Good progress is being made on the Associated filling station and harness shop being erected for L. L. Hatton of Myrtle Point. A crew of four men is working to have it ready to measure out the jitney juice by the first of June.

"And that's a very good sign of the Good Old Summertime"—ice cream, confectionery and cold drinks is artistically labeled on a new sign-board placed in the front of the Blue-Bird. CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORERS HAVE ENJOYABLE PARTY

As a contest to interest the young people in the Christian Endeavor it was proposed that they give a beach party in honor of the one bringing the most new members. Ellmore Purdin and George Porter were obliged to share the honor, having tied in the number of introduced members. The beach party, which was held last Wednesday at the Agate Beach Auto park proved a very successful event. The chaperones were: Mrs. Ponting, Mrs. Porter, Mrs. Carter and Mrs. Dean.

Every one deeply regretted the absence of Rev. and Mrs. W. S. Smith and Mrs. Oerding, who were not able to be present.

Nearly every one who was invited was present. We are certain all the members of the Christian Endeavor were present. One in particular, whose presence was felt rather than seen. After eating a number of wienies and heaps of marshmallows. Everybody went home about 9:30 or 10 o'clock.

HOME POINTERS

(From O. A. C. School of Home Economics, Corvallis).

The gears of a Dover egg beater cleaned with a little alcohol rather than oil prevents black "smudges." Excess juice saved from canned fruit is used as sauce for puddings. Onions boiled with cabbage or cauliflower have very little odor.

Wire baskets such as used for holding letters in offices are excellent for vegetables in the pantry.

An asbestos mat makes an ideal toaster. Bread may also be toasted on the hot surface of a skillet.

Paper bags that groceries come in, placed in the garbage pail, save time in cleaning the pail.

Salt placed in the oven under baking tins prevents scorching food on the bottom.

Canned goods opened several hours before they are used taste more fresh.

The use of scissors in preparing lettuce and in cutting sandwiches saves time.

Eggs pricked at the big end with a pin before boiling prevent cracking.

Painting the lower cellar stair white avoids fear of misstep.

Piano keys cleansed with a cloth dipped in alcohol keeps them white. If the cloth comes in contact with the varnish, it removes it.

Birds Devour Pests

The Department of Agriculture says that our birds will eat the pest known to scientists as the Japanese beetle, and are counted upon as a natural check to its depredations. The purple grackle has proven to be the most important bird enemy, two-thirds of its diet consisting of Japanese beetles in neighborhoods infested with the pest.

Highest of All Ideals

The human ideal will be the desire to transform life into something better and grander than itself.—Charles Wagner.

KNOWING ONE'S SELF

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

"I'D LIKE nothing better," Rust said to me when we were boys a good many years ago, "than to be able to run a farm of my own; I know I could make money," and he launched into a narrative of detail in an endeavor to prove to me just what, in such a case, he was sure he could accomplish. Even with my boyish inexperience, I felt that Rust's plans were chimerical, and I entertained the gravest doubts as to his being able to carry them out if he were given the chance. He has had a farm to manage, lot these years, but he is still a poor man. It is a valuable asset, and a rare one. I sometimes think, for a man to be able adequately and justly to estimate his own strength and his own weakness, to know what he can do best, and to know also, what his limitations are.

A wise old man whom I once knew used to say in speaking of the somewhat difficult and treacherous game of poker with which he had considerable practice, "if a man does not know the cards, he ought not to play the game." I am sure that many men whom I have observed in the game of life have had a very faulty appreciation of the value of the cards which they were holding in their hands, and sometimes threw away their ace and were disappointed when they did not take the trick with a two-spot.

When I was engaged in the teaching of composition and an eager boy came to me at the beginning of the semester with the statement, "I know I am going to manage your course all right, because composition has always been my easiest subject." I knew almost to a certainty that I had struck a man who could not spell, who had no knowledge of even the elements of grammar, and whose literary possibilities were pretty hopeless.

Powers was a good illustration of the man who did not know himself. He was an unusually dramatic and magnetic speaker; he had an excellent brain, good training, and an attractive physique. He was deeply and sincerely religious and possessed one of the most winning personalities I have ever known. As a preacher he could have had any crowd at his feet. He was obsessed, however, with the idea of being a business man; yet every business which he touched collapsed under his hand. He began life with a modest fortune, but at fifty it was gone; he had sunk it all in first one visionary scheme and then another; but he still kept on, convinced that ultimately he would make his fortune.

There are reasons, I have no doubt, why few of us know ourselves less well than we should. We all hate criticism; we take advice unwillingly. We attempt the things that we want very much to be able to do without considering seriously how well fitted we are for the accomplishment of these things. We listen to the flatterer with a more willing ear than to the candid friend who sometimes not very kindly points out to us the faults we are loath to admit.

STATE SUPREME COURT MORE THAN YEAR BEHIND IN ITS WORK

In a statement made before the judicial council of Oregon in Portland last week, Chief Justice Thomas M. W. McBride of the supreme court, declared that the supreme court is 14 months behind in its work, although its members work day and night to keep up.

Briefs that contain up to 5000 pages of undigested stuff, objections repeated up to 150 times with no more than statutory reasons and other conditions, he submitted constitute a "disease on the body of the judiciary chiefly in the hands of lawyers to correct.

Several attorneys opposed the proposal to adopt for the state circuit court's the practice used in federal courts of having the judge, instead of attorneys, question the prospective jurors.

Immense Statue

J. W. McSpadden in his book on American sculptors says that to carve such a huge figure as the statue of Lincoln in the Lincoln memorial from a single block would be impossible. Twenty-eight blocks of Georgia marble, perfect and without fissures or seams, were used in creating this statue. The total mass measured over 4000 cubic feet. The statue weighs 270 tons.

A GREAT TEACHER

ADVERTISING conducts a public school. Its pupils are all the readers of the home paper—in short, the whole buying community.

ADVERTISING teaches that loyalty to the home merchant brings real returns in better service and better values. It's a lesson that requires the repetition afforded by the weekly arrival in the home of The Tribune.

You can teach the public to rely on your Advertisements as safe guides to economy and satisfaction in shopping. Moreover, people appreciate being asked for their patronage.
