Born—In Coquille, Ore. July 14, 1908, to Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Neathery, a daughter.

The American Athletes at the Olympics in London, commenced capturing prizes right off the reel as usual.

A. Coolidge the Silverton banker who was once interested in Chetco, died at his home July 14th aged 85 years.

Das Anderson has come in from the soldiers home at Roseburg, and is making his annual visit to his relatives and friends.

Mrs. Hume, wife of John Hume, arrived here by Monday's stage, on her way to Wedderburn after having spent several months in San Francisco.

Mr. Towley of Seattle, who is on his way down the coast to Eureka, laid over here Tuesday in order to scratch for agates on Agate Beach in quest of rare gems.

Miss Emma Jensen and Mrs. Clara Pingra, daughters of Mrs. Jensen of Port Orford, and Mr. Daniel Pingra, a son-in-law, are visiting their relatives here.

Rev. J. E. Foreyth, of Roseburg, was in Port Orford Sunday, and will return home up Rogue river via West Fork. We enjoyed a pleasant visit with him.

The Battle Rock Circle had their regular meeting Saturday night, and when they adjourned they marched over to Nielsen's hall and joined a merry crowd of dancers who were practicing there.

Mr. W. Hazleton, a young man lately from Bandon, and working on the cold storage, fills up his weeks work by giving dancing lessons on Saturday nights. He is said to be a boxer handy with his dukes as with his toes.

Franz Nurborg and George Quigley have been cutting match wood on Geo. Curry's place about three miles from town. They deliver it on the wharf, make fair wages and are their own boss which is the best part of any man's wages.

Clifford Crews and Frank Colvin made us a pleasant call Monday on their way to Myrtle Point. Mr. Crews has been down to Crescent City on business and as Mr. Kennedy (Tanbark) went down with him, he had some fun, and Kennedy had some stakes as spoils of their raid.

John Colver and wife were in Port Orford Monday night, where John was cordially greeted by his old friends. Part of his boyhood was spent at Port Orford. He is now a successful merchant of Roseburg doing a good business, and seemed to regret that his visit to the coast had to be so limited.

Hon. John F. Caples, one of our best known and beloved men of Oregon, a profound lawyer, an orator of matchless power, of humane and noble impulses—a warm hearted man richly endowed in many ways, and polished by study, died at his home in Portland July 17th, of paralysis at the ripe age of 76.

It is to be hoped that the game wardens will closely watch the outside parties that come in large crowds to camp and hunt in our mountains. There are often reckless men in such parties that "shoot every thing at sight" and endanger every thing that is not in sight. It is usually this class that shoot their companions, and are far more dangerous than Harry Thaw, who is confined for humanity's sake.

There has been a fine hay crop this year, and the weather has been just right for curing it properly. Hay cut previous to the 1st of July has often been ruined by rain, but there is no risk after the 15th. July is the Hay Month, and it is well to remember it. The risk is great in June, and there is some in August. These brief observations are based upon an experience in this climate for over forty years.

The Enterprise came up Friday from Rogue river on her way to Coos Bay, and as a heavy wind was blowing from the north, she lay here until the wind died down in the evening. Messdames Kate Winsor and Frank Frame, of North Bend and Dickens the wool-buyer came up on her, and having got enough sea-experience on a small boat, they hired a team and resumed their homeward journey by land.

Chief Williams of Long Beach

Calif. has been ordered to look out for, and arrest a woman with a wooden leg. He's puzzled how to find out!

H. C. Allan, of Bandon, spent a few days in town last week looking after the estate of N. B. Neely and wife, both deceased. He is administrator of the estate.

Miss Lizzie Caughell was in town Friday night, having come up with a daughter and son of Chas. Lockwood. They went on to Bandon next day, while Miss Caughell returned to Gold Beach.

Mrs. J. H. Huntley of Gold Beach, and her grand daughter, Miss Fay Tompkins, were in Port Orford Wednesday enroute to North Bend to visit the family of Willis Tompkins, whose wife is Mrs. Huntley's daughter.

