 Editor TRIBUNE:—The types made me write six million last week when I decided to say six million dollars in bonds that Harrison and his "Inner Circle" looted in the name of the Chicago Alton railroad. However, not all proof readers can catch every error. I have been there myself, and know.
 The base ingratitude and inconsistency of the politicians higher up, are made conspicuously manifest in the casting out of Foraker by President Roosevelt and also by candidate Taft as the result of the Hearst exposures, and not apparently because Foraker had been a rascal as well as U. S. Senator, but for the crime of having been found out! This must be inferred from the criticism of the Senator for not having justified ever having received the Standard Oil letters instead of attempting to explain them.

Women Suffrage.
 (By Bill O. Jones)
 "I don't understand you correctly," said the man from Mars. "Did you say that women have no voice in the affairs of the nation?" "Exactly," replied the politician. "That would be a cause for rejoicing were I cause them," observed the Martian. How do the women like to be in that seville position?"
 "They like it all right," answered the politician. "Just a few suffragettes object, and they are easily failed; while so far as a revolution is concerned even the daughters of the American Revolution refuse to support the suffragettes."
 "Of course the reason for this undoubtedly is that the women are of inferior mental and moral caliber to the men."
 "Oh, no," explained the politician. "It is because they are so much superior."
 "That seems rather illogical. It is hard to believe that superior beings should submit to being ruled by inferior beings."
 "Yes, but don't you see," objected the politician. "If women got in to politics they would become inferior."
 "Would they?" said the man from Mars. "Then by the same sign, if the men got out of politics they would become superior, I suppose. If I were a man I wouldn't object to that."
 "Yes, but we love our women."
 "I don't follow your logic at all," said the man from Mars.
 "What's logic?" asked the politician, with awakening interest. "Is there any money in it?"

A Metaphor Exhibit.
 The livestock show industry. A million has been set in the development of Oregon. A transformation of developing endeavor and a change in its direction has been given impetus. Some of the lines that held us to our ancient moorings have been shattered, and as a state we are ready to sail in a swifter sea. Figuratively, there are the product of what has transpired the past week at the splendid grounds of the Country Club.
 It takes more than packing houses to promote to its utmost development the livestock industry. It takes the grandstand attachment. The spectacular must be invoked. The man who is to give us the raw material for the pack must be brought in contact with a perfect type. He must see a better animal than he ever saw before. Razor backed hags won't feed a packing-house industry. Long-horned cattle won't do it. Long legged and slim-bodied sheep won't do it. Not only will they not feed the omnivorous man of the packing-house, but they will not pay the farmer for their keep. It is the grade and the full-blood that will give the producer his profit. The great smooth carcass, the curved lines of contour, the plump, rotund surface that interests and charms alike the eye of the artist or the stockman—these are the avenue to a successful packing house industry and to a rich husbandry.
 At the grandstand, in the limelight, under the glamour of the spectacular, that is the place where the stockman sees the type that charms him and inspires him to produce another like it. There he matches his prize animal against another's and sees it win or lose. He and his competitors compare notes and study each other's breeds and methods. They exchange ideas on foods, care and environments. From morning until night all the past week groups and knots of these stockmen and farmers have crowded the livestock pens in exactly this study of each other's plans and practices. Pictured in the mind of each is a beautiful type. Stored in the memory of each are rules and methods by which that animal was produced. In the soul of each there is a grim determination to match this creature and beat it if he can. With this rushing, surging purpose spread by the great meeting of this week at the Country Club to the furthest parts of Oregon, what will the meeting mean but a new milestone in Oregon's development, a new impetus for Oregon endeavor, a new impetus for Oregon thrift?—Journal.

William Vanderbilt and party of railroad magnates, the richest aggregation of men that have visited this coast in many a year, have been spending a few days in Oregon, Washington and California, and it is reported that Mr. Vanderbilt is contemplating the building of a coast railroad. Similar reports have been going the rounds so long that now they hardly cause a ripple of expectancy, yet the first train will bring with it a new era of prosperity for this country, and, while it makes little difference as to the color of the man you are held up by, Vanderbilt is preferred to Harrison.

In the case of Governor Haskell, Bryan's campaign treasurer, exposed by Hearst, the accused stood pat with a flat denial, which might have availed him if Hearst had not come back with conclusive records. The case was different as to Foraker, for Archibald stood ready to deny ever having written the incriminating letters read by Hearst if Foraker had not stupidly essayed to explain what the two payments to him aggregating $29,500 was for.

