A Tramp Law Needed.

No able-bodied man has a right to sponge off a local living by consuming what his fellowman produces. It is a tax upon industry which a high civilization would not tolerate.

To tolerate such men is misdirected charity, and this is not charity, but encouragement to things that are evil.

Mind you, we are speaking of the able-bodied tramp who can work, and can get work, but will not work. The Tribune believes in a law that will arrest all tramps, put them to work on our roads at small wages until they shall have earned enough, say ten dollars, to go on their way with money to pay their expenses.

Our roads are the most valuable of all our communal property—we would not reach our school houses without them. No matter if it costs to make our roads work all the year, yet it will be cheaper for all of us, than for all of us to feed and maintain them as we now do, in constant dread of their depredations.

When a man gets so low that he is unwilling to share the common lot of all to earn his living "by the sweat of his brow," he has placed himself outside the "pale of humanity," and must abide his fate. We see but two practical ways of solving the question of dealing with them; work them on our roads as outlined above, or banish them to some tropical island where they will have congenial comrades, and live off the produce of nature, rather than off the produce of better men.

It is to be hoped that our next Legislature Assembly will take wise and timely action on this matter.

Election News.

The elections are over at last, and the strained nerves of the people have relaxed to normal conditions. No matter who dies, affairs of this old world go right on. No matter who is elected, or who is defeated, the government still lives, and the biggest fellow we have is but a fly on the wheel of business which rolls on just the same. But there are lessons galore to be learned from the late elections, and each of us will, as free Americans draw conclusions in harmony with our belief, and the strength of our judgment.

Whether are we drifting we surmise, but do not know; and in casting the future horoscope of nations, as of men, the fool may beat the philosopher. It is not our purpose in this article to tell of the lessons we think we see in the election, but only to recite in a brief way a few election items of interest to the TRIBUNE readers.

Hughes beat Hearst for the Governorship of New York 60,000, but the Democrats elected every other state officer. The defeat of Hearst means Bryan for Democratic candidate for President.

The Republicans have lost about 25 congressmen, but still have a large majority. The republicans have elected every Congressman in California and Washington, also Gillette, Governor of Calif.

The Democrats have elected several Governors in Republican states.

The Republican majorities are greatly reduced in nearly all the states.

Missouri is solidly Democratic.

again. Republican Governor were elected in Idaho and Colorado. Socialists haven't cut much of a swath in the vote; it looks as though they will have to cut bait a long time before they can fish.

Roosevelt is said to be the only one who can beat B. H. H. Considering the mixed element that elected Hughes, he does not loom as a Presidential candidate.

Since Roosevelt will not run, Shaw, Fairbanks, Tamm, Cannon, and even Foraker have hoisted fighting rods.

"Old Joe" is the only one that can get votes from Independent Republicans, and he can't get many against Bryan.

Will Bryan be the next President is now the great question? P. S. The South is solid!

Woman Suffrage.

The Woman's convention at Post land last week precipitated a spirited fight for control of the Woman's Rights Association of Oregon. One set of women, led mainly by eastern influences, were in favor of alliance with the cause of temperance, and every other "ism" where votes are to be found.

Another set, led by Miss Aulicott Scott Dunaway, were opposed to any alliance of any kind, and believed wisely as the Tribune believes, that Woman Suffrage was of such great importance that it should go before the voters at our next election, solely on its merits.

With her old time vigor and skill Miss Dunaway faced the opposition at all points, and was a signal victory, and was elected President of the Association as she so fittingly deserved to be, and she insisted upon the election of other officers in accordance with her views, for her vast experience had taught her that without harmony in the councils of the Association there could be no effective work in the great campaign that is now upon us.

Like all great, honest minds, Mrs. Dunaway may be radical, but in nothing is she a fanatic. She sticks to her guns, but she is fair, honest, liberal, and always able. She does not believe that Woman Suffrage, nor any other cause is great enough to carry with it a panacea for all ills, as so many able women of the East thought in the last fatal election.

In the last campaign Mrs. Dunaway did not do so—the message meant of the campaign, because of all access that aroused unnecessary antagonism. She lay back upon the oars—more correctly pulled a lazy oar—and watched the battle fought out by the greatest women of our nation with their ploy of "allies," and Woman Suffrage went down to unprecedented defeat.

Though her hopes were dashed, she must have been some grim satisfaction to her woman's right of saying, "I told you so."

Thanks to this grand old woman's heart, brain and pluck, the question is now to be placed before our voters stripped of all extraneous "isms." No other issue is joined with it; it stands upon its merits; and its friends can now work for it without endangering some other interest. Men will now vote for Woman Suffrage that did not before, and if it does not win, the majority against it will be so reduced, that hope will spring undying in the hearts of its friends.

Precedent above all the Suffragists of the world in voice, pen and work, Mrs. Dunaway is the best leader to us in the banner of equal rights, and to lead the cause to Oregon to triumph.

Some Timely Suggestions.

Now that the assessment roll of our county has reached a creditable showing, and bids fair to advance with steady steps, would it not be a wise policy for the people of every precinct in the county to call a meeting, and discuss the question of raising the salaries of some of our unpaid officers, as well as any other matters that may come up before our Legislature which convenes in January?

Our members of the Legislature would, no doubt, be pleased to hear from the people and there is no better way than to meet in every precinct as non partisans and voice our sentiments.

The Tribune believes that our County Clerk and Commissioners are inadequately paid. It believes that the Treasurer's salary should be raised one hundred dollars—plus for the work for the increased responsibility in handling the county money.

The Tribune does not believe that the Treasurer should be made Collector of Taxes, as has often been urged by inexperienced men. We believe our present system is as nearly perfect as possible, and should never be changed. The Treasurer is now a check upon the Sheriff, and the Clerk upon the Treasurer, thus preventing facilities for defalcations, which certainly would exist if the Treasurer were both Collector and Custodian of the taxes. But while our Sheriff's vote as Collector, as we believe they should, we believe they should be liberally paid, and that a more definite law should be passed providing for pay of Deputies.

We also believe that our Common Schools are in danger of strangulation by root faddists, by Normal Schools, and High Schools, by locating seats of education in the interest of special places, to the detriment of the masses, and by foisting upon our Common Schools, useless high branches of study, collegial in their nature, and utterly foreign to the fundamental branches.

The Tribune does not believe in requiring teachers in our Common School to pass examinations in branches that are not taught in such schools, and we charge that this is mainly to enable for driving experienced teachers out of the profession, and filling the school houses with "young girl teachers," who have no intention of following the profession.

We also believe that our present system of selecting Text-Books is abominable and should be abolished, as a Graft that makes our books more expensive, and foists upon our schools many worthless books which we are forced to use. We believe in allowing every District power to reject such books, and absolute control of branches taught beyond the fundamental.

Impoverished Soil

Impoverished soil, like impoverished blood, needs a proper fertilizer. A chemist by analyzing the soil can tell you what fertilizer to use for different products.

If your blood is impoverished your doctor will tell you what you need to fertilize it and give it the rich, red corpuscles that are lacking in it. It may be you need a tonic, but more likely you need a concentrated fat food, and fat is the element lacking in your system.

There is no fat food that is so easily digested and assimilated as...