The town has been well supplied with strawberries for the last month, and now Mr. Wm. Hurst is bringing in his fine loganberries and raspberries. Wild blackberries are scarce around Port Orford and one has to scratch to get any.

Rapid progress is being made on the foundation of the cold storage plant, considering that part of it is covered by water at high tide. Every evening at six o'clock, from 8 to 10 blasts are shot off, booming like a broadside of cannon—and "booms" are enjoyed by rich and poor alike.

Mr. Hite and his family, also his son and his wife, all of Bandon, camped in Port Orford Monday night, on a long outing down the coast of California, to be gone perhaps a year. They have two rigs that are just right for comfort, and fine horses and intend to have a big rest and enjoy themselves.

L. B. Madden, of Centrick, Idaho a nephew of Cyrus Madden of Sixes river, arrived in Bandon a few days ago and expects to remain here two or three months. He was here in 1891, and wanted to see what changes had taken place. He says there is hardly a thing that he recognizes, as the town and county have made such improvement.—Recorder.

Of the 17 untried land fraud cases where indictments were procured by Henry, it is said that eight will be dismissed, and probably more. It is the intention of the government Atty. Becker to clean up the old land fraud indictments this fall. It is supposed that the "Bristol indictments" will be dealt with when the Henry cases are cleaned up, and some of them will no doubt be dismissed.

The Radium is in error in stating that the socialists had nominated "Convict" Preston for President. The socialists have nominated Eugene Debs. It is the Labor party that nominated Preston, which will make 7 Presidential candidates, with others threatening to run. A late Portland Evening Telegram says: "Preston, the Nevada convict, declined the nomination of President, tendered him by the Socialist Labor party; wherein Preston the convict, manifested marvelous good judgment, as compared with that of the men who nominated him."

Killed By His Companion

A hunting party from Marshfield comprising 4 men and 2 women, camped at Mussel creek 15 miles south of Port Orford. The men went hunting last Saturday just back of the Carey range, and had separated but a short distance in parties of two.—Mr. A. Helming, a fur dealer of Marshfield and a Portland man who travels for engines, forming one party. They had not proceeded far after separating when Mr. Helming who was in advance, told his companion that he saw a deer, and the latter in loading his gun swung it around when it was discharged shooting Helming in such a way that he died almost instantly. He called the other two to his assistance, but it seems as if they did not know what to do, and not until the next day was the body brought to Asa Cary's, when it was put in a spring wagon, and taken to Bandon Sunday night, passing through Port Orford at ten P. M. No inquest was held and legal complications may retard an examination. The fool shootist is sorry of course, but is not entitled to humane sympathy. He will be executed and ought to be executed in some way, not yet provided for lunatics.

Resolutions of Condolence.

Whereas it has pleased our Heavenly Father to call from her earthly labors, the wife of our esteemed and respected neighbor, Jens Sorensen, a loss which Dairyville Camp No. 575 deeply misses. Therefore, be it resolved, that the officers and members of Dairyville Camp No. 575 Woodmen of the World, extend to the sorrowing husband and family their most profound sympathy in his hour of bereavement. May he be comforted by the consoling hope of meeting his loved one in the land beyond; and be it further resolved that our flag and charter be draped in mourning for the period of thirty days, and these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of our Camp and a copy be presented to the husband and also a copy be sent to the nearest paper for publication. J. S. CAPPS, J. A. ENGLEMAN and J. A. COX.

Committee on Resolutions.

Bellingham, Wash., July 9.—While exploring with a party of friends a few days ago, Miss Helen Latch, of Lethbridge, Alberta, fell 1000 ft. over a precipice on Mt. Evelyn, Canada. Her mangled remains have been recovered in the canyon below. The occurrence was due to a snowslide.

Grand Junction, Colo., July 15.—Steve Adams, member of the western Federation of miners, was acquitted of the murder of Arthur Collins this afternoon. Adams' alleged confession of the crime was excluded as evidence by Judge Shackelford and eight witnesses testified to an alibi for the accused man.

Collins, who was manager of the Smuggler Union mine at Telluride Colo. was shot through his window at his office on the night of November 19, 1902, when playing cards with his friends.