New York, Sept. 26.—The Peary Arctic club tonight received a dispatch from Commander Robert E. Peary, who sailed from here in July on the steamer Roosevelt in another attempt to reach the north pole. The dispatch is dated Etah, North Greenland, August 17, and says: "Arrived Cape York July 31. Roosevelt went to Etah to overhaul and trim for the ice. With steamer Erik visited Eskimo settlement to secure Eskimo dogs and material for equipment. Thirty-five walrus killed by party."
 "Rejoined Roosevelt at Etah with Erik August 11. Coaled Roosevelt from Erik. Landed coal and supplies for relief of Cook, who had not yet returned. Put two men in charge and sent Cook's companion home disabled. Whitney will remain through the winter to hunt muck oxen and bear. Unusually stormy season but no ice yet. Snowing furiously now—plenty of it. From Littleton Island and Sabine north all depends on ice conditions. Have good supply of Eskimo dogs and walrus meat. All well on board. Expect to steam north sometime tonight."
 A second dispatch, forwarded by the same route, was also received by Secretary Brigeman of the same club from Captain Samuel W. Bartlett, telling of the steamer Erik having collided with an iceberg and sustaining serious damage. Captain Bartlett also reports that Peary's steamer Roosevelt left Etah August 17.
 Commander Peary's daughter, Marie, a pretty young woman known as the "snow baby," was born on her father's first polar trip and thus gained the distinction of having been born nearer the pole than any other white child. Lieutenant Peary has written to his New York friends that he hopes now to celebrate his birthday by reaching the pole. Mrs. Peary looks upon this as a pleasing conceit of the lieutenant's, but nevertheless believes that he will be successful.

The Missouri River Valley is one of the most successful hog sections of the United States, and corn has always been the basis of this industry. Today one of the most popular stock-fattening foods in the Missouri River region is a mixture of alfalfa meal and sugar beet pulp which is produced in Colorado. Advice recently received from that state show that numerous new mills are being erected, and certainly the Pacific Northwest should give this industry every possible encouragement, and this is particularly true since the great international concerns like Swift & Company and others have decided to locate upon the Pacific Coast, and they are now spending millions of dollars in building their plants at Portland. A good reliable fattening food equal to corn would make this section of the United States the very richest portion of our great Republic.

Despite the strenuous and at times unseemly fight of the State Bosses against Governor Hughes, he was renominated by the New York State Republican Convention. The Common, Plain People did some talking with their mouths, although none were permitted to occupy seats in the convention.
 One of the old standby bosses a Mr. Barnes up at Albany, in the efforts to drive the convention his way despite the singular clamor for Hughes, said:
 "You will accomplish your own destruction by nominating Hughes as he is bent upon forcing a direct nominating law through the legislature. This plan if effected, will wipe out all of the political leaders and make them nonentities."

It was the "political leaders" who forced Platt and DePew on the people as U. S. Senators to the everlasting reproach of the nation, and it is such "political leaders" as Harvey Scott and C. W. Fulton who would, for selfish reasons alone, nullify Oregon's splendid Direct Nomination law.
 The Myrtle Point Enterprise argues that, although Taft and Bryan stand for about the same thing, yet since both Houses of Congress are Republican, Taft ought to be elected, so that the Executive and Legislative Departments of the Government may work harmoniously! The Enterprise loses sight of the fact that the election of Bryan will carry with it a Democratic majority in the lower House.
 A late Women's Club Convention in a witty mood, passed the following resolutions:
 "We believe that it is better to practice than to preach, and since Mr. Bryan is a grandfather and Mr. Roosevelt is not, it is time for the great 'race suicide' preacher to retire."

27 a Day Killed and Hurt in Mines
 Washington, Sept. 28.—Accidents in coal mines of the United States during the last calendar year resulted in the death of 3412, and injury to 5314 more, according to statistics just made public by the Geological Survey. The death record among the coal miners during the year was greater by 1033 than in 1906, and is said to have been the worst year in the history of the coal mining industry. The figures do not represent the full extent of the disasters, as reports were not received from certain states not having mine inspectors.
 Statistics do not bear out the idea that most mine disasters result from explosions. Of the total number reported during the last year 947 deaths and 343 injuries resulted from gas and dust explosions and 201 deaths and 416 injuries were caused by powder explosions. The chief cause of death among the miners, the report explains, was due to the falling of mine roofs and coal. Such disaster caused 1129 deaths and 2141 injuries.
 E. W. Parker, chief statistician of the survey, asserts that much benefit will result from the action of Congress in appropriating $150,000 to investigate mine disasters and take steps to decrease the number of accidents each year. He says one of the greatest needs of the coal mining industry is the enforcement of military discipline in the operation of mines.

Timber Claims
 I will consider the purchase of fir, cedar or pine timber claims, located in Townships 33 to 41 South, Ranges 13 to 14 and 15 West of the Willamette Meridian, offered for sale by the original locators.

 The Catholic Church is opposed to Socialism, not because of the "red flag," of course, since its Cardinals wear red hats, and its prelates march decked out with red sashes.
 Now and again we hear of a child straying away and becoming lost, and the employment of blood hounds to trail and find it. Harriet Beecher Stowe's story of slaves being run down and torn into shreds by savage and relentless blood hounds was long believed by many and is probably believed by some, whereas in fact and truth these animals are as harmless as kittens. Their remarkable powers of scent put them in a class by themselves in the canine family.
