I WILL TRY HIS PLAN

"I've been thinking over what the foreman told me about his way of saving money. I have resolved to give it a trial when I next get my pay.

"This 'hand-to-mouth' existence is too much of a risk for me to carry. If I should be taken sick or accidentally hurt and laid off, I would not only run into debt but be an expense and burden to my friends.

"I believe I can save several dollars every month. Now! to figure just what are my living expenses".

Promiscuous Shooting

Promiscuous shooting in the northern part of the city is still going on, but it seems impossible to locate the persons responsible.

One day last week while Mrs. J. C. Williams, who lives on the corner of 10th and A streets, and a neighbor were talking together in the yard, a bullet from a rifle whizzed over their heads. The shot came, as near as could be ascertained, from the northeastern part of Ellinger's Addition. Several times this spring and summer shot from shot gun shells have struck tent houses on A street.

The police have tried to locate these irresponsible handlers of fire arms, but so far have not succeeded. It is time they were rounded up with a short turn before some one is injured by their careless shooting.

Can you imagine what your store would have been like NOW if you had never advertised? And then—can you imagine how much greater it would be now if you had advertised FIVE TIMES AS MUCH.

Should Keep Money Here

Hogs are being shipped to Portland from Missouri and other middle western states, and bringing the top market price. This state, and particularly this section, should furnish the Portland market with all the hogs needed, and the sooner the farmers and ranchers get wise to the fact that hog raising is the one best industry in this section, the sooner will they be making good, easy money.

Devote a good deal of thought and time to your store window displays. And then devote about one hundred times as much to your newspaper advertising—and your store will be a good definition of the word "prosperity"

An Air of Welcome

People coming to Redmond at once notice the air of welcome with which they are greeted, and which prevades the city.

They compare their reception here with what they have met in some other places, with the result that Redmond stands out as a green spot in their memory.

It has frequently been mentioned to The Spokesman by strangers arriving here, that the Redmond people have tried to make them welcome irrespective of whether they intended to buy land, or other property, or to locate.

It seems to be the spirit of good fellowship that prevails among all classes that is responsible for this condition of affairs.

Such a spirit is a mighty good asset for a town to have.

Those who generally holler the loudest about "tainted money", make no bones about taking all of it that comes their way.

If there is any good reason why you should visit a store, the store advertisements will tell you what it is.

One thing that will appeal to new comers coming into Redmond, and that is, the clean appearance of the city.

It begins to look from the market reports that potatoes are going to be high the coming winter. The person who has a good field of potatoes will be certain of getting enough money to buy Christmas presents with.

Compare your store ads with the other man's. Are they as much better than his as your store is better than his?

The Spokesman is in receipt of a copy of the Oregon Blue Book that has been compiled and published by Secretary of State Ben W. Olcott. The book is valuable for ready reference and contains much information relative to the state, its industries, resources, etc.

It will pay you to neglect entirely those stores whose managers think that it pays them to entirely neglect YOU—those stores that do not advertise.

Just Dissolved.

"So you broke your engagement with Miss Spensive?"

"No, I didn't break it."

"Oh, she broke it?"

"No, she didn't break it."

"But it is broken?"

"Yes. She told me what her clothing cost and I told her what my income was; then our engagement sagged in the middle and gently dissolved."—Houston Post.

In a Bad Way.

The physician had taken his patient's pulse and temperature and proceeded to ask the usual questions.

"It—er—seems," said he, regarding the unfortunate with scientific interest, "that the attacks of fever and the chills appear on alternate days. Do you think—is it your opinion—that they have, so to speak, decreased in violence, if I may use that word?"

The patient smiled feebly. "Doc," said he, "on fever days my head's so hot I can't think, and on ague days I shake so I can't hold an opinion."—Lippincott's.

The Dissyllabic Scot.

The difficulty of rhyming to "girl" is mainly due to the varieties of its pronunciation. It is never pronounced, as it is so often conventionally written, "gall," but one often hears "gell," with a hard "g."

Moreover, in Scotland, though it is as well not to mention the fact to a Scotsman, it consists of two syllables—"gurrel." The other day it was pointed out to a Scotsman that the name of his national poet was a dissyllable in Ayreshire. "Hoot awa!" he said, or words to that effect. "Burrns two syllables! Absurrud!"—London Chronicle.
