have the effect of preventing vessels of this country and Great Britain from taking seals, and not stopping the destruction of those animals.

Hon. J. C. Fullerton.

Of all the men of Southern Oregon, none stand out more prominently, nor are better known to our older settlers, than Hon. J. C. Fullerton, the Republican candidate for Judge of this District.

Never shall I forget a remark made to me while on a street in Roseburg, conversing with one of the most prominent Democrats of that place, as along the opposite sidewalk hurried the well-known form of Fullerton.

Fullerton leads the Roseburg bar, in the number of cases committed to his care. He has had years of experience in our courts, while his opponent is but a boy in both years and experience.

Fullerton as Senator from Douglas county stood shoulder to shoulder with Crook and Sinclair in securing the wagon road appropriations.

AN OLD SETTLER.

"I don't wish to influence you, Mabel," said the mother, "in anything that would do violence to your own feelings or inclinations, but does not young Blannerman appear to be partial to your society of late?"

"I thought I had observed an inclination on his part," pursued her mother, looking with pride and tenderness at the beautiful face and figure of her eldest born.

"He is not personally objectionable to you is he, Mabel?" "He is not."

"Do you think, my dear—you will pardon the question, I am sure—that he seeks to win your love? Do you think he intends to offer you the highest honor that a high-minded man can tender to the maiden who has won his heart's best affections?"

Mr. Hume, the shrewd, quick-witted, long-headed, editor of the Gold Beach paper, thinks to make a point on us by copying our former remarks advocating the nomination of H. B. Miller for Congress, and the withdrawal of Mr. Hermann from the field, and comparing them with our remarks of last week.

Russia's Condition.

It certainly looks as if nothing but a revolution will bring permanent relief to the people of Russia. The conditions are ripe for such an upheaval as there was in France nearly 100 years ago.

The facts are that Russia is governed in the old feudal way which was swept out of existence in Western Europe a century ago in a sea of fire and blood.

Were not the Russians an exceedingly stupid, ignorant people, fully a century behind the rest of Europe in development, they would have thrown off this load long ago.
