

Dangerous.
"These roads are awful dangerous."
"Why, this here's a quiet, law abiding neighborhood."
"Now, why, six fellows on de way here offered me work."—New York Journal.

An Explanation.
The Diplomat. Little Johnny thought in the act—I must say, mother, that when Willie Jones says his ma's jams are better than a poor jugs of jam. New York Journal.

Business and money.
"And now, my son," said the father, "as you are about to go into business for yourself, it is well for you to remember that honesty is the best policy."
"Yes, father," said the noble young man.
"That honesty is the best policy, and," continued the old man, "if you will study up the laws you will be surprised to find how many things you can do in a business way and still be honest."

Not What He Meant.
Scene: Having sent a stupid servant to do an errand, was greatly annoyed on finding that he had done exactly the opposite to what he had been ordered.
"Why, you haven't common sense," he reproached.
"But, sir—"
"Shut up! I should have remembered that you were an idiot. When I'm tempted to send a fool on an errand again, I'll not ask you. I'll go myself!"

Near the Popping Point.
"Mary," said her father, "you have been keeping company with that Mitchell fellow for more than a year now. This courtship must come to a termination."
"Oh, father, how can you talk so! He is, oh, so sweet and nice!"
"Ah! And the fond father arched his eyebrows. "Sweet and nice, eh? Has he proposed?"
"Well, father, not exactly. And the girl hung her head and fingered the trimmings of her dress. "He hasn't exactly proposed; but, then, last evening when we were out walking we passed by a nice little house, and he said, 'This is the kind of cottage I'm going to live in some day,' and I said, 'Yes,' and then he glanced at me and squeezed my hand. Then, just as we got by, I glanced back at the cottage, and—and I loved his hand!"
"Oh, ah, I see!" said her father. "Well, we'll try him another week or two."—London Answers.

Quiet Hannah's Hamlet.
To the day of his death Hannah Hamlet was a figure that men would turn and look at a second time on the street. His tall form, which in old days was but slightly bent, was always clothed in the old-fashioned black swallowtail suit, and he always wore a tall silk hat, generally a "black number," tilted slightly back on his head.
For years he was famous as a man who never gave an overcoat, and to his death he never burdened himself with that. To him, ungenerous garments except on the most severely cold days. For a half century he never changed the style of his clothes. He walked with a swaying gait and had so many friends and acquaintances to whom he had to bow that a smile secured to be ever on his face.

Both Trained.
Little Edith had been very ill, but was convalescent. Walking up suddenly and finding a strange lady at her bedside, she asked, "Are you the doctor?"
"No, dear," replied the lady; "I'm your trained nurse."
"Oh!" exclaimed Edith, pointing to a nurse hanging near the window, "trained nurse, let me introduce you to my trained nurse!"

Fish Aversions.
The celebrated Erasmus, although a native of Rotterdam, had such an aversion to fish that the smell of it threw him into a fever. Ambrose Pare had a patient who could never see an eel without fainting and another who would fall into convulsions at the sight of a carp.

FACTS AND FIGURES.

Australia's exports of wool to the United States have doubled within a year.
The total number of passengers carried by electric lines each year in the United States is 5,336,900,000.
The recent birth rate for St. George's-in-the-East, London, the headquarters of the alien invasion, is at the rate of 65.8 per 1,000. This is the highest birth rate ever recorded in England.
In spite of the many jokes that are made at the expense of the Georgia peach crop, that state produced more peaches than any of the eastern states. It is said that there are over 7,000,000 trees that bear peaches in the state.
Skins to the number of 3,125 were shipped from Alaska last season. An industry pursued incidentally with that of smelting on the Pribilof Islands is that of raising the blue fox for its pelt. These animals, under the system in use, are fed and cared for as if domesticated.

It is said that the biggest shell ever made was turned out by the Krupp people at Essen, Germany. It was made for Russia, and weighed 2,600 pounds. The gun which is large enough to use this shell is mounted on the fortifications at Cronstadt, and has a range of 12 miles. Each time that it is fired it costs the czar $1,500.
In the last nine years $1,000 motors have been registered in England. Of these 3,500 have been used for commercial purposes. The motor-wagon users have formed an association and it has issued a circular in which it is urged that commercial automobilism, if general, would reduce the cost of keeping up the roads and streets, lessen the blocking of the streets by congested traffic and make them less dangerous to pedestrians.

The 353 firms of brewers in the United Kingdom last year brewed 26,054,657 barrels of beer, and upon this they paid $13,562,832 in duty to the national exchequer. According to a parliamentary return there is only one firm of brewers which has an annual output of over 2,000,000 barrels. This firm alone used 6,293,963 pounds of hops and 1,559,718 bushels of malt, while its payment in duty amounted to £232,614 1 shilling and 6 pence.

OLD-WORLD ODDITIES.

Although roasted whole for 12 hours over coals, a bullock, cut up and distributed among 500 poor people at Sun-derland, was found to be still uncooked.
During the hearing of a case at Highgate police court it was stated that 12 persons were living free of rent in Sydney Road, Hornsey, because no landlord ever called to collect it.

Among the converts made in London by Torrey and Alexander was a well-known musical entertainer, Quenton Ashlyn, who has decided that he cannot conscientiously continue in his profession.

"An aged Korean councillor of state, who is a strong reformer, Mr. Choi Ik Yen, has been sitting outside the palace gate at Seoul for five days," says a Japanese newspaper. "He proposes to sit there until the needed reforms are carried out."
Life saving runs in the family of Mr. J. Parsons, a young lighterman, of the Holloway, Brentford, England, who, on his twenty-third birthday, received the Royal Humane society's certificate for rescuing two boys from drowning. His father saved 48 persons from drowning, and the son now has a total of 23 lives to his credit.

A short time ago, at Camberwell (Eng.) registry office, a well dressed old gentleman, wearing a Panama hat, and who gave his age as 75, was married to a young girl who has just passed her seventeenth year. After the ceremony a son of the old gentleman, who will be 10 in a few days, went through the form of marriage with a lady who is in her sixty-eighth year. Leaving the office together, both the happy couples entered a motor car that was in waiting and drove away.

BITS BY THE BABES.

"Are you going to the circus, Willie?" asked the visitor.
"I s'pose I'll have to," replied the little fellow. "Papa wants to go and I'm the only excuse he's got."

Mamma—Why, Johnny, is it possible you are in the jam again after I whipped you an hour ago for getting into it?
Johnny—Yes, ma'am. I heard you tell grandma you had whipped me too hard, so I thought I'd make it even.

School Teacher—"Children, can any of you frame a sentence with the words 'bitter end' in it?" Little Girl (in front)—"Yes, teacher, please, I can." Teacher—"All right, Nellie, you may do so." Nellie—"Our big black dog chased our neighbor's cat and bit her end."

When a certain well known humorist first started newspaper work he took a house near Cincinnati, and one day an actor friend went to dinner with him. The humorist told some new stories, and the actor, turning to his host's little girl, said:
"Clever papa you've got my dear."
"Yes," responded the demure little miss, "when there's company."

Her parents had told a certain little girl that it was very rude to contradict. She showed herself against the practice, therefore, with great conscientiousness. But one day a half-jesting accusation, made against her by some unsuspecting member of the crown-up part of the house, nearly made her fall from a state of grace. Luckily, her imagination supplied her with a compromise. In a voice trembling with tears and passion, she gasped out: "I—I really think you are mistaken—you—you beast!"
