COSMORAMA. Recently the daughter of the postmistress of Maygar-Czernya was called to the public telephone, when she heard the voice of her sweetheart, Gustav Tibold, who from the town hall of Taba telephoned the alarming message, "Would you like to hear how I shoot myself?" Scarcely were the words ended when the girl heard the sound of a shot; and subsequent inquiries revealed that the young man had killed himself in the manner he had indicated.

It is said that the original copy of the Declaration of Independence of the United States of America is now unreadable, owing to the ink having completely faded. It appears that part of the title can still be deciphered, but that the body of the text and the signatures have nearly all disappeared. This is owing to the inferior quality of the ink used and yet the document is only a century and a quarter old.

It has just leaked out that our troopers from the South expended Confederate notes freely in Cuba during the Spanish American war. The trick was originated by young men of the Southern states, in whose homes sundry trunkfulls of "Jeff Davis money" had been lying idle for some thirty-three years. The Cubans were easy victims.

They have gone over to the great majority. General O. O. Howard in a reminiscent mood says of the twenty-seven commanders of Union armies during the civit war only two survive. General Schofield and himself. Of the forty corps commanders on the Union side only twelve survive.

It is an indisputable proposition that export American products should be shipped, for the most part at least, in American vessels. The total value of such shipments last year was more than half a billion dollars. Not one-fourth of it was carried under the American flag. Why?
