OLD CUSTOMS THAT STICK.

Blotting Sand in the Senate and Quill Pens in the Supreme Court.

Oddly enough, though blotting paper has elsewhere displaced all other forms of drying ink and is extensively used in the senate by the senators as they write on their desks, the blotting paper being attached to a device with a handle to it and hung by a string from the desk, the old type of drying ink by means of sand still is permitted to such as care to use it.

The desk of every senator has a sand duster or pounce box, resting in a hole in the top of the desk, looking like an inkwell. The box resembles a pepper shaker, and they are used, for many of the old senators prefer to pour sand on their ink rather than blot it.

The supreme court also holds fast to some practices almost out of use today in front of the rostrum on which the justices sit and in the space reserved for members of the bar are two long tables for the books and the sheepskins of the lawyers which may be needed by them as they present their cases to the court. On the tables are steel pens, blotters and bottles of ink, but also to be had is a collection of newly cut quill pens, fashioned by one of the attendants of the court, and they are used, for many of the older practitioners prefer them to the steel pens of this day.—Washington Cor Boston Advertiser.

LEGEND OF JERUSALEM.

Charity of Two Brothers Led to the Founding of the Temple.

Once, so runs the legend, there lived in far Judaea hills two affectionate brothers tilling a common farm together. One had a wife and a household of children; the other was a lonely man. One night in the harvest time the older brother said to his wife: "My brother is a lonely man. I will go out and move some of the sheaves from my side of the field over on his so that when he sees them in the morning his heart will be cheered by the abundance." And he did.

That same night the other brother said to his workmen: "My brother has a household and many mouths to fill. I am alone and do not need all this wealth. I will go and move some of my sheaves over on his field so that he shall rejoice in the morning when he sees how great is his store." And he did.

And they did it that night and the next in the sheltering dark. But on the third night the moon came out as they met face to face, each with his arms filled with sheaves. On that spot, says the legend, was built the temple of Jerusalem, for it was esteemed that there earth came nearest heaven.—Outlook.

Discount For Rent.

When the bachelor maid wrote a check for her rent she looked thoughtful. "What is the matter?" asked her mother. "I am wondering why tenants do not get a discount for cash in ten days. Merchants do. The usual rule in business is a discount of 5 per cent for cash in ten days. New York tenants, on the contrary, are asked to pay their rent thirty days in advance of the time it really is due, and such a thing as a discount never has been heard of so far as I know. Merchants do not pay for goods until they receive them, but we tenants are expected to pay for something we have not had and may never have if, for instance, the premises should burn. I am not much of a political economist. I wonder if some statesman could explain the situation to me—I mean an explanation that would really explain."—New York Press.

Novel Entertainment of 1862.

What was then considered a decided innovation in theatrical circles of the capital occurred during the week of May 26-31, 1862 when an entertainment was given at the Washington theater, on Eleventh street just south of Pennsylvania avenue, consisting of Dr. Colton's lecture on health, varied and punctuated by the administration of "laughing gas," then regarded as a marvel of scientific discovery. Dr. Colton's advertisement read as follows with reference to his exhibition for the special benefit of indies:

"Twelve indies will inhale the gas, and none allowed but the most select. Previous to the exhibition Dr. Colton will deliver a brief lecture on 'How to Preserve the Health.'"—Exchange

The Remedy.

"See how queer that steamer looks!" cried a bystander on a San Francisco dock, according to Out West. "Her propeller is half out of water, and there's five feet below her water line showing."

"Yes, but it's low tide," explained Pat Mulhern, the longshoreman. "Wait a bit till the tide comes in, and all that'll be covered up again."

Resemblances.

Fogg—I told Bass what you said—that he reminded you of a giraffe because he held his head so high. Fenderson—And what did he say? Fogg—He said you reminded him of an ass. Fenderson—Because why? Fogg—Because you are one, he said.

A Farsighted Girl.

"I will work night and day to make you happy," he said. "No," she answered thoughtfully; "don't do that. Just work during the day and stay at home at night."

Leave Memory Behind.

Architect (enthusiastically)—When you get into the new house you won't know yourselves. Mrs. Newrich—Excuse me; it will be other people we don't know.—Boston Transcript.
