WHEN a country becomes civilized it demands typewriters. When in becomes posted on comparative values it demands

THE SMITH PREMIER TYPEWRITER

The fact that The Smith Premier Typewriter is used in every civilized country on the globe is not so important as the further fact that the demand increases year after year.

The reputation of The Smith Premier is world-wide. World-wide use has made it so.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know it.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What to Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50c. and $1. sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail, address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

Copper In Cheese.

The green color of certain kinds of Italian cheese is due to the milk having been kept standing in copper vessels. During this period of repose the milk takes up considerable quantities of copper. Indeed it is customary to estimate the degree of acidity attained by the milk by noting the gradual disappearance of the brightness of the highly polished metallic surface. Dr Mariani examined twenty-five samples of green parmesan cheese from various places and has found that to about every two pounds of cheese there is present from 3.3 to 3.3 grains of copper. —Health.

Inherent Dread of Cats For Dogs.

The instinctive fear which cats have of dogs is illustrated very amusingly by stroking a dog and then caressing a blind and newborn kitten with the same hand that has touched the dog. At once the kitten will spit and puff itself up in the most absurd way, distinguishing the smell of the beast which experience for thousands of generations has taught it most to dread.

Sleeping In Japan.

The Japanese never sleep with the head to the north. This is because the dead in Japan are always buried with the head in that position. In sleeping rooms of many of the private houses and of hotels a diagram of the points of the compass is posted upon the ceiling for the convenience of guests.

In Order of Importance.

"She keeps an immense establishment, doesn't she?"

"Oh, indeed, yes—a head coachman, two footmen, two grooms and a stable boy, a housekeeper, cook, undercook, kitchen maid, upstairs and downstairs maid, governess, husband and child."—Puck.

Gratitude.

Gratitude is the fairest blossom that springs from the soul, and the heart of man knoweth none so fragrant; while its opponent, ingratitude, is a deadly weed, not only poisonous in itself, but impregnating the very atmosphere in which it grows with fetid vapors.

What bright things we all think of when the opportunity is past for saying them!—Atchison Globe.

"I am much heavier than you."

"But, being big and strong, you can climb faster, and that will make it even."

Wishing to cut the matter short and get her out as quickly as possible, I went down to her. The wheel turned slowly with my increased weight, but after I reached her soon became still again. Had she acceded to my pleading to go up at once we would have had little trouble in reaching a safe place, but she saw I was worried and made the most of it by delay. Presently I heard the well known sound of the opening of the floodgate above, and down came the water.

It took some time for the water to overcome our weight and turn the wheel, during which Cecily and I looked at each other appalled, though I am free to confess I was far more terror stricken than she. Then the wheel began to turn slowly, and we were obliged to move with it. Cecily, plucky girl that she was, seeing the necessity of keeping up a stout heart, began to hum. "Tramp, tramp, tramp, the boys are marching!" as though the affair was very funny, while I was thinking of some way to give an alarm. It would be of no use to shout, for the noise of the water would drown my voice, and as it rose beneath us the noise increased. It covered our ankles, then our knees and only ceased to rise when near our hips.

Cecily toiled on beside me while the water deepened and her strength waned, making merry of it all till the last, when she gave me a look which said plainly: "I can go no farther. I'm going to drop." I took her in my arms and tramped on. I was a stout fellow at twenty, but I knew that my strength would give out in time. I cast a despairing glance about for some means to change the situation. Then for the first time I noticed a broken piece of scantling which possibly I might detach and use for a lever to stop the wheel.

"Can you walk on for a few moments, Cecily?" I asked.

"Yes; I have had a good rest."

I put her down and, clinging to the side of the wheel, grasped the scantling. Never before or since have I put forth such force—a force that no man can exert except to save life. The timber yielded, and in another minute I had thrust it through the side of the wheel and rested its end against the edge of a stone wall. The wheel was stopped. Then Cecily came to me, put her arms about me and wept.

In a few moments the miller was looking down upon us to discover what had stopped his wheel. Cecily cried out through her tears, "It takes big fish to stop a mill wheel!"

The astonished man gave her a hand and with me below to help she was soon on the dry platform. I followed, and there came a flood of gratitude that I had been permitted to save myself and Cecily from a horrible death.

I wanted Cecily to visit the old mill with me, but she shuddered and said that the children needed all her time.
