THE ENLARGED SPOKESMAN

The columns of a newspaper are an index to the character and prosperity of the town or city in which it is published.

If the columns of the paper are filled with live, up to date advertisements of the business men in the town the paper truthfully gives the impression that that town or city is on the map and the business men are a bunch of live wires, working to the end to make their town a commercial center.

Such a town is Redmond. A glance through the advertising columns of The Spokesman will show that all classes of business are represented.

The news columns will convince the reader that there is something doing here all the time in the way of building and other improvements.

It is not a mushroom growth, either, for the agricultural section has kept pace with the city in settlement, and Redmond has a good solid foundation behind her.

These conditions, together with the fact that property prices for both city and country realty are reasonable and within the reach of persons of limited means, has made Redmond what she is today and will continue to be the potent factor that will, in a few years, make the city the most important in Central Oregon.

The Spokesman will at all times keep pace with the growth and progress of the city and give to its readers reliable news of this section that will interest them.

R. H. BAYLEY FOR COMMISSIONER

The Spokesman is informed that R. H. Bayley the present county commissioner from this district, at the earnest solicitation of his friends, has decided to be a candidate for re-election.

Since serving the county as commissioner Mr. Bayley has, as far as The Spokesman can learn, filled the office acceptably. He has built a number of roads and bridges, and all of them good ones, too, for Mr. Bayley believes that if a thing is worth doing it is worth doing well.

As county commissioner Mr. Bayley seems to be the right man in the right place.

O. T. LINE GOING RIGHT AHEAD

President Stevens of the Oregon Trunk Line that is building into this section, recently stated there would be no let up on construction work until the road was completed. Hill and Stevens have great faith in the future of Central Oregon and will build their roads into that portion of the state as rapidly as possible so as to bring in a good class of colonists and settle them upon the vacant lands. While other roads are retrenching the Hill people are going right ahead with development work.

REGISTER! DO IT TODAY

Do not neglect to register. It is particularly important that every voter in the city of Redmond and in the precincts in the Redmond District should vote at the coming November election and they cannot do so unless they register before September 14th. No matter how many times you have registered before you must register again this year. The registration books are now open at Judge Wilcox's office for the city of Redmond and the Redmond precinct.

The good news that the affairs of the Deschutes Irrigation & Power Co. are to be reorganized and placed on a sound financial basis will be hailed with delight by the people in this section. The reorganization of the company means a great deal in the settling up of this section.

If those outside people who are circulating stories to the effect that all railroad work in the vicinity of Redmond had ceased could hear the blasting being done on the railroad right of way around here these days they would change their minds.

When a person invests in Redmond real estate or in land in the Redmond District they are making no mistake. Such investments are better than money in the bank.

What better evidence of prosperity can a person ask for than to see all kinds of building activity in a town. That is what obtains in Redmond today.

The wise, far seeing man realizes that property values in Redmond are none too high at the present time.

Redmond needs a suitable public hall or opera house. Who will be the one to fill this need?

TUMALO

(Received too late for last week.) Much lumber is being hauled from the old Hightower & Smith mill to Bend, through this place.

The Spoo & Burkhart mill at Gist is doing a good business. The mill has a ready market for all the lumber turned out.

There is much travel through here now from points in the Willamette Valley. Most of the people coming through are interested in looking for locations and ascertaining land values.

Geo. W. Wimer and sons, Ira E. Wimer and Chas. H. Spaugb are going to order a Lightning

Hay Press to bale their large hay crop this year with. These men have several hundred tons to bale, and they expect to receive a good price for their crop, much better than last year as the demand will be greater.

C. O. Henkle, a Bend real estate dealer, has been in this section recently looking the country over and listing lands.

Geo. W. Wimer and sons are busy cutting and putting up their Mammoth Red Clover crop. They have 40 acres, and much of it will make from 3 1/2 to 4 tons to the acre. They land plastered their clover land. They also will get a bumper crop of red clover and alfalfa.

P. A. Woolley is cutting a fine crop of hay.

Ira E. Wimer and Charley Spaugb report a bumper crop. In fact, all crops in this section will yield remarkably well this season.
