W. L. Powers, one of the committee to formulate plans to perfect a potato growers' association, reported as to what progress had been made and asked for authority to go ahead with the work. He was authorized to continue the work along the lines he had started out on. He made an interesting talk on the subject of a good working organization.

Mayor Jones, chairman of the committee on Potato Show Day, stated his committee was working out plans for the second annual show. He said the railroads deemed it advisable to hold the show late in October. He further said about $500 in cash and prizes would be needed to make the affair a success, and that the railroads had agreed to give valuable first prizes. His idea was to hold a two or three days' event, and include other products aside from potatoes.

TRIBUTE PAID TO LOUIE LONG

AN UNUSUAL STUNT IS PULLED OFF AT BOXING BOUT AT TACOMA

One of the most unusual stunts was featured in the bout last night ever pulled off at a boxing contest between Eddie Marino and Johnny O'Leary at the Tacoma Athletic club's smoker, says the Tacoma Ledger. Out of respect for Louie Long, who was shot and killed one year ago the 1st of this month, the match was stopped one minute in the first round.

When Timekeeper Tom Armstrong sounded the bell after the boys had been at it one minute the club members were at a loss to understand why the round had been cut so short. This was explained to them when Harry Andrews, secretary of the club, climbed into the ring and delivered the following nice little address:

"Gentlemen and Fellow Club Members: This match will be stopped one minute in this round out of respect for Louie Long, who was shot and killed one year ago today in Oregon. Long was one of the whitest and gamest little boxers that ever lived."

It was a nice little tribute. The two boxers walked slowly to their corners. As Eddie Marino hung his head a single tear rolled down his cheek. He and Long had been great friends, pals, notwithstanding they had met in the ring at least twice the writer knows of. And each time they fought for all they were worth.

The shooting of Long is still fresh in the memory of Tacoma fans. He was killed by a man named Riley near Redmond, after an exciting automobile chase from Opal City. Riley came upon Long while he was stooping over the rear wheel of his machine adjusting a tire. Louie was shot in the back twice. He closed in on Riley and was gamely fighting for his life when the latter held the gun against his back when they clinched and fired again, killing him. Riley was convicted of man slaughter and was sentenced to 10 years.

New Homestead Law

Complying with the provisions of the new three-year homestead law, the commissioner of the general land office is mailing out notices to all homestead entrymen, calling upon them to elect under which law they will make final proof. Unless this election is made prior to October 6, 1912, entrymen will be obliged to prove up under the law under which they made entry. Part of the commissioners' notice reads as follows:

"If you wish to elect to make proof upon your entry under the law under which the same was made, you must give notice thereof within 120 days after June 6, 1912, to the register and receiver of the local land office. This notice must be sent by registered mail, and may not be sent in any other way."

A blank form accompanies the notice for the use of the entryman.

EXPERT GIVES ANOTHER TALK

TALK ON PESTS THAT ARE INJURIOUS TO THE GROWING CROPS

The purpose of this article is to supply the popular demand for information relative to the most effective means of controlling certain rodents and insects injurious to the field crops in this district.

Rabbits seem especially troublesome in young alfalfa and it may be possible to protect small plots in the less developed communities by chicken fencing. Poisoning is a very effective way to combat these rascals. The poison is placed on shingles in the rabbit runs and at field corners. A tea spoon of salt is placed on a shingle and powdered strychnine sprinkled over it, using a quantity equal to half the size of a pea; then moisten slightly and sprinkle a trifle more salt over this.

Sage rats have given considerable trouble, and where not too numerous these, like the rabbits, may be shot. Early in the season they will eat grain that has been poisoned with strychnine. Dissolve 1 eighth ounce of strychnine sulfate in two quarts of soft water, sweeten slightly and soak the grain in this forty-eight hours, after which it should be dried before putting out. The most effective treatment that we have found at this time of year is carbon bisulfide. Pour about a tea spoon of this poisonous liquid on some absorbent, as a dry piece of horse dung, roll it down the burrow and plug up the holes. This liquid vaporizes quickly and the gas formed being heavier than air, settles downward, suffocating all animal life confined. CAUTION: The gas from carbon bisulfide will explode, and all flames or pipes must be kept away.

Little red ants are very destructive and have been known to destroy as much as one acre in twenty of grain. Early and frequent discing and continued cultivation exposes and kills these, and they are also very sensitive to odors, so that burying the absorbent saturated with carbon disulfide in ant hills will be very effective in destroying this pest. Pouring about a table spoon of kerosene into each hill is a very cheap and effective means of killing these ants. They may also be trapped by burying bottles in their mounds so the top of the bottle is flush with the surface.

Wire worms are hard, smooth, cy-
