

PAVES AND FLOURS.
Australia's exports of wool to the United States have doubled within a year.
The total number of passengers carried by electric lines each year in the United States is 5,536,000,000.
The recent birth rate for St. George's in the East, London, the headquarters of the alien invasion, is at the rate of 60.3 per 1,000. This is the highest birth rate ever recorded in England.
In spite of the many jokes that are made at the expense of the Georgia peach crop, that state produced more peaches than any of the eastern states. It is said that there are over 7,000,000 trees that bear peaches in the state.
Sealskins to the number of 2,115 were shipped from Alaska last season. An industry pursued incidentally with that of sealing on the Pribiloff islands that of raising the blue fox for its pelt. These animals, under the system in use, are fed and cared for as if domesticated.
It is said that the biggest shell ever made was turned out by the Krupp people at Essen, Germany. It was made for Russia, and weighed 2,600 pounds. The gun which is large enough to use this shell is mounted on the fortifications at Cronstadt, and has a range of 12 miles. Each time that it is fired it costs the czar $1,000.
In the last nine years 51,000 motors have been registered in England. Of these 3,500 have been used for commercial purposes. The motor-wagon users have formed an association and it has issued a circular in which it is urged that commercial automobilism, if general, would reduce the cost of keeping up the roads and streets, lessen the blocking of the streets by congested traffic and make them less dangerous to pedestrians.
The 5,353 firms of brewers in the United Kingdom last year brewed 26,064,657 barrels of beer, and upon this they paid £13,552,533 in duty to the national exchequer. According to a parliamentary return there is only one firm of brewers which has an annual output of over 2,000,000 barrels. This firm alone used 6,292,262 pounds of hops and 4,359,718 bushels of malt, while its payment in duty amounted to £232,614 1 shilling and 6 pence.

OLD-WORLD ODDITIES.
Although roasted whole for 12 hours over coals, a bullock, cut up and distributed among 500 poor people at Sunderland, was found to be still uncooked.
During the hearing of a case at Highgate police court it was stated that 12 persons were living free of rent in Sydney Road, Hornsey, because no landlord ever called to collect it.
Among the converts made in London by Torrey and Alexander was a well-known "musical entertainer," Quenton Ashlyn, who has decided that he cannot conscientiously continue in his profession.
"An aged Korean councillor of state, who is a strong reformer, Mr. Choh Ik Yen, has been sitting outside the palace gate at Seoul for five days," says a Japanese newspaper. "He proposes to sit there until the needed reforms are carried out."
Life saving runs in the family of Mr. J. Parsons, a young lighterman, of the Hollis, Bedford, England, who, on his twenty-third birthday, received the Royal Humane society's certificate for rescuing two boys from drowning. His father saved 48 persons from drowning, and the son now has a total of 23 lives to his credit.
A short time ago, at Camberwell (Eng.) registry office, a well dressed old gentleman, wearing a Panama hat, and who gave his age as 75, was married to a young girl who has just passed her seventeenth year. After the ceremony a son of the old gentleman, who will be 10 in a few days, went through the form of marriage with a lady who is in her sixty-eighth year. Leaving the office together, both the happy couples entered a motor car that was in waiting and drove away.

BITS BY THE BARGE.
"Are you going to the circus, Willie?" asked the visitor.
"I s'pose I'll have to," replied the little fellow. "Papa wants to go and I'm the only excuse he's got."
Mamma—Why, Johnny, is it possible you are in the jam again after I whipped you an hour ago for getting into it?
Johnny—Yes, ma'am. I heard you told grandma you had whipped me too hard, so I thought I'd make it even.
School Teacher—"Children, can any of you frame a sentence with the words 'bitter end' in it?" Little Girl (in front)—"Yes, teacher, please, you can." Teacher—"All right, Nellie, you may do so." Nellie—"Our big black dog chased our neighbor's cat and bit her end."
"When a certain well known humorist first started newspaper work, he took a house near Cincinnati, and one day an actor friend went to dinner with him. The humorist told some new stories, and the actor, turning to his host's little girl, said:
"Clever papa you've got, my dear."
"Yes," responded the demure little miss, "when there's company."
Her parents had told a certain little girl that it was very rude to contradict, therefore, with great conscientiousness, but one day a half-jesting accusation, made against her by some unsuspecting member of the grown-up part of the household, nearly made her fall from a state of grace. Luckily, her imagination supplied her with a compromise in a voice trembling with tears and passion, she gasped out: "I really think you are mistaken—you—your heart!"

TWO ANCIENT SWORDS
JAP BLADES 500 YEARS OLD OWNED BY FILIPINE

Philadelphia Minister Brings Weapons of Exquisite Make from the Orient—History of Art Among Insular People.
Philadelphia. — A collection of swords, some of which are more than five centuries old, has recently been brought to this city by Rev. Henry M. Landis. They were selected and purchased by him during his 18 years residence in Tokio. In that time he became quite a student of the history of Japanese swordmaking.
"For more than 1,000 years the art of swordmaking," he said, "has been held in the highest national esteem among the people who are now warring with Russia. As we study and cherish the history of English letters, so do the Japanese value the history and worth of their swordmakers. The fame of Amakuni I., or Masamune among the people there equals that of Shakespeare among ourselves. So it might also be said that Kunisada, Murasama and Kunitada correspond in Japanese importance to Milton, Tennyson and Wordsworth."
"Some noted professors can pick out any one of a thousand weapons and tell almost at a glance who made it and in what generation. They maintain that each blade has a different style, quality and expression, which mark it as an individual."
Not only among men was the art of defense and all pertaining to it practiced and honored. In the history of Japan the first recorded war with a foreign country took place in the time of the famous Empress Jingo, who ruled the islands from 1192 to 1224 A. D. She herself commanded the army, crossed the channel and conquered the peninsula of Korea, at that time called Sankon. Tomoye Gozen was another great woman general, who reigned during the illustrious war of the thirteenth century.
In modern days, after Japan had opened communication with Europe and America, a fierce civil war took place between the conservative and the progressive parties. When the men of the conservatives had been defeated, their wives and daughters took up their weapons and tried to repel the attacks of the invading progressives. At present the laws do not allow women to take any part in actual warfare.
There are several fine collections of Japanese arms in this country, to one of which the swords gathered by Mr. Landis will probably go. Some of these famous weapons are 15 feet long, some as small as 10. In the foot of a samurai lady's girle. Some blades are short and straight, some broad and curved like sabers and others are made after the modern fashions.
The celebrated blades of Damascus and Toledo were no more keen than are these tempered edges. To cut a broad nail cleanly in two without nicking its own surface was the test of a good sword in the days of old Japan. In Mr. Landis' collection is one weapon that was welded in the year Columbus discovered America. Others even older have the dates of 1324, 1376 and 1385 A. D. They are in a state of perfect preservation. What is known as the wavy wedding now a lost art, is perfectly shown. Most of the swords are sheathed in scabbards of wood, carved and lacquered and wonderfully linalid.
As has been said, Masamune was one of the oldest, best and most famous swordmakers. Few of his weapons are now known to be in existence. One is in the imperial treasury of Japan. Of Amakuni's blades, none are known to be in existence at present. In Mr. Landis' collection is one of Masamune. It was made in the Bunwa period, about 1352, and is a beautiful example of the wavy wedding art.
