Recent Fire Victims Are all

Doing Business Ex-

did not take the business men who were burned out in the fire on the night of Feb. 27th long to get their business again in new locations. The present, W. H. Hobbs, the grocer and cash grocer, will occupy the building on the corner of Sixth and D streets. He has bought a new oven and will be baking bread and selling groceries probably by the time this issue of the paper is published.

Wright & Delmore, the furniture and second-hand dealers, were in a building the next day after the fire. They are located in the store on the corner of Sixth and E streets.

The Spokesman is occupying temporary quarters in the building formerly used by Theo. Herkner as a dress shop. The office will remain there until the Anderson stone building is completed, and then be moved to the new building.

The Spokesman will not install any of the heavy machinery in the present building, except a job printing outfit. In the meantime the paper is being printed by the American Type Foundry Co., at Portland, and will so continue to be for at least four or five weeks.

Newspaper to Be

In At Sisters.

The Spokesman is informed from a reliable source that a newspaper is soon to be established at Sisters. The town has been canvassed in the interest of the project and has received much favor from the citizens there and surrounding country.

Prohibit Dances

At Albany

Public dances are a thing of the past in Albany. The city council has passed an ordinance making it unadvisable to give a public dance in the city, defining a public dance as one which is advertised.

Sidewalks are being laid on a number of the streets in the city in compliance with a recent order of the city council. When the work is completed Redmond will have several miles of walks.

Messrs. Brewer and Dobson, who some time ago bought the D. I. P. building, on the corner of Sixth and D streets, have had a new front put in and made a number of other improvements in the building. W. H. Hobbs will occupy part of the building until his own building is finished, and The C. R. McLellan Co. will occupy the remainder.

H. C. Herrick, formerly in the real estate business here, is now engaged in the same business at Ontario, this state.

Carl Woods has been making some street improvements in front of his Blue Front Livery and Feed Stables on East E street.

J. P. Duckett recently bought from McCaffery & Dennis some residence lots in Sisters, and also some land near the town for his saw mill, which he will soon put in operation. Mr. Duckett has bought a number of million feet of timber in the vicinity of Sisters, and will begin manufacturing a good grade of lumber in a short time. He is a saw mill and lumber man of many years' experience, and thoroughly understands every branch of the business.

Ernest C. Smith, of Hood River, Republican candidate for district attorney, was here Sunday evening, on his way to Prineville.

Huckley Bros. are running a bus and from the Hotel Redmond and the depot. They meet all trains, and give patrons of the hotel the best of attention and accommodation.

The Catholic church that is being built in the northeastern part of the city is well along toward completion. Bevard & Gant, the contractors, are pushing the work along as fast as possible.

Rev. Crenshaw made a trip to Sisters this week in the interest of establishing M. E. services there at stated times during each month.

Isaac J. Page's Redmond Market, in its new location, presents an attractive appearance, and the proprietor is filling the place with a lot of good goods usually carried in an up-to-date market.

W. E. Young's Redmond Grill is doing an immense business these days. The people are getting the habit of eating there, and the Eats that Bill hands out at a moderate price are giving the best of satisfaction.

J. E. Freeberg, of the Freeberg Bros. general merchandise store, returned last Friday night from a several months' sojourn at his old home in Bartlett, N. D. He was called there by the serious illness of his father, who has somewhat recovered his health, though even now in a precarious condition. Mr. Freeberg stated the weather in North Dakota had been intensely cold this winter, and that he was glad to get back to this section of Oregon where the weather could not be beaten for salubrity and vigor in the ozone.

W. G. Phoenix is building two modern 5-room bungalow cottages on the corner of C and Fourth streets.

The person who took the big steel kettle from the ruins of the Hobbs' building is kindly asked to return same to Mr. Hobbs at his place of business on the corner of Sixth and D streets.

Miss Mildred Whitney is office assistant at Wheeler's plumbing and sheet metal works.

Sam Miller, traveling passenger agent of the N. P. R. R., and also city ticket agent at Vancouver, Wash., was in Redmond the fore part of last week, looking after business for his road. Mr. Miller is an old time printer, and extended his sympathy to The Spokesman editor over his recent fire loss.

