Portland Is to Continue Development Campaign Two Years

So satisfied is the Portland Chamber of Commerce with the results attained from the expenditure of $300,000 in the Oregon Development campaign launched two years ago that it will raise another $250,000 to aid in land settlement, co-operative marketing and tourist travel for the next two years. President R. L. Macleay has been empowered to appoint a board of trustees to have supervision over the expenditure of this sum.

NEW LAW PROVIDES FOR MEDICAL INSPECTION OF GRAMMAR SCHOOL

Plans of putting into effect the Woodward law providing for medical inspection of all grammar school pupils in the state, by their teachers, were discussed at a conference at which Superintendent of Instruction Churchill, Dr. Frederick D. Stricker, state health officer; Dr. John G. Abele, city health officer; William F. Woodward, father of the law; Mrs. Soidie Orr Dunbar and Dr. Helen Carey of the city school division were present, in Portland.

A form for the teachers to fill out was agreed upon. All personal information such as the condition of the children's clothing, home life, etc., are eliminated.

The teachers are instructed to call attention to the parents of apparent ill's from which children are suffering and to keep a record of treatment for such ill's.

If parents do not desire such pedagogical diagnosis it will be dropped upon presentation of a written request.

The records of each child will be kept on file from the time he enters the first grade until he finishes the elementary course.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MEETING TUESDAY, JUNE 9

Every business man and citizen of Port Orford is urged to keep in mind the next meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, Tuesday night, June 9, at which time arrangements will be completed for taking care of the state convention of United Veterans of Wars in July, and also to attend to matters of importance concerning Port Orford's future. Your presence is needed, and as a loyal citizen you should make it a point to be at this meeting.

The Smartly Styled "Prince of Wales" Coat

The acid test of the tailor's art comes when he is called upon to inject smart style into our everyday, work-a-day, utility clothes. It is done all the time—in the plainest suits and in top coats that must depend upon craftsmanship alone to place them above the commonplace. For these sturdy materials, long familiar and dependable, are chosen—tweeds, home spins and the like, that anyone may have. It is a subtle art that converts them into noteworthy garments, like the "prince of Wales" top-coat, pictured here. It is double-breasted and fastens below the waistline with bone buttons—it has a half-belt, across the back and slanting pockets—all common to many coats. Its lines and adjustment to the figure and its faultless workmanship contribute the distinction that makes it popular.

At the North Pole

The North pole, recognized as the northern extremity of the earth, is in the midst of a hollow which holds no land in the neighborhood of the pole itself. The most northerly lands possess animal life—musk-ox, reindeer, polar bear, wolf, fox, ermine, land birds, as well as insect life, and during a few short weeks in summer, brilliant flowers. Human life is found within some 700 miles of the North pole.

WANN FAMILY TO GO TO ALASKA FOR TIME

With the prospects that there will be little or no county work demanding the attention of the county surveyor during the next few months, E. Fred Wann, of Port Orford, who holds that position by reason of his election to the office last fall, has been granted a leave of absence, and, accompanied by his family, left today for Portland on his way to Alaska for which country they will sail from Seattle on Friday. Mr. Wann received word a few days ago from the federal bureau of public roads that his services could be used and were much desired in the northern country for the next four months. Alaska is nothing new to Mr. Wann as he spent 12 years there, only returning to the United States a little over a year ago, when he located in Port Orford. Mr. and Mrs. Wann will be missed greatly here as they are untiring workers for the good of the community. Mr. Wann is president of the Chamber of Commerce, and Mrs. Wann is president of the Ladies' Aid. The community will welcome them upon their return.

Upon hearing the news of the Wann's coming departure for the northern country a number of their friends met them at the Larson home Sunday noon and all had dinner together. Mr. Wann will resume his duties here as county surveyor not later than October 1st.

AMES JOHNSTON TO SELL PLACE—ANOTHER AUTO PARK

While the actual transfer has not been closed, still it is understood that the deal has progressed so far that there is little likelihood of any "back-down" in the sale of the Ames Johnston place to Frank McIntyre of Cottage Grove. The property, just in the north edge of Port Orford, consists of a substantial dwelling and five acres of land. It is reported that Mr. McIntyre, who will be accompanied by his sister, will come to Port Orford and open an auto park. Mr. Johnston has been holding his place at $4,000. It is Mr. Johnston's intention to permanently remove from Port Orford as soon as the transfer is made, which news will be regretted by his many friends, made during his residence of the past quarter of a century.

KILLER SHARKS ARE BECOMING QUITE HUNGRY

Killer sharks are again making their appearance in the Port Orford harbor, and the nerves of some of the fishermen are quivering as a result, as was evidenced last Sunday, when C. C. Ponting and his three sons encountered one just outside the harbor water a short distance. The shark, evidently hungry for human meat followed the Ponting boat for a distance of a quarter of a mile until it neared Graveyard Point, when the fish disappeared. Such sharks have been seen on various occasions around the cove, but this is the first in some time past.

LOCAL PEOPLE CONFER WITH AND HEAR BISHOP

For the purpose of getting first-hand information concerning the disposal or transfer of the Methodist church parsonage in Port Orford a trip by several local church people was made to Bandon Sunday evening to confer with Bishop W. O. Shepherd of the Portland area of the M. E. church, and to hear the sermon by the learned divine. In the party were Henry Adolphson, David McKenzie, Mrs. Fred Wann, Mrs. Ella Wann and John F. Gillings.

FAREWELL PARTY FOR MRS. KARL DURBIN

A farewell party was given at the home of Mrs. J. F. Carter Friday, honoring Mrs. Karl Durbin, who has moved to Bandon. The tea table was daintily arranged and covers were laid for Mesdames Smith, Durbin, Dieterich, Mattoon and Carter. Mrs. Durbin has made many friends on her stay here and all had admired her beautiful paintings of the beaches and highway.

BENNETT AND HUMBUG MT. (Morning Oregonian.)

Jutting out of the ocean on the coast of Curry county is Humbug mountain. It is probably 1200 feet high and the waves of the Pacific lash at the base. This mountain is owned by Thomas T. Bennett, lawyer of Coos bay, who is at the Imperial. Friends joke Mr. Bennett about Humbug mountain and say that he bought it for a lighthouse site to run opposition to the lighthouse at Cape Blanco, and get all the Blanco business. If Humbug mountain is good for anything aside from its possibilities as a base for lighthouse, no one has discovered its possibilities.