(CRESCENT CITY NEWS.)

Miss Minnie Harris of San Francisco, who has been visiting relatives and friends in this and Curry Co. Oregon, was an out going passenger on the last steamer.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Pierce, of Port Orford, Ore., accompanied by their niece, Miss Florence Wilson, were visiting a few days since our last issue with our editor, who is a brother of Mrs. Pierce.

(COOS BAY NEWS)

The annual reunions of members of the G. A. R. and Coos and Curry pioneers will be held at Coquille City on Sept 1st, 2d and 3d.

Miss Monnie Watson, daughter of Judge Watson, of Coos City, died suddenly of heart failure at the family residence on Friday. She had been an invalid for years, but her sudden death was not anticipated and came as a great shock to her relatives and friends. The funeral took place at Marshfield, Saturday, and services were conducted by Rev. W. Horsfall of the Episcopal church.

Is very careful about her churn. She scalds it thoroughly after using, and gives it a sun bath to sweeten it. She knows better than to make a churn out of tin. In the stomach and digestive and nutritive tracts are performed processes which are almost exactly like the churning of butter. It is not apparent then that if this stomach-churn is foul it makes foul all which is put into it?

The evil of a foul stomach is not alone the bad taste in the mouth and the foul breath caused by it, but the corruption of the pure current of blood and the dissemination of disease throughout the body. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes the sour and foul stomach sweet. It does for the stomach what the washing and sun bath do for the churn—absolutely removes every tainting or corrupting element. In this way it cures blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous swellings, sores, or open eating ulcers and all humors or diseases arising from bad blood.

If you have bitter, nasty, foul taste in your mouth, coated tongue, foul breath, are weak and easily tired, feel depressed and despondent, have frequent headaches, dizzy attacks, gnawing or distress in stomach, constipated or irregular bowels, sour stomach, flatulency, and acid eructations, combined in any form, that this is absolutely true will be readily proven to your satisfaction. If you will mail a postal card, requesting the names of all the ingredients entering into his world-famed medicine and showing what the most eminent medical men of the age say of them.

Equal To Dreadnaught.

Washington, July 10.—Another mighty battleship will be added to Uncle Sam's navy tomorrow, when the South Carolina, a sister ship of the New Michigan, will be launched at the Cramps shipyards at Philadelphia.

The South Carolina and Michigan represent the initial attempt of the United States naval officials to construct a type of vessel, the principal object of which is the carrying of as many guns of even calibre as her displacement will permit.

The new ship, like the Michigan has a displacement of 16,000 tons, making it slightly less powerful than the vessels of the British dreadnaught type, which have 17,000 tons. It is alleged by experts however, that the South Carolina will be able to fire as many guns broadside as can be fired from the five turrets of the Dreadnaught.

There is much besides a superficial similarity between Roosevelt and Bryan. Both are sincere, honest and courageous, both are fighting a common enemy in behalf of the common people, but Roosevelt is fighting more blindly than Bryan. He only sees the resultant evil and does not seem to comprehend the underlying cause of the nation's trouble, legislation for special interest, and consequent corruption of national, state and municipal government to secure this special legislation—that the few may pile up fabulous fortunes at the expense of the many.

That Roosevelt realises in a vague sort of way what the nation's trouble is shown by his warfare upon Wall street, the source of national corruption, a vigorous open battle of a clean cut fighter. That he does not fully comprehend it, is shown by his advocacy, while fighting graft of such vicious grafting measures as a ship subsidy, designed to enrich the public treasury a trust he is fighting, and by a high tariff, creator of the criminal rich the denouner: it is shown by fatal compromises in the hour of his victories, like those of the railroad rate bill and beef trust bill that left him the shell but the trusts the kernel; it is shown by countless omissions and commissions that indicate that the president is fighting valiantly, but blindly, though always spectacularly.

That Bryan has a clearer idea of the nation's troubles and the cause of present evils, due to unfair divisions of the products of labor and unequal distributions of the people's earnings is evident from his speeches and from his advocacy of measures far in advance of his party. Bryan believes that government ownership of railroads is the ultimate solution of the railroad problem, though he is willing to give government regulation a fair trial first. He advocated measures 12 years ago that Mr. Roosevelt only picked up recently and adopted as new, showing that both are traveling the same road, but that Bryan years ago passed over the same road that Roosevelt is traveling to day.