March this year came in like a lion, and brought a snow storm along as a side line. The snow did not last long, although the weather has been some frosty and crimping on the edges, especially during the nights.

W. H. Wilson and wife arrived here from Valdez, Alaska, last Friday night, and will remain for some time. Mr. Wilson has large property interests in Redmond and vicinity, and is now figuring on putting up an opera house on his property on Sixth street between E and F streets.

Wilbur A. Stevens was here from Terrebonne last Saturday proving up on his land before U. S. Commissioner Hewitt.

A store is not well advertised if any great number of people can go through a day in this town without having that store brought to their minds or attention in some way.

If your store was ever big enough to justify a full page advertisement it has surely not become so small that a column ad is adequate publicity for it.

The warm sunshiny weather Sunday took off all the snow that was on the ground from the Saturday storm.

It is understood that Fry & Dobson, real estate dealers, will soon occupy a building to be put up two doors from the corner of Sixth and D streets—to occupy the vacant space between the old D. I. & P.

COLUMBIA SOUTHERN PROJECT UP AGAIN

State Puts This Irrigation Scheme in Portland Man's Hands

The following dispatch from Salem dated March 1, will be of interest to people living in this section:

With the state now in control of the defunct Columbia Southern project, there is a possibility that this project may be the one the next Legislature will decide to try out under the state irrigation project plan which Governor West has advocated.

The board today agreed to let Alma D. Kratz, of Portland, take charge of the project for the remainder of the year during the next irrigating season. In consideration for Kratz' bearing the expenses to keep the water on the project, the board will at any time before the next Legislature meets, allow Kratz to enter into a permanent contract to carry out the work, providing he shows that he has ample financial backing, but if he fails to do so before the next session, then it is highly probable that Governor West will go forward and submit to the legislators his plan for developing a state project.

The last chapter in the history of the ill-starred Columbia Southern project was written for the present at least when the Desert Land Board today decided to cancel the contract in accordance with the agreement of December 30, 1909, it being shown that the Oregon-Washington & Idaho Finance Company has been unable to complete arrangements for financing the scheme.

On December 15, the finance company executed an agreement giving to the State of Oregon all of the rights of the Columbia Southern project, the deed so executed being placed in escrow to be delivered to the board upon receipt of a letter from the board ordering such delivery. The finance company was given until today to make a report showing that it would be able to finance the project, but this it appears it was unable to do.

As a result the board will call upon the company holding the deed in escrow to make immediate delivery to the Governor.

The project involves 31,700 acres located in Crook county on the west side of the Deschutes river, near Laidlaw.

Increasing Business Due to Advertising

One of the successful business men of the city, and whose business is constantly increasing, is J. H. Mendenhall. He handles a fine line of confectionery, news, books, musical instruments, cigars and tobaccos, and he attributes the successful growth of his business, in a large measure, to advertising. Mr. Mendenhall is a constant and persistent advertiser in The Spokesman, occupying one of the best and highest priced positions in the paper. He believes in letting the public know he is in business and what he has to offer them for sale.

Water Notes

At the meeting of the city council last Friday night the water works question was practically settled, and it is expected that work on the system will begin in a short time.

The Portland contractors are ready to begin work as soon as the material is shipped in, and then the work will be rushed to completion as fast as possible. The reservoir will be constructed at Forked Head Butte, 2 1/2 miles south of the city, and water pumped from the main Pilot Butte canal. The cost of the system will be in the neighborhood of $27,000, the amount for which the city is bonded for.

on Fifth, Sixth and Seventh streets, and 4-inch mains on Third, Fourth, Eighth and Ninth streets. A normal pressure of 84 pounds to the square inch will be maintained, and this can be increased to 135 pounds for a fire pressure. A sufficient number of fire hydrants will be installed to amply protect the business and residence sections of the city.

For Sheriff

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the Republican nomination for sheriff, subject to the approval of the Republican voters at the primaries April 19, 1912.
