WHEN a country becomes civilized it demands typewriters. When it becomes posted on comparative values it demands

THE SMITH PREMIER TYPEWRITER

The fact that The Smith Premier Typewriter is used in every civilized country on the globe is not so important as the further fact that the demand increases year after year.

The reputation of The Smith Premier is world-wide. World-wide use has made it so.

TIME SPENT IN TRAVELING

Large Part of the Day Spent by Suburbanites Going To and From Business.

"Do New Yorkers ever stop to think how much time they spend in traveling to and from business every day, and what it amounts to in their lives?" This question was asked by a Berlin merchant in the Marlborough hotel the other day; reports the Herald.

"I notice," he added, "that your business men usually live in the suburbs and spend about an hour coming in in the morning and an hour going home at night. This means two hours a day, or 15 hours in six working days of the week, 1564 hours a year. Figure this out yourself, and just see how much time you waste in your railway cars. And yet you pride yourselves on being a time saving nation.

"In Europe it is different. In Berlin and Paris, for instance, a business man lives either in the same building with his business or within short walking distance of it. We don't have to rush out of bed in the morning, dress hurriedly and often go without breakfast, as you do, to catch our train. As a rule we take two hours for luncheon, going home to eat it with our family, and in the evening we walk home leisurely instead of rushing for our train as you do. I tell you this is such an advantage. Of course, New York is so situated that perhaps the same plan would not work here and you are obliged to live some distance from your office; but nevertheless I think you people waste too much time traveling, and considering the little time you can spend at home I don't see that you profit much by living in the suburbs. You are far ahead of us Europeans in many things, but you have yet to learn how to be more conservative with your time. It counts, I tell you, and this strenuous life does not pay."

SLAVE TO COLOR FREAKS.

Man Hardly Knows His Own Wife, Her Appearance Changes So Often.

"I'm glad I'm not my wife," said the dyspeptic, as he settled down to his hygienic luncheon of rare roast beef, creamed onions and boiled rice," relates the Philadelphia Record. "I'd be dead if I were. I have trouble enough keeping alive as it is. "Fancy the shape I'd be in if I had to change my spots—I mean my color—as often as fickle fashion dictates. Why, I've forgotten what color my wife originally was, she's undergone so many beauty-transformations. And now she's got to do it again. "A friend just back from the other side has told her that though red hair continues to be the proper color, it must now be backed up by green eyes and a dead white skin. The hair and skin are easy enough, but even my wife is a little afraid of the beauty specialist who is willing to undertake to make her eyes look green. "There's just one grain of comfort in it all for me—though she achieve the pallid skin, the green eyes and the red hair, it will not give her a temperament to correspond. I shall yet enjoy the modicum of peace it is in her capricious nature, to allow me."

NEWEST IN WHEELBARROWS

Folding Steel Frame Makes Convenient Conveyance for the Suburban Gardener.

Wheelbarrows of steel or wood, or a combination of these materials, are made in great variety of form and construction, and for many special uses; but perhaps the newest thing in wheelbarrows is one made with a folding steel frame, which can be knocked down for shipment. The body and handles of this wheelbarrow are of wood, but the legs and braces, constituting the supporting frame, are of steel and are riveted together and bolted to the body when the wheelbarrow is set up.

The folding steel frame wheelbarrow may, by virtue of its collapsibility, present another advantage. It is a garden barrow. It would be quite possible for the suburban dweller about to start a garden, and impatient for a wheelbarrow with which to begin work, to buy one of these folding steel frame wheelbarrows, knocked down, and have it wrapped up and carry it home with him. Even in its knocked-down form, what with its width and the length of its handles, a folding steel frame wheelbarrow would make, for him, considerable of a bundle to carry; but he could probably get it done without knocking down more than 15 or 20 people in getting on and off the cars with it, where he couldn't have carried an old-style wheelbarrow at all.

To Dispel Misapp.

The climate of the great glacier of the Grindelwald in the heart of the Bernese Oberland of Switzerland is an experience that every seeker after new sensations should try, says Kathleen L. Greig, in Four-Track News. He had best prepare himself by testing a few days at Interlaken. There he may see forth some fine morning with a jaunty Alpine hat on his head, stout boots on his feet, a feeling of ennui in his heart, and come back minus all three. First he will drive along a perfect road through tiny villages, past rainbow-tinted meadows full of wild flowers, and turbulent little streams. Then the road becomes steeper, and the scenery about him grows savage. The valley below begins to look very far away, the monster snow-capped Alps from above him, and at last he approaches the great glacier of Grindelwald.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know It.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What to Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge as often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50c. and $1. sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail.