Whether the remedies offered by either, and they are not dissimilar, consisting mainly in the restoration of competition, will right matters is problematical. Both are sincere men, both are born preachers and lead the nation to higher ideals, both are head and shoulder above the politicians of their party, and both have the faith, loyalty and love of the common people, who believe them faithful to their interests. The enthusiasm of the multitude for both is unbounded. It is real, it is genuine, while that for Taft, "the designated heir to the throne," is wholly manufactured.

Woman Suffrage.

Jane Adams headed the delegation of women who went to the National Republican Convention in behalf of the National Suffrage Association to ask for a woman suffrage plank on the platform. They did not get it, but their action called attention anew to the fact that some of the women most highly esteemed for their public services and private virtues are asking for the ballot.

The largest demonstration ever made by either men or women to ask for the ballot was made by English women June 21st.

Five hundred thousand of them gathered in London and marched to Hyde Park in seven processions, each about a mile long. Thirty special excursion trains have been run to London from all parts of England to carry the women who wished to take part in the demonstration.

In the procession on June 13th, which was almost as large as the one June 21st, out of compliment to the American Suffragists, Dr. Anna H. Shaw, President of the N. A. W. S. A., and Miss Lucy E. Anthony rode in the first carriage; and Mrs. Catherine Waugh McCulloch, legal adviser of the N. A. W. S. A., Mrs. Ella S. Stewart, President of the Illinois W. S. A., and Dr. Jennie Medley rode in the second carriage. The United States was well represented in both parades.

Mrs. Lucy A. Clark of Utah, the only woman delegate to the Republican Convention, is 58 years old and the mother of 11 children. She brought the picture of eight of them to the convention. Mrs. Susa Young Gates, the other woman who was elected an alternate, is the mother of thirteen. Mrs. Clark is by no means the first woman who has enjoyed the distinction of being a delegate to a National Convention.

In 1900 Mrs. W. H. Jones was sent as a delegate to the National Republican Convention at Philadelphia, and Mrs. Elizabeth Cohen to the Democratic convention in Kansas City. Both were from Utah and served through the sessions. This is the first instance of the kind on record, although women are sent as alternates from Wyoming to the National Republican convention in Minneapolis in 1888.

Where Women May Vote.

Frieda Redel, the suffragist, has compiled the following record of woman's suffrage the world over.

Australia: Women have enjoyed the suffrage since September 19, 1892.

New Zealand: Of 140,000 women over age in New Zealand, 90,000 make use of their votes in the interest of morals, progress and against alcohol.

Great Britain: English women are eligible for the position of aldermen, wardens of the poor, and the right to vote in town and county elections.

Norway: Women paying from $72 to $100 taxes are allowed to vote.

Sweden: Women paying at least $125 taxes are entitled to vote in all communal affairs.

Denmark: women are entitled to vote under the same restrictions as men.

Iceland: Women have been entitled to vote on communal matters since 1882.

Finland: Women are entitled to vote under the same conditions and restrictions as men.

The Netherlands: A bill is giving women active and passive right to vote.

France, Belgium, Austria, Switzerland and Germany: Women are strictly excluded from voting, but in Germany there are signs that the women are preparing to battle for the franchise, while in France, Belgium, Austria and Switzerland nothing of the kind has yet been attempted.

Lincoln's Gettysburg Address.

Four score and ten years ago, our fathers brought forth a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal. Now, we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation—or any nation so conceived and so established—can long endure.

We are now on a great battlefield of that war. We are met to dedicate a portion of it as the final resting place of those who have given their lives that the nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this.

But in a larger sense, we cannot dedicate, we can not consecrate, we can not hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here have consecrated it far above our power to add or to detract. The world will very little note or long remember what we say here; but it can never forget what they did here.

It is for us living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work that they have thus far so nobly carried on. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us; that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that the nation shall under God, have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth.
