

Our February
CUT PRICE SALE

Beginning Saturday, February 3d we will cut the prices on the following goods. All our dress gingham 12½ and 15c quality will be closed out for 10c per yard. All our line of silolines, price 12½c will be closed for 10c per yard. All our large stock of ducklings, regular price 15c per yard, cut to 11c per yard. We must reduce our stock of dress goods and to do that we will during the month of February offer all these goods as follows.

Our $1.50 dress goods cut to	$1.25 yd
.. 1.25	1.00 yd
.. 1.0075 yd
.. .7560 yd
.. .6045 yd
.. .5038 yd
.. .4535 yd
.. .4030 yd
.. .3525 yd

Our 12½ and 15c towels will be closed at 10 and 12c. We have several bolts of red and white Damask to close at 20c a yard. All these goods will be sold at a loss to us, but we must have room for our large spring stock that is coming, so this is our loss and your gain. Don't miss this chance of a life time. Remember we are giving 1-3 off on all our sweater coats. 1-4 off on all our winter underwear, men's winter leather gloves (above 50c in price) and flannel over shirts.

Our Store is Headquarters for Valentines

We will continue our cut price on 200 sets of dinner plates for this month each day while they last.
Yours for business

THE REDMOND MEAT MARKET

Late Pioneer

ISSAC J. PAGE, Proprietor

I am under the impression that the people of Redmond have been paying too much for their meats so I have decided to lower the prices on most cuts, and my intentions are to handle nothing but first class meats. I believe then with my prices, quality and service it will prove a satisfaction to every one who patronizes me. I have a fresh variety of fish every Friday and Saturday.

Salt Pork, any cut, 14c

This market is under entirely new management.

Which Is Which?

This pretty bride doesn't know, but our head baker does. She should know that he knows and then know enough to phone us.

Snake Killing Ants.

It is difficult to believe that ants will kill snakes, but such is the case, and scientists have discovered that in certain regions this class of reptile has no more persistent enemy. The large red-brown forest ants are the most im- placable, and a curious thing about the attack of these tiny creatures on the reptiles is that they kill it for food and not on account of natural antipathy. When some of these ants catch sight of a snake they arouse the whole community at once. In platoons and bat- talions the little fellows set upon it, striking their "nippers" into its body and eyes at thousands of points at once. So rapidly is this done that the snake has no chance of escaping. He soon becomes exhausted and dies igno- miniously. The ants then tear off the flesh, gradually stripping off the skin and working inside it. Not until they have carried away everything except the bones and the skin do they abandon their prey.

When "Lloyd's" Was a Coffee House.

The man who gave his name to the great maritime institution, Lloyd's, was not, as might be supposed, a finan- cier or a shipowner, but only a humble coffee house keeper. Of his history nothing is known save that he kept a coffee house in Lombard street at the beginning of the eighteenth century, which, from its proximity to the Royal Exchange, came to be a favorite assem- bling place of the underwriters. The first mention of his house occurs in a poem, "The Wealthy Shopkeeper," pub- lished in 1700:

Then to Lloyd's coffee house to go he never fails

To read the letters and attend the sales. In 1710 Steele dated some numbers of the Tatler from Lloyd's, and Addison also makes mention of the coffee house in the Spectator.—London Chron- icle.

Flying Fish.

Flying fish swim in shoals varying in number from a dozen to a hundred or more. They often leave the water at once, darting through the air in the same direction for 200 yards or more, and then descend to the water quickly, rising again and then renewing their flight. Sometimes the dolphin may be seen in rapid pursuit, taking great leaps out of the water and gaining upon his prey, which take shorter and shorter flights, vainly trying to escape, until they sink exhausted. Sometimes the larger sea birds catch flying fish in the air. The question whether the flying fish use their fins at all as wings is not fully decided. The power of flight is limited to the time the fins re- main moist.

Bright Boy.

"What is your name, little boy?" queried the street car conductor of a small passenger who was traveling alone.

"Willie Jones," was the reply.

"What's your name?"

"John Wood," answered the conduct- or.

"Wood!" exclaimed the little fellow. "Why, I thought wood was a noncon- ductor."—Chicago News.

Inherited, as it Were.

Professor—Yes, sir, your daughter is pretty well grounded in French, but it will, of course, take some time and trouble for her to acquire fluency. Fa- ther—Well, you know, that's rather strange to me. I had an idea that the fluency would have come sort of natu- ral to her.—Exchange.

A Blase Kid.

"Do you love your parents, Reg- nald?"

"Oh, yes!"

"And why do you love your parents, Regnald?"

"Oh, it's the conventional thing!"—Louisville Courier-Journal.

His Position.

"What was at the bottom of that fight between Thompson and Jim- pson?"

"Jimpson was till Thompson was pulled off."

Then Every One Laughed.

"Yes," said a man who had just nar- rated a funny story, "it was enough to make a donkey laugh! I laughed till I cried!"

Greatness lies not in being strong, but in the right using of strength.—Beecher.

Landseekers Coming

"The arriving colonists cannot even afford to pay fruit land prices. The class we are seeking and the class that will come is composed of farm- ers, who are prepared to go on the small farms as gardeners, poultry raisers, hog raisers, etc.; men who succeeded in farming under average conditions elsewhere and who can succeed here under our very favor- able conditions."

The Portland Commercial Club has asked all commercial organiza- tions to send, at once, details of the farm lands that will be avail- able at reasonable prices in large and small tracts, that it may be able to direct colonists with cer- tainty from its office in Portland to places where they may go and set- tle with favorable opportunities to make homes and to farm success- fully.

The first colonists will begin to arrive in Oregon about March 4. The colonist travel will reach its height about the middle of March and will continue until about the middle of May.
